Dr. Manning Seeks Coup In S. Africa

By ELEN KRAFTOW

South Africa needs an overthrow of the existing order and a new rule to be put in its place, according to Professor C. A. W. Manning of the University of London.

Manning, an expert in International Relations at the London School of Economics, Dr. Manning spoke about "The Diplomacy of South Africa," in Houston Hall.

Manning was sponsored by the International Relations Graduate Students Association of the University, said that the whites in South Africa are a privileged class.

They have political power and initiative, and they give out political aid to the oppressed in South Africa to control the capital.

Manning also described the apartheid system as a "clear violation of human rights and international law."

Manning said that the whites believe that the blacks in South Africa are inferior and that they have the right to rule over them.

The whites also believe that the blacks are a "primitive people," and that they should be kept in their place.

Manning said that the whites are deliberately trying to undermine the black people in South Africa.

"The whites are trying to strip the blacks of their rights and to prevent them from gaining power," Manning said. "They are trying to keep the blacks in a state of dependency and to prevent them from becoming politically active."

A Time For Action

Every member of the University community has a stake in the elections for Men's Student Government. It is not only that the MSG has increased in power and influence over the last few years, but also because the change in popular sentiment towards University politics and campus life has been a dominant theme in most of the campus activities over the last few years.

One of the key issues in the MSG campaign this year is the need for a stronger, more active student government. The MSG has been criticized for being too passive and not effectively representing the needs and interests of the student body. The Action group, on the other hand, has been more active in its support of student causes and has been more effective in holding the administration accountable for its actions.

One of the most significant events in the MSG campaign was the sit-in at Sergeant Hall, 34th and Chestnut Streets. This event was a response to the administration's failure to address the concerns of the student body, particularly those related to housing and dietary issues. The sit-in was a clear threat to the administration and forced them to take action.

In light of this, it is clear that the MSG needs to be more active in its role as the official organ of the student body. The MSG must work to ensure that the University administration is held accountable for its actions and that the needs and interests of the student body are taken into account.

Chaos At Berkeley

The University of California at Berkeley is in the midst of a serious crisis stemming from a clash between students and certain governmental officials over the freedom of political participation and action. The controversy has involved faculty members ranging from the most part on the side of the student groups to the government. The movement has been effective in bringing about changes in University policy.

The most recent incident was the sit-in at Sergeant Hall, 34th and Chestnut Streets. This event was a clear threat to the administration and forced them to take action.

The greatest threat to the University is the action of the students rather than the administration. The MSG must work to ensure that the University administration is held accountable for its actions and that the needs and interests of the student body are taken into account.

The Right to Protest

The right to protest is a fundamental right of all students. The MSG must work to ensure that the University administration is held accountable for its actions and that the needs and interests of the student body are taken into account.

Mail Problem Aired
In line of a large number of complaints concerning the new mail system the Board commissioned the Facilities Committee to look closely into the matter. The study is to find what the mails are to do, whether they are doing it and if they are not, what is the reason. If an undue amount of residents are still dissatisfied, the Board anticipates that the committee will see the administration concerning the alteration of the situation.

Great, killed his son, the logical successor to the throne, and Catharina had killed her husband to become the Cozatrix of Russia. Another problem in Soviet leadership took place, he said, when Nicholas II was forced to turn the machinery of government over to the Kerensky Government.

Dr. Rabinstein stated, "The Deposition of Khrushchev represents a Soviet election." He noted that just weeks before Khrushchev's removal the State Department had released a study claiming that Khrushchev was a firmly entrenched power who would continue to lead the Communist World for years.

Dr. Rabinstein concluded that the deposition was due to the failure of Russia's internal policy.

Soviet leadership could not be naive enough to anticipate that a change in power would lead to better relations with Red China and other members of the Communist bloc. Osborne noted that there has been a great degree of decentralization in running the Agricultural Ministry and the Industrial Development Program. Some non-party members have been given a greater degree of authority in determining Russian Agricultural policy.

Dr. Rassanovsky, supplementing Dr. Osborne's statements, said that Russia has had a long history of leadership problems. He noted that Peter the Great, killed his son, the logical successor to the throne, and Catharina had killed her husband to become the Cozatrix of Russia. "Fashionable Opinion"
Dr. Manning continued in the "fashionable opinion" that South Africa is everything there is wrong, and that it is everything said in the United Nations about South Africa. The people are starving. It has been said in the U.N. that South Africa is a replica of the Nazi system and that mass murder enslavement of women and children, and discrimination against the Africans pay goes toward a full liberation and the honoring of their rights.

Author of "The Nature of Indian Independence", Dr. Manning concluded that one should look at Africa as a "humanitarian disaster" and the world's responsibility is to see that justice be done and the Africans be freed from the burdens of discrimination.

"Official Opinion" is that the situation is manageable, that there must be changes in the situation. The Africans should accept their lot and make the best of it even if it means working in a slave-like capacity.

