Mammoth Carnival To Climax Campus Chest Week Activities

Campus Chest Week Events To Include Donation, Convassing, Game Booths, Queen Crowning, Alumni Appeals

by Richard F. Kuts

Fifteen thousand dollars is the goal of this year's Campus Chest Week, taking place today through Thursday, November 1, which will be highlighted by the Campus Chest Carnival on Friday night, November 6. The Campus Chest is an annual campaign to collect money for the benefit of both local and nationwide charitable institutions. Last year's drive, which solicited funds for fourteen organizations, was affected mostly through donations from the students, fraternity, sorority, and the canvassing of downtown businesses.

Queen To Be Crowned

The Carnival, at which the Campus Chest Week Drive will climax, will be on a very civic scale, is held in Huston Gymnasium, and features different booths of choices and skill games operated by fraternity, sorority, and other University organizations. This year the entire Take-Out Pino game is being added in an attempt to attract mass participation in the Carnival.

On Saturday afternoon, the Annual Alumni Homecoming Game will be played against Yale, and various activities, including a picnic for alumni such as a part in the Carnival, will be held.

Talkathon Planted

The WSPN Talkathon will also be assisted with the Drive and approximately fifty continuous hours of student announcements is expected. Last year, great celebrity, including radio, television, night clubs, and other organizations participated in the Talkathon.

Robert L. Frost

The editor of The Daily Pennsylvania, is the general chairman for this year's Drive. In addition to the Drive, the Daily Pennsylvania, will be publishing a series of stories and features to increase audience numbers and interest in the Carnival.

Gisbourne To Effect New Staff Turnover For Student Loans

by Melvin Goldstein

A turnover in staff will place student loans, educational scholarships as well as the student agency in new administrative hands. Gene R. Griswold, vice-president of the University, for student affairs, announced yesterday.

The new assistant director, David Purcell and Stephen Sprouse, have both attended the University and have therefore, according to Douglas H. Davis, director of scholarship and financial aid, "been able to understand problems thoroughly.

Commenting on the loan situation which he handles, Purcell explained that although sufficient time has yet elapsed to formulate a comprehensive picture of the loan situation, it has "already become evident that the near future the majority of University students will be studying on the scholarship plan.

This increased importance of the study situation, Purcell has already inspired action from many students. The federal government, for example, makes up to $1,000 available for loan to any student in need and although, Purcell continued considerable criticism has been created by a loyalty oath qualification, only two students have applied and although, Purcell continued considerable criticism has been created by a loyalty oath qualification, only two students have applied. The criticism, however, have refused to sign this oath.

Along with the federal government, Purcell stated the state, industrial concern, O'Reilly, has made two loans to students where middle class families will find it impossible to make up the difference and who have responded with their own program of micro-practice grants. Last year, for example, approximately 40 corporations in the state had budgeted $9,000 which was divided among 250 students. There are special plans to give to veteran early Wyrms while the Dodgers will meet with Johnny Pesky.

New Free-Contact Rushing Program Proposed By I-F

by Edward Farman

A free contact rushing system was proposed at the annual meeting of the new student council. The system is designed to allow a normal contact between freshmen and seniors, which was closed previously by the Interfraternity Council at a meeting held last week.

Subject to regulations to be set by the council, the New Student Program Committee which will advice the council and system and十月四日, may be allowed to rush in the manner natural to it with the understanding that any practice by which it takes advantage of the other house will be prohibited.

In making the proposal, Greiville L. Ragland, president of the council, said that the system would work only if the individual house is willing to make the contact and the time allowed to spend exorbitant.

The student of these dates were found to be unsatisfactory. The schedule for the Sunday open houses was changed from 5 to 8 p.m. to 5 to 6 p.m.

The original dates of these parties were found to be unsatisfactory. The schedule for the Sunday open houses was changed from 5 to 8 p.m. to 5 to 6 p.m.

The second series of open houses, first scheduled for Homecoming weekend, was held on the following week, October 26. The schedule for the Saturday open houses was moved up to the second day, November 1, remaining unchanged.

COMMISSIONER GIBBONS REPLIES—

Mr. Paul S. Weisberg
Editor-in-Chief
The Daily Pennsylvanian

Dear Mr. Weisberg:

Personally, and on behalf of the entire Police Department, will you please accept my humble apologies for the injudicious wording of our recent warning?

I would like to point out however, Mr. Weisberg that the wording was not the fault of the Department, but was the word description given to the police investigators by Miss Darlington.

I don't believe that anyone on the campus knows better than yourself that the work that I have been doing comes as a result of the relationship between the students and the Philadelphia Police Department, and certainly hope that nothing will be done to mar this relationship.

Again, my humble apologies.

Sincerely,

THOMAS J. GIBBONS
Commissioner of Police

EDITOR, The Daily Pennsylvanian:

In reading this morning’s leading editorial in The Daily Pennsylvanian, "AN OFFER LETTER TO THE COMMISSIONER OF POLICE—", I was somewhat surprised. In my opinion, the opinions expressed in your editorials are somewhat unfair in the remainder of such.

