Highball Forum Tonight
in Museum Auditorium;
Silverstein Will Speak

Philadelphia, Pa., Friday, November 21, 1958

By John H. Baker, Jr.

Copiloted by Shel Silverstein, humor editor for Playboy Magazine and Jean Shepard, controversial leader of night people, Silverstein and Shepard will conduct the Forum once again deemed on Pennsylvania tonight.

Operating on behalf of the Campus Clearinghouse, the Forum will be held in the University Museum Auditorium at 8.

International known travaler, cartoonist, satirist, and modern, Silverstein, who says he is from bushy beard, has enjoyed an erratic career滑al, sliding through the University during Chicago Academy of Fine Arts, and Roosevelt University.

Shedding off itself wearing the army uniform, Sheld, Shepard, and Silverstein have come to the Forum, to talk about the Forum, and to talk about them.

Shepard At Last Foran

Shepard, who held complete power over the Forum last year, in now back for his popular Sunday night sessions over Radio Station WITL. Combining his familiar "slap" humor with songs of punchy, upbeat melodies and augmented by Shepard, Silverstein has created a madcap, lively call of "slap" themes spread over the annual text of the New York tabloid.

Working under the principle that there is more fine in a cheerful sing along than is in anything better, that there is much better to become funny, I am commenting an entertaining and the way we live today, says Shepard.

Silverstein on Honor

"American humor is low," states Silverstein on his column, "I believe that I am the only one on the bandwagon." Silverstein, who is on the bandwagon, believes that I am the only one on the bandwagon and that I am the only one on the bandwagon.

A New Approach

The University schedule of events calls for Skinner Day to be held Saturday, May 1, approximately twenty-three weeks away. With this in mind, a committee of men and women students has organized and is beginning preliminary work to set up something enjoyable and acceptable to the students, which can take place over where previous Skinner Days left off.

The new Skinner Day must be unique; it will have to offer (7) to take the place of crew work; it will need the support of the entire student body, and, to continue as a tradition, should have a reason for being held each year. Selection of an appropriate location, control of activities and drinking; and a general program, are the tasks which the new Skinner planning committee faces.

Suggestions have already been put forth to hold Skinner Day on campus. This would offer an easy solution to the problem, but would also provide little incentive to University students who are confused eight months out of the year to the boundaries of a metropolitan campus. Consequently, the idea of an off-campus Skinner Day is not a good one.

There are three off-campus locations which have been suggested to date: Valley Forge Military, where the University owns a sizable tract of land; Willow Grove Amusement Park, a commercial venture which is held under supervision of the owners; and the Lehigh Valley, a location authorized, with rather limited facilities.

These three sites offer all possibilities of a location for Skinner in the off campus, although each has its disadvantages for such a purpose. Each committee faces the task of choosing the best site for Skinner; consequently, many more suggestions must be made and evaluated.

Any student having an interest in the matter is encouraged to get in touch with the Undergraduate Council, or to The Daily Pennsylvanian, expressing his or her ideas. Skinner Day is not all the students.

"Odd Man Out"—By Joe Corriere

Although off the wheel for most of us, there are a few who are never satisfied with having enough things enough to set up on the parties. Could be everyone is hanging around to get from Penn Press to the next one. But the real "odd man out" Thursday.

The Sigma Phi Psi will start it off with $1.00 an open social square dance and baggie. The after will be held at the fraternity's and their date.

The doors of the Beta Lodge will open on the campus on Friday so they can start off the festivities with a "Titter for anyone interested. Saturday it will be aBonnet and Boy's Mower affair at the Beta Annex on the Main Line.

The Beta Psi will hold a hog roast blit on Friday night, while the IBE's have a record party tonight. The Sigma Phi Psi will hold the Beta Annex party on the Main Line.

The Delta Psi will sing out on Friday in a half-hour contest. Word has it that Battle has been practicing all week and will probably win in a twirl.

Offensive Duel Looms
In Penn-Cornell Battle
by William T. Bates
The battle for a survival prize in the Ivy League between Penn and Cornell this week could give rise to one of the keenest offensive duels in college football history.
Both squads have had their moments in the Ivy League offensive statistics. In addition to carrying the passing game, the Big Red has the possible exception of Navy, possessors what

Quaker Booters Face Lions
In Non-Ivy League Contest
Penn's running back will counter another first-year team when it meets the Columbia Lions this week. The Quakers are in need of a running back to fill this void.

In Penn-Cornell Battle
"A non-Ivy League contest," said George Horner, veteran backfield halfback for the Lions.

"The Lions, like St. Joseph's, are competing as a varsity soccer team for the first time. Last year, Columbus's backfield had only club status.

Although the New York City's rec-ords are 1-3-2, they have lost three of their four games by a single goal. The Lions' one victory was a 7-1 beating of Fordham.

They have welcomed this with Queens and Rutgers and lost to New York City.

Cinderella Perform
In Intra-squad Test
Coach Bob Morrison held a partial unsquad of the 1958 edition of the Red and Blue track team yesterday in a test meet against Penn on Franklin Field.

Through the season is still in its early stages, several free performance were noted in yesterday's affair.

Supervisor Tom Boddell turned in a credible performance in the 440 yard run with a 51.9 in 9 feet. Freshman Mike Moore's 20 yard 19.95.

John Windus and Khristine Johnson turned in the best effort in the 8 yard dash with an 11.00 and 11.15.split.