Penn's undefeated hockey, or club, which it is hoped will make it, seeks to extend its perfect record against the powerful Princeton squad. The game, to be played at 7:00 on Princeton's 1953-54 ice, will be the most important test of the young season for the Quaker six.

Princeton has one of its finest clubs in recent years, with all but one letterman returning from last season's squad, which skated Penn off the ice to the tune of 10-2. Add an entire new lineup and the improved play of captain and high scorer Rudi Hall, and a strong defense, and it is easy to see why Princeton has lost only to perennially powerful Army this year.

Penn Favorite

As good as Princeton is, Penn will go into tomorrow's game as the favorite off its easy season play. The 7-7 tie with Wissahickon was quite possibly the biggest upset of the season for Penn, as its 8-2 victory over Franklin and Marshall, the 11-8 triumph of Villanova and the 8-4 triumph over Rochester Institute of Technology almost automatically show that Penn can play with any team in the area.

Saturday night's contrast with Rochester Institute of Technology was probably the finest Quaker performance of the campaign. The visitors came into the game with 17 straight victories and played the first period like they intended to make it 18 straight. Rochester led 1-0 at the end of the period and appeared by far the stronger team.

However, a new Penn squad came out of the locker room and started the second period. Within the space of fifty-two minutes, five blue-shirted skaters ripped the defending champions to hell and back, playing the closest game since the Quakers were founded. If the Quakers are still fighting tonight, Princeton may be in for an unbelievably exciting battle at Baker Rink.

Rifle Club Defeats Drexel, Tryouts Slated Wednesday

The Penn Varsity Rifle Club opened its second season of competition last Wednesday with a 98-47 loss to LaSalle last Saturday. Eight members graduated, while eleven new faces appeared.

The winners included: John Damschroder, George Edinger, Charles Bush, and Charles Burns. The losers included: David Rutstein, new football star, and John David.

In his freshman year, Rutstein was one of the reasons former head coach, Emlen Hall, was outstanding. In his sophomore year, he was able to score with a total of 14 points each time he played against Genesee and his defense. Their performance in this year's tournament against the Rochester Institute of Technology, in which the Quakers lost to Rochester, 8-2, was quite an accomplishment for Genesee and his defense.

The overall key to Penn's victory was best expressed by Coach Greiman: "It's some good hockey players, but it's not a good team. We hurt ourselves. If the Quakers are still fighting tonight, Princeton may be in for an unbelievably exciting battle at Baker Rink.

Basketball Off To Fast Start Prep For Delaware Home Tilt

By BARRY FELD

The Quakers are off to a fast start this season with two big wins under their belts. In last week's play, the Quakers damped a highly favored Rutgers squad 80-75 and edged a hard playing St. John's squad 68-58 in spite of losing three starters because of injuries. In both of these victories, the Quaker basketball players demonstrated good team work and a great desire to win for a key in the season.

Great Expectations

Although the Quakers still have long way to run and many difficulty tests will be met, several optimistic conclusions may be drawn. Stan Pawlak is currently the leading Quaker scorer averaging 23 points in the two games.

Fred Greene

He has been getting a lot of support from Jeff Neuman, who is currently hitting 10 points per game. Neuman's mastery of the art of dribbling was also partially responsible for the Quakers' dunking the Middle. Nevertheless, he was able to partially free himself from the block with a dribbling exhibition reminiscent of the Harlem Globetrotters.

Surprise Emergence

The loss of Bruce Moore, Dave Folsom and Andy Stocker from the part of the team that has provided a good bit of work for several other Penn basketballs. One of the bright pleasant surprises this season has been the emergence of Fred Greene as a ball player of some considerable consequence. Greene played basketball all summer and as a result was able to fill in fantastically when a spot was opened by injuries.

Another pleasant surprise has been the battle and all around play of center Brian Burgess. Burgess has learned how to run and has been playing very fine ball. He has been pulling down 19 rebounds per game, to lead the Quakers in that department, and has still had time to hit the bucket for 8.3 points per game. This man's work under the boards has provided the Quakers with a strength that was previously lacking.

On The Mend

Captain Bruce Moore, who was sidelined last season with a broken bone, has had his cast removed. It is hoped that he will be sufficiently mend to participate in the Quaker City Tournament over the Christmas vacation.

Tomorrow night, the Quakers will host the Blue Hen of Delaware in a Palestra tilt, at 8:00. The Hens were the victims of a 98-47 loss to Lafayette last Saturday.

Managers

The new head managers of next season's football and soccer teams have been selected and informed last week. They are David Rutstein, new football manager, and Robert Hickox, soccer manager.

Buckatech is a junior Econo- mics major to the Institute School, and comes from Kingston, Pa. He has been a starter on the junior varsity this past season as an assistant manager.

Hickox is a Pre-Med student from Clarion, Pa. His major is history. He is a son of Dr. S. J. Hickox, both sophomores.

Here & There

Nothing but rumors are in the air now, the committee to choose a new coach won't even meet until early next week. But the grapevine has picked Bob O'Dell presently coach at Bucknell, as John Sigmont's successor.