We have, at various times, in the paper and on campus heard unfair references to trials of "Fascist" tendencies, and "The Yankas Peddlar". These slurs have gone unvoiced in all your editorials. A reference has been made to a student of "Jewish appearance", there is an appeal to "right". In reporting the crime in your editorial, you never asked that the attacker and "Danny" looked like University students. How can you say that the attacker and "Danny" looked like University students. How can you say that the attacker is a "spidery Pennsylvania college type", and "The Yankas Peddlar". There are certain traits of a University student, and still deny that there are other traits of a student of physical appearance which are generally attributed to Jews? True, there are traits both in such larger general groups, but we do not have general association in this country with such of these larger groups. Therefore, even though this letter from Jews may not be wholly accurate, we feel that the description of the police was good, but it lacked logic. We believe that if any police officer did not belong to a police officer, it would be a protest against the general description given the police, and that the greatest error was the use of an upper case "J" in the spelling of the adjective "Jewish".

POWER POLITICS

In a recent article in The Saturday Evening Post, "A History of the World" series entitled "World in Revolution," Dr. Stephen Haber argues that the United States in going to the polls to decide between Harold Macmillan and Harold Wilson for Prime Minister of Britain is between two parties which have known government, which the other party has not.

With the British government, which the other party has not, in mind, we are led to think of the United States today on the political. This is not the time for political, or cultural. They may not be as successful in winning the American people as in winning the American people, but they may not be that successful if they don’t want to be. Why don’t they want to be? I don’t know.

Out To Lunch

by Barry L. Deutsch

There is nothing that this noon-toe-lunch game enjoys more than watching Penn beat Princeton in any sport. Unhappily, that particular future of Princeton games has been lost in the last two years. It would be in this-toe-morning meeting between Penn and Princeton in the Ivy League.

The noon-toe-lunch is the first big story of the year. Princeton is looking for a repeat performance over Penn in the Ivy League.

There is no question that the noon-toe-lunch is the first big story of the year. Princeton is looking for a repeat performance over Penn in the Ivy League.

Last year, Princeton beat Penn, 3-1, in the noon-toe-lunch game. This year, Princeton will have to score to beat Penn.

Princeton is not a team that has had its own bounce in previous noon-toe-lunch games. Penn has not had its own bounce in previous noon-toe-lunch games. The home team is expected to have a bounce.

Gridders Anticipate Tiger Strength In Drill

by Michael Brown

Seizing the license to play, the Ivy League championship is commonly observed in the broad back of the Princeton bench. The Pennsylvanian gridders and their bodies to the breaking point on special programs with this week.

Although the play of the squad in the first two games has left little to be desired, the Pennsylvanian gridders are back in form for this week.

The comparative strength of the two backfields is generally considered to be about equal. Although the Ivy League has lost the services of their best back-carrier, Dan Sachs, the excellent backfield depth of the Ivy League will maintain the loss.

Scott Abe Nub for Sachs

When the same situation arose last year, Jack Sullivan and Hugh Scott filled the gap so well that Princeton defeated Pennsylvania by 4-0. Scott went on to become the running leader for Orange and Black. He will be in somewhat the same role this year as he will start the game in place of the injured Sachs.

In a grinding workout in Murphy Field yesterday, Sachs and Hugh Scott also awakened the Pennsylvanian's dormant football attack, with showing good going amid medium-speed opposition from the other backfield.

In effective line with the gridiron battle, the problem of neutralizing the control in the backfield games plays a key role as teams are usually doomed to the dominance of the backfield when a team is to secure a win.

Princeton Also Upset

However, the Penn camp is not the neutralizing unit in the Pennsylvanian backfield games.

The uncertain in Princeton's backfield safely covered by veteran sports writer, Al Schrager, who spoke at a luncheon earlier this week.

"Penn fans by 4," he said, "they'll probably be the fourth Ivy League champ in four years. They really have the goods to turn the reds and we respect the home team." "Penn fans by 4," he said, "they'll probably be the fourth Ivy League champ in four years. They really have the goods to turn the reds and we respect the home team."

If the Pennsylvanian backfield is to be defeated this week, the players will need the goods to turn the reds and we respect the home team."

Doelling Selected To ECAC, Hanlon Wins Maxwell Award

Fred Doelling, Penn's halfback, has been named to the Eastern College Athletic Conference all-East team and has also been selected as the first Ivy League Back of the Week for his outstanding play in the Quaker's 13-7 victory over Dartmouth on Saturday.

Jack Hanlon, End and Blue fullback, received the Maxwell Award for his fine all-around play in Penn's阵容 of Lafayette. The award is given yearly to the finest collegiate football player in the Philadelphia area.

Doelling, the “Mr. Outside” of Penn's strong rushing attack, was the big story on offense for the Red and Blue against the defending champion Indian squad. He tallied both Quaker touchdowbots and rushed the ball 11 times for 80 yards. He was never stopped for a loss by the strong Dartmouth line.

Doelling tallied his first touchdowns on a ten-yard run around end in the second period, and he scored the “clinch” on a 40-yard run around end in the closing minutes of the encounter.

During the course of the afternoon, Doelling became the fifth Penn player to amass 1,000 yards, or more rushing in his career.

Doelling at this week's leading ground gainer for the Red and Blue with 101 yards in 25 carries for an average of 4.0 yards per carry. He also leads the Quakers in scoring with three touchdowns.

DUAL FILTER DOES IT!

It filters as if no single filter can for mild, full flavor!

Tareyton

NEW DUAL FILTER

Here's how the DUAL FILTER does it:

1. It combines a unique inner filter of ACTIVATED CHARCOAL—definitely proved to make the smoke of a cigarette mild and smooth...

2. with an efficient pure white outer filter. Together they bring you the real thing in mildness and fine tobacco taste.
