Houses May Hold Eight Small Stag Pre-Rush Parties

by Edward Farman

The Interfraternity Council has voted that desired houses may hold a maximum of eight informal stag parties with non-member guests in attendance prior to the formal rush period with the stipulation that they be duly recorded with the Council Rush Committee.

By limiting the location of these parties to places which are not specifically rented for rush purposes and by prohibiting all other covert meetings between men and women, the measure is designed to put an end to the uncontrolled and hedonistic habits which frequently lead to hold unpopular pre-rush parties. These affairs are now illegal.

Previous attempts to legislate against pre-rush parties originally proposed as a constitutional amendment were finally passed as a rule when it did not receive the three-fifths majority required for the acceptance of an amendment.

It was found that a party committee which was chosen to write a measure which would clearly delineate a program of contact between fraternity men and rushers after a long debate, the rule was passed last Thursday night. Gov. B. L. Monjour, president of the Council, was able to formulate the necessary policy which prompted the Council's recent actions in regard to pre-rush parties.

Rushing Policy Stated

He said, "The policy of the Interfraternity Council is that pre-rushing or formal-pre-rushing is to be reduced to the extent of informal rushing by eliminating country club and after extravaganza parties, and by providing enough entertainment to discourage drinking."

"The Council is endeavoring to develop a fair and equitable program which will encourage normal social interaction between fraternity men and rushers."

Both the amendment and the by-law will take effect with the opening of school in September if they are first approved by the Undergraduate Council and the Committee on Student Affairs.

Ike Chooses Gates As Defense Deputy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thomas Gates Jr., retiring secretary of the Army, was picked today as the new deputy secretary of defense.

He will be the late Donald Quarles' deputy.

Gates had planned to return to private business at the end of this month. Instead, he has already shadowed Gates in the Defense Department.

He will be the third man to be named to succeed Neil K. McElroy as secretary of defense in the administration. Gates is an active member of the Army Reserve and has been active in the reserves since 1930. He will be 68 years old.

He is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, class of 1927. His grandfather, Thomas Sev ãvier Gates, was President of the University of Pennsylvania.

A 55-year-old Republican, Gates announced his plans to step down from his position in the Navy last January. Eisenhower picked the undersecretary, William Franke, to succeed him.

Gordon, Cohen, Miss Babcock Given Debate Council Honors

by Harry S. Satlow

The University Debate Council presented its highest award, the Heller Trophy, to outgoing president Howard E. Gordon, and co-editor Edward Cohen at its annual banquet at the Max and Wilma Clubhouse last week.

The Medal was awarded to an extraordinary, outstanding debator, who has made himself known to the public in the United States.

The Council also presented its Outstanding Debater of the Year award to Miss Babcock, the winner of the Florida Debate Association's Junior Debate of the Year.

The Heller Trophy is presented annually to the two graduating seniors who have done most for the University, who have been an "extrremely able" council president in the words of advisor Dr. G. W. Thum, and Cohen, who is one of the best of the council's history, who has been a member of the University Debating team.

The Council has held 156 debates during the 1959-60 season, as opposed to 74 over the previous year. It placed second in the Butte College National Debate Tournament, and second in the American Debating Tournament at Berkeley.

New Faculty Club Will Hold Informal Reception Monday

James M. Skinner Hall, the new million-dollar home of the Faculty Club, located at the corner of 36th and Walnut Streets, will officially open on Tuesday, May 19th.

The Hall receives its name from the late James M. Skinner, chemical engineering 1911, "Trustee and Benefactor of the University." An informal open house will be held for all eligible to join the Club, Monday from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m.

The building contains four levels, each featuring various facilities for use of members, of which the first floor of the office area, lounge, bar and grill and the Lehigh Room, named for the former faculty club and containing library and lounging facilities.

Dining Area is Divided

The second floor contains meeting rooms, which can easily be used for teas and receptions when necessary. In the basement a recreation room is situated for dishes and card enthusiasts. The entire building is air conditioned by a large unit located on the roof.

The manager of the Club is Carl G. Merrill, vice-president of the Philadelphia Chapter of the National Association of Managers Association of America. He has served as manager of the Brookside Country Club.

Editorial

* An Obligation

In too short a time you, the seniors, will become alumni of a great university which has given you the means for future success. Depending on your individual, your success will be evaluated in terms of monetary, political, academic, scientific or creative criteria.

Your future will be the dividend of a great investment contributed in part by your family and yourself. But more than half of the cost of your college education has been due to generous contributions, individuals, corporations and philanthropic institutions which are benefactors of the University.

We understand that you have attended Penn during the early years of its renaissance. The knowledge of a vastly improved University is one you can in the future work for this institution with those skills which Penn has given to you. It would be unwise if you did not see both your obligation to Penn and the inspiration of a "new" University now in the making.

Over the generous alumni contributions can the University continue its ambitious rate of growth. Only through generous contributions can the University continue to attract philanthropic investment.

For a year, those whom you have elected to be your officers will campaign for funds. At that time you must begin to repay your obligations as have those Pennsylvanians who have gone before you.

Pennsylvania's gifts from alumni ranked ninth in the United States last year. However, the major share of these contributions were large sums donated by individuals. The generous contributions of such alumni classes, approached every year through the Alumni Annual Giving campaign, are not carrying their share of the responsibility.

For a year, only 15 percent of the Class of 1957 began to repay their obligations as alumni through Alumni Annual Giving. The Class of 1957, the largest class of the Class of 1957 who did contribute donated less than $10.

We do not wish to deprecate the amount that is donated by alumni, we do hope that alumni classes of the future participate more widely. Particularly we hope that the Class of 1959 will acknowledge its debt to Penn, its obligation to the nation.

TILL WE MEET AGAIN

This is the last column of my fifth year of writing for Philip Morris and Marlboro. I have made it a custom in the last column of each year not to be funny. I know I have also realized this aim in only many other columns during the year, but that was not for lack of trying. Today I am not trying. I am not trying for two reasons; first, because you are putting really for final exams and in your present state of shock, nothing in the world could possibly make you laugh. And second, this final column of the year is for many of us a leave-taking, and good-byes always make me too misty to be funny.

For me the year ended neither with a bang nor a whimper, but with a gloat—a warm, pleasant, motherly glow—the kind of glow you will find, for example, at the end of a Philip Morris or Marlboro.

Although I am going to saddle the pony and ride to Hollywood, California, I am going to write a series of half-hour television comedies called THE MANY LOVES OF DOUGIE GILLIS, and starting in October, 1959, your friends and mine, the makers of Philip Morris and Marlboro, are going to bring you this program over the Columbus Broadcasting System every Tuesday night at 8:30. Why don't you speak to your housemother and ask her if she'll let you stay up to see it?

Stickmen Trounced By Delaware, 8-3; Ayers Breaks Hand

by Leonard Begun

Despite two early goals by Frank Mann, the Penn lacrosse team (3-3) got a spirited Delaware (0-5) upset at the last minute. The stakes-filled contest ended on River Field.

The contest began as a hard-fought affair for both teams. The Stickmen began the game quickly, with a goal by Capt. Bob Ayers in the first 10 seconds. Mann was the only goal-scorer for the first five minutes.

However, Delaware tied the game when they scored their second goal, this time set up by the Bulkhead defense. The Bulkhead trio of Capt. Bob Ayers, Bob Condlin and Cabot Hume combined to cause confusion in the three-meter line, allowing Ayers to find the open net and score.
