Conservative Election Victory Explained By High Prosperity, MacMillan's Great Popularity

by Melvin Goldstein

The election of a new Conservative government, which has been called the most important election in the history of the United Kingdom, is explained by High Prosperity, MacMillan's Great Popularity.

Unprecedented prosperity for all classes of British society effected the Conservatives' landslide victory, three University experts on foreign policy and the British scene declared to the Daily Pennsylvania last night.

Commenting on the nature of British politics, Mr. Eras-

m. H. Klemann to the Director of the Foreign Policy Research Institute, pointed to the fact that the working class who possess a majority of votes, are in a much healthier state than ever before. They credit it, Mr. Klemann continued, to the Conservative government which has taken them through the difficult years of these past years and has, in the process, gained their confidence.

Dr. Henry Wells, associate professor of political science, stated that this was the first unqualified election in the British history that had the word 'sanation' in it. Mr. Klemann has made himself in the line, where all-l

Tigers’ Den

Inside Princeton

By Barry Sallow; Photos by Charles E. Hansing

One thing impresses the midweek visitor to Princeton above all else. That is caution. Princeton is quiet, Princeton is studious, Princeton is modest, but first of all, Princeton is cau-

This caution is seen in the clothes the men wear, as it is in their attitude toward activities. During the week coat and tie are the exception on the Princeton campus. Most Tigers wear khakis and dress shirts with sweaters rolled up, some wear blue jeans and some beret- nass, but khakis are the general rule. Even in the offices of The Daily Princetonian, the only man with a tie was editor-in-chief Don Kromer.

Toward extracurricular activities also their caution approaches equitably. "Whip-Club is sponsoring a debate before the Princeton Senate tonight, if you’re sure to be, Kramer told us. "There’ll be about 20 people there." Whip-Club is the catch-all political and forensics organization and has about 600 members, “but only about 20 are active.” The Daily Princetonian itself seems to be under-

Relaxed, blue-jeans editor who in Tiger-Hunter Magazine offices and discusses Princeton campus life. "I’ll be damned if I’ll allow any freshmen on the street.”

...staffed, and besides having no symbol of recognition, enjoys little of the prestige that The Daily Pennsylvania has it. "We’re going to get tired. We started to talk about it last year, but everybody was against it," Kramer added. Yet, paradoxically, the Princetone makes a profit at ten cents a copy and "Nearly everybody needs the Princetone." The same club, to which about 95% of the upperclassmen belong, don’t push members into activities or exercise any power over them.

There is a relaxed air about the whole campus, eating clubs included. When we “caught” a man in Ivy, the club, in coat and tie (and the inevitable khaki) he apologized for being "fomal, but we’re going to Philadelphia to play Harvard’s in soccer. We usually put on only the tie for that." The sixteen eating clubs which line the street.

(Prospect Street) favorite picking point for three-looking for a home of tradition, are no longer at any university house, but home some are downgrade, as one or two houses are apt to be at other institutions. Recreation? Maybe. At any rate the days of the 10% Bicker are over. This system for selecting members of the clubs is no longer bunched by having to find a place for every second semester sophomore who wants to belong.

What is essentially a selective system is being relaxed. A lack of hazing is an important part, and faculty or administrative approval is required by the student body to admit a new member. In this way, each club, according to Kramer, can pick its own members, and this procedure is followed by the 95% of the upperclassmen who are members of the Princeton community.

The atmosphere of the street is maintained by the fact that the students do not mix with the Harvard students. The Harvard students are the producers of the Bicker, and the Princeton students are the consumers. However, the two schools are not entirely separate, as the students at Princeton are members of the Harvard community and vice versa. This is a problem that the two schools are working on, and it is hoped that the two schools will be able to make a compromise.

The street is lined with the homes of the students, and it is a place where the students can relax and enjoy themselves. The street is a place where the students can feel at home, and it is a place where they can be themselves.

Articulate architect student, one of few married men at Princeton discusses his dream of building some and gives impressions of life there.

allowed to return to true sobriety. The membership will eventually drop to about 20%, which is just about right,” said the "formal" gentleman in Ivy. Wilson Lodge has taken a lot of the men, and when the new quadrangle is finished, it will make away with more. Interfraternity? "No, I don’t think there’s much. Some guys just don’t belong."

