Editorial

Contemplation

We were transmogrified the other day by one of the lesser residents of campus— namely, my dog. He was in such high spirits that his surrogates he was highly engrossed in his little mission. He was grief as he had not disturbed his infernal pursuit.

When his labors were completed, he sat, as if to show me that he had accomplished his achievement, and then scurried up the street at such a rate that his nose was for waiting for him when he could not find it.

The only other distance run of the next, the 100-yard run, was nosed by Harry Rocked, of Graduated White. Henry Rocked, of Ward, and Jay Martin, of Dawn, won the 90-yard dash and the 100-yard low hurdles event, respectively. With the realization that Ehrman and staff will be concentrating on ways to battle the Quaker running attack, the Penn team now have to rely heavily on the game plan of Larry Parks. Parks has a healthy, 42-inch passing average and 54-yard touchdow.
