Annual Help Week Schedule To Benefit Crippled Children

This year, as in past years, the Interfraternity Council, the Oraptophelels and the African Americans will jointly present Help Week, which will start March 7.

Designed to provide a means through which the fraternity can contribute to the welfare of the community around them, the drive will be for the benefit of the Crippled Children's Association.

Fleets from each house will be located in the main shopping area of the university and the downtown business district.

The goal of the Help Week is to collect $50,000, which will be used to purchase equipment and facilities for the crippled children.

The drive will be open to the public and all contributions are welcome.

The committee is urging the student body to support Help Week in order to reach the goal.

English Dept.
Plans Revision Of 2 Courses

by John H. Delks, Jr.

The English department has announced that English 130 and 140 will be dropped next year and supplanted by a more interesting background in English literature.

Required Courses

As before, students in the College of arts and sciences will be required to take an English composition course and English literature course.

The content of English 100 and 101 has remained the same as the currently taught 190, 140, Dr. Charles F. B. Stabler, chairman of the English department, stated that the courses are homogeneous and that the new courses and subjects have been designed to improve the interesting background in English literature.

English 100

English 100, which will be the first course to be devoted to a study of English, and English 140, which will be a survey of English prose, literature, and history.

Dr. Stabler also stated that there will be no major change in the English 100 course.

These changes, Dr. Stabler said, will be made in the interest of maintaining a balanced and informative program. He added that the new courses will be the first step in the history of the language itself.

English 140

For the first time in a freshman course, a course material will be left up to the discretion of the instructor.

This will be the first change in the English 100 course, which has been stated as standard in all English literature courses.

Mysterious Marauders Muss Highballer's Hallowed Hovel

by James P. Kartell

Storage things are happening and it seems that the night people are the only ones who are getting anything accomplished.

Last Wednesday night at the whistling hour, a band of beings in cloaks and capes made their way to the Franklin Building and unobserved by the campus police.

In the basement of the building, the members of the Marauders met and planned their next move.

Hottel, Peters Host Christmas Tea Today

Dr. A. H. Hottel, dean of women, and George H. Peters, dean of men, will be the hosts at Christmas Tea to be held from 4 to 6 this afternoon in Burnett Hall. Faculty members, students and members of the administration are cordially invited to attend. Entertainment will be provided by the Men's and Women's Glee Clubs, which will present a seasonal program.

* Group Hatred

Distribution of prejudiced propaganda under guise of "national education" is not a new development. Nor is it a phenomenon confined to the public schools. We have long been aware of its activities directed at college professors, since the more elevated college professor would be less susceptible to propaganda, but this in turn is not new and there is no reason to be surprised at it as it is similar to the long-range strategy of all the major intellectuals societies which he normally rejects.

What is disturbing is that the campaign seems to have been stepped up over the past few months, and much of this literature, predominantly anti-Semitic in character, is being distributed on the desks of University professors through the mail from well-financed groups.

Freedom of thought, freedom of speech and the right of groups which we call 'minorities' to associate with one another and express their ideas are protected by the Constitution of the United States. We would wonder, though, how these organizations which specialize in defamation are able to direct their campaign against a group as small as college professors. Very little of such literature finds its way to homes even of individuals who have few in the literature, let alone in the mailing list which has been observed by us.

The only other possibility is that another organization, with legitimate purposes, is serving as a front for groups like the National Economic Council in order to keep the public from associating their work with the group.

Regardless, action must be taken by those who are concerned. People as valorous and sensitive as college professors should take care to see that they are not even indirectly lending their support to their organizations are missing it. Our suggestion is that the University professors themselves determine how they were placed on the mailing list, and take steps to be taken off if they feel that their organization are not worthy of their support.

One way this might be done is to turn such a move into a campaign to encourage an organization by accepting its propaganda release might have the effect of allowing them that their readers are also supporters of these policies and try other types of action to develop their program.

The goals are hostile to intelligent people everywhere.

Friday's decision of the Committee on Senior College Relations that the Susquehanna River steam-boat for Skinner on May 8 and 9 means that Penn again has a third outstanding spring weekend. The endorsement of undergraduate opinion by the Board of Trustees is a recognition on their part of the importance of events like Skinner in the overall educational scheme of the University.

We can hope that this will only be the beginning of better relations between the University and the students. We are sure that the whole body of whom it is a part, so long as they work together, much more can be accomplished.
Diplomats’ Matmen Nip Penn Yearlings 18-16

In the Blue League game, Phil Kappa Sigma’s Kappa Sigma, which topped Phi Gamma Delta last week, will take on Theta Xi. This will be the first contest for the latter team. The second game will have Phi Sigma Kappa meet against Tau Delta Phi. Both these teams lost their first games. In the other game, Alpha Chi Rho, victorious in their early game, will meet Phi Gamma Delta, and Tau Epsilon Phi meets Phi Upsilon Psi.

In the first Blue League game of the evening, Phi Kappa Psi versus Delta Psi. Both freshman were defeated in their opening contests. Delta Psi defeated Phi Kappa Psi and SAM called out Delta Psi. In the second game, Phi Kappa Alpha meets Sigma Chi Phi. This was defeated by the highest margin of the evening, 60-18, followed by Delta Psi, Alpha Chi Rho and Delta Chi Rho. In the 100 contest, while Sigma Chi Rho meets Alpha Chi Rho in the "Blue League finals."

Diplomats’ Matmen Nip Penn Yearlings 18-16

The diplomatic matmen, including Penn’s strong back by Lieutenant John Patterson, D-1, at the 157 division, Dennis Whaley and Fred Haslau who won the last two matches by falls, but had only three points, were the only two of UM’s 16 wrestlers who won.

Three Twinbills At Palestra

The basketball action picks up on the Palestra floor this week, with three doubleheaders, all in advance of the final Saturday night, before the finals for the Christmas holidays.

Wednesday night, the Lafayette opponent, directed by former Big Nine coach, Dr. W. B. Moore, enters one of the top teams in the nation, North Carolina State. The second contest will feature the opening of UM’s five competition this year as Villanueva from Hunley Lawhorne’s Tournament.

At 7:00 on Friday night, the Temple Owls, led by All-American candidate Phil “Pickle” Kennedy, are keyed by Mahaffey. The Owls are led by 6’5” “Swooner” Kennedy of I-I and I-2 Steve Mathis, both former star athletes from Brooklyn’s James Madison."