"We have a lot of things, but we have them differently. The senior class president is a real, but with someone less outstanding it could make a difference."

Another impressive thing is the atmosphere of the school. We invited a dorm room and found two men sleeping—not playing cards, not tossing the bull, not listening to records, but studying: "You’ll find that with all the makeup of this, most of the men study the bull during the week and play like hell on weekends," one of them said.

An architecture student sitting under a tree drawing a building put it this way: "Princeton is one of the greatest schools in the world. Some guys come up here on a weekend and say Princeton’s a

I have sort of a split personality, I guess. I don't feel like I'm in control of my situation. Everyone else seems to have things figured out, but on weekends, I feel like I'm standing still.

I've been in the dorms, but I don't feel like I'm in control. It's like I'm just going through the motions. I don't want to be here, but I'm stuck.

Don't all of us feel like this sometimes? We all have our moments of feeling lost or alone. It's a part of being human.

British Election Comments

Dr. Atkins, currently an associate professor of physics at the University, was born in Britain and immigrated to the United States in 1951.

Comments on the climate of opinion eight years ago he declared, "certain very distinct elements of discontent were present. It seemed as if it was taking too long to recover from the austerity affected by the war and the post-war situation. General disillusionment and even hostilism existed due to the fact that Britain no longer ruled the world."

"Now," Dr. Atkins contrasted, "the British population accepts their actual position," Thus, he concluded, angry young men of Britain must not content to be disconsolate alone.

It would appear from Dr. Atkins' remarks that the British people today resemble Macmillan in the man who would obtain the maximum advantage for them as they adjust to a situation where they are no longer the supreme power. This further appears in close agreement with Dr. Weil's and Mr. Kliroom's contention that the Con

Tracy Leads Penn Harriers
In Quest Of Second Victory

by Marvin S. Lemon

Hoping for a repeat performance of their season's opening victory over Rutgers, Penn's young cross-country team will take to the trails this afternoon against West Chester, on the Quaker's Cobble Creek course.

Led by their stellar performer, captain Ernie Tracy, who captured first place in the opening Rutgers event, the Quaker runners will be looking to win a solid crosswork for a winning season. Roy Breitinger, last year's outstanding young runner who finished right behind Tracy in the Rutgers race, will be trying to place his first varsity victory.

The team will be hampered by the absence of Dick Lahue, who was a consistent finisher last year, and Bob Harper, who captured a winning position in the opening meet.

Penn will run out of the number three position while sophomore Dick Lanigan and senior Bob Friedlander will be fourth and fifth men respectively as a result of their finishes in the Rutgers meet.

Harry Backman, second man on last year's Freshman team, will round out the varsity distances.

With Charlie Penn returned and this season as a result of their 21-40 victory, over Millersville Technical College. Marvin Bryan broke the tape first for the spartans as he established a school record for the Millersville course.

The West Chester team is being headed by Ken Shulman, who was outstanding as a fresh runner last season in a Mid-Atlantic against the Penn course. Running at Cobble Creek last year in the Middle Atlantic Conference, he took second for fresh runners. He also ran second time last season for Joe Mitchell's most meet season.

Joseph Callinan, Executive Bob Lederman, and co-captain Harry Harvey and Bob O'Hare will round out the West Chester aggregation.

The Quaker fresh runners will compete in their second race of the season on Saturday as they journey to the Hill School where they were victorious 28-29 last year. Coach Bob Morrison has had the fresh running shorter, faster distances as the Hill School course on this is only two miles.

150's Face Cornell,
Seek Opening Win

The 1950 version of Pennsylvania's 150-yard football team opens its season tomorrow at 1:30 in the Meadowlands. Co-captain Chuck Ward and Bruce Keith started for Ross Houser's game the 150's will be facing the best team that have seen here in three years. Coach Dick Heacock, revealing that all the men from last year's Cornell squad will be back, said that the Bucknell would be tough. He also said that Penn's team was much improved over last year, but he balked in giving Bob Morrison's result in the game.

Coach Hartwig will consist of Walt Lawson at quarterback, John Taylor at halfback, Jim Sullivan at end, Danny Ward and Roman Ostpat at guard and Bill Rine at center. The starting backfield will consist of Walt Lawson at quarterback, John Taylor at halfback, Jim Sullivan at end, Danny Ward and Roman Ostpat at guard and Bill Rine at center.

The backbench of the Quaker offense effort, however, is halfback John Jersehan. Using great speed and powerful way team captain has literally faced over the field, keeping back his opponents' side as well as possible.

Princeton, on the other hand, is characterized as having a defense on with little offense. Tigers gave up four goals last last Rutgers. A 2-1 assay, held Haverford to one last but when they faced, 16.

Coached by Jimmy Gere, who was charge of the United States Olympic team this year, Orange and Black hectors has officially arrest center in the person of team captain Bill Barkett, who besides his offense.

When asked how Penn will against the powerful Tigers, he said, "Ravensford beat that bottoming. We'll be to do in the thing. It's all up to the thing.

Offense A Problem As Booters Battle Tiger

"Hustle" is the key word in the strategy of soccer coach, Charles Reit, as he prepares his unfo- grated team for its second league encounter against Princeton, Saturday in New Jersey.

With an upset victory over Dartmouth and a clutch win over Harvard last week under his belt, the team will be facing its second test against the Tigers who have sustained a 1-1 record hereafter.

Still preconditioned with the problem of bolstering a spotty attack, Scott refuses to name his starting eleven until the week's practice sessions end. "McKinley, Scherbon, and Rutin will definitely be in there," the veteran coach said yesterday. As for the other two line positions, they could be filled by any of several candidates.

Compared with the shaky for- ward wall, the backfield prevents a picture of solid confidence. The fullbacks have permit to be trem- endously effective in the position of several candidates. Charlie Kane and Chris MacPherson both have taken much of the pressure of offensive, Bill Caldwell.

Injury-Ridden J.V. Gridders To Meet Tigers Tomorrow

Despite a rash of still-lingerling injuries, Tim Tenterowitz’s hard-wood junior varsity eleven will journey to Princeton tomorrow morning in hopes of displaying the swift, rugged brand of football that was instrumental in its 24-6 sinking of the Cape May Coast-Guardians three weeks ago.

With regular left halfback Joe Eagen, who shared two TD passes against the Guardsmen, and burly first string center Fred Hardace, both definitely slated to be watching tomorrow’s contest from the sidelines, backs Allie Campbell and Tommy Drake, and reserve linemen Jack Evelyn and Bob Miller are certain to see their share of action.

The tentative Quarter starting lineup includes Tony Edge and Joe Markas at the ends, Jody Doyle and Ivy Yamaz at the tackle slots, Bob Fagnoud and Bob Rameau at the guard positions, and either Evelyn or Miller at center. How- ever, Tenterowitz may switch one of his guards or tackles to the center post, with Rameau or Miller standing by to take up the slack.

Dr. Johnson turns another elegant phrase:

Sir, if it hasn’t got it there, it hasn’t got it!

Old Dr. Sam has done it again—brought his dictionary up to date in terms of modern Winston usage.

Winston (win-ston), n. A cigarette with Filter-Blend on one end and a wise man on the other.

Taste (tast), n. What delectable perceptions are carefully selected, then scientifically processed for filter smoking.

Slogan (slo-jin), n. (e.g., Winston tastes good like a cigarette should). A statement of disputed grammar but unquestioned fact.

Front (front), n. Used in conjunction with the preposition “up.” The section of a filter cigarette where it has got it, it hasn’t got it. Also, the section that counts, the section where exclusive Filter-Blend is to be found.

Borswell (bor-sell), Nickname for a guy who is always hanging around to cajole Winstons from you.

“There is nothing which has yet been contrived by man by which so much happiness is produced ...”

"BITE THE HAND"
Edmund Burke first noted that some men will bite "the hand that fed them." But Mark Twain, in "Pudd'nhead Wilson," refined the observation and made it biting: "If you pick up a starving dog and make him prosperous, he will not bite you. This is the principal difference between a dog and a man."

"PRAISE THE LORD AND PASS THE AMMUNITION"
Perhaps the most popular remark to come out of World War II is this exhortation made at Pearl Harbor by Lt. Comm. Howell M. Forgy, a Navy chaplain: "Praise the Lord and pass the ammunition."

"IGNORANCE IS BLISS"
It was Thomas Gray who coined this comforting generalization in behalf of all "D" students. See his "On a Distant Prospect of Eton College": "... where ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise."
