WASHINGTON - President Johnson began his new term with an accident. He was hit by a baseball during a softball game. After the game, he was taken to a nearby hospital for treatment. The accident was not serious and he was expected to make a full recovery.

In another development, the United Nations Security Council voted to impose sanctions on North Korea for its continued nuclear program. The resolution was supported by all members except for the United States, which abstained.

The Virginia General Assembly opened its session with a focus on transportation. A bill was introduced to expand the state's high-speed rail network. The bill was sponsored by Representative Michael Marshall, who said it was necessary to improve transportation infrastructure and reduce traffic congestion.

New York - The New York City Police Department announced that it had arrested a suspect in the murder of a young woman. The victim was found with multiple cuts on her body. The suspect was known to the victim and had a history of violence. The investigation is ongoing.

In international news, the United Nations Security Council voted to extend the mandate of the UN peacekeeping mission in Mali. The mission has been in place for several years and is aimed at stabilizing the region and reducing violence. The extension of the mission was supported by all members except for the United States, which abstained.
The issues raised by the campus NAACP's protest against the proposed awarding of an honorary degree to Alabama Senator Lister Hill at the forthcoming bicentennial of the Medical School's founding are of high intellectual and moral import. Nevertheless, we cannot support the actions of the NAACP.

Senator Hill's work in Congress to channel government money to medical research and education fully warrants the degree which the University undoubtedly will bestow upon him. As a senator from the Deep South, Hill bears the cross that elected officials from that region have borne for years - the necessity to second the prejudices and hatreds of its population for years - the necessity to second the prejudices and hatreds of its population.

Ordnance Lab. Recruiter Coming

A recruiter for the U.S. Naval Ordnance Laboratory, White Oak, Maryland, will arrive here February 17, 1965. The NOL representatives, Mr. Lyman C. Fisher, Chief, Underwater Environmental Engineering, and Mr. Paul W. Meek, Mechanical Engineering, will be particularly interested in interviewing undergraduate and graduate students majoring in mechanical, electrical, and aero-space engineering as well as physics.

The Laboratory is the Navy's primary research and development facility for anti-submarine weapons and other underwater ordnance. NOL's projects range from the ocean depths to outer space. In 1957 the basic idea of a submarine-launched anti-submarine missile system was conceived at the Laboratory. In December 1963, after six years of intensive research and development, the Navy's newest and deadliest anti-submarine weapon—SUBROC—was unveiled. It will soon be operational with the fleet.

The Laboratory also produces the armoring and firing mechanism for POLARIS and other missiles of the aerodynamic and aero-ballistic studies that led to its rapid perfection.

As another means of increasing the professional competence of its employee the Laboratory promotes a Graduate Student Training Program through which advanced degrees can be earned. This program is conducted in close cooperation with several universities. Also, in the program, NOL offers courses with its own senior staff members as instructors. Participating employees often use their research or engineering work as thesis material and are allowed partial work time to attend classes.

Looking not too unlike a university campus, the Naval Ordnance Laboratory is located on 873 acres in the rolling countryside of suburban Maryland—just 13 miles north of the nation's Capital.

ANNOUNCING
Houston Hall Board Spring Heeling

Nearly every Penn undergraduate has heard of the Houston Hall Board. Yet few know more about it than that it sponsors a few "spectaculards" and some good movies. But these are just a few of the wide range of activities presented by the Board in its effort to achieve its basic goal: to make undergraduate life at Penn a little more exciting, a little more fun.

Did you know that the Board's activities include:
- Arts Exhibits — without walking farther than the Bowl Room of Houston Hall the interested student can enjoy outstanding samples from the world of graphic art.
- Coffee Hours — where students can take a break from their wearying schedules and talk with friends over a refreshing cup of coffee.
- Lectures — take a selection of Penn's finest professors followed by informal question and answer periods.
- Sports Hours — for guys whose biggest change of life is from high school to college consists of replacing their athletic ambitions with sport magazines with one to sports Illustrated.
- And the well-known movies and "spectaculards" which provide the staff-worn student with just plain sensual enjoyment.

Who's On The Board?
Six senior and six junior undergraduates make up the Houston Hall Board. They have lively imaginations—they're always trying to improve their activities and amusing to create new ones. They are responsible — a lot of people depend on them to get their job done. The Board members take their work seriously, but they consider the ability to laugh important. They realize that the Board is a valuable training ground for their futures. Board activities offer practice in business—the Board's budget is a large one, public relations—(advertising is a vital part of the success of Board activities), and organizational planning in general.

About Heeling.
Each year the Houston Hall Board inducts six new members from the men of the sophomore class. The Board looks for certain definite qualities in its members. In order to maintain its successful program of student activities the Board needs sophomores with:
- Imagination — the ability to come up with new ideas—new ways of doing things—
- Enthusiasm — a sincere desire to devote your energies to making Penn undergraduate life more pleasant.
- Responsibility — the ability to do a capable job in the Transperant front of Board activity you undertake.

Now you know a little more about the Houston Hall Board. If its challenges and its rewards interest you, and if you feel the qualifications listed above, describe you, we suggest youapply to become a Houston Hall Board Member.

Discover the difference in the '65 Chevrolets (As different from other cars as they are from each other)

(CHEVROLET) — As roomy a car as Chevrolet's ever built!

When you take in everything, there's more room inside this car than in almost any other car as low as they go. It's the way a '65 Chevrolet looks and rides. You now have wider rear seat and the attractively curved windows help to give you more shoulder room. The engine's been moved forward to give you more foot room. So, besides things it can do better, it looks as if things have gotten a lot better. The engine is now one more reason to ask you: What do you get by paying more for a car — except bigger monthly payments?

(CORVAIR) — The only rear engine American car made!

The Corvair is no small reason why it's third place. People want what they've never had before. Like a vehicle with a new look. It's roomy from the inside, stylish from the outside. It's a new size and shape for a car in this price range. And it's even roomier than before. It's a car you can touch its styling. They say if you haven't driven a new Corvair Corvair with a 180-bhp 6s Turbocharged, you don't know what you're missing.

Conservative Meeks Falls
In River, Ties Up Traffic

Thomas Meeks, well-known campus conservative and intellectual, tied up rush-hour traffic for thirty minutes yesterday by nearly drowning within easy view of four crowded highways. Meeks, attempting to cross the frozen Schuylkill River on foot, fell through the ice 75 feet out. Almost immediately traffic on the crowded Schuylkill Expressway and East and West River Drives ground to a halt as motorists strained to watch Meeks battle the rushing torrent. Drivers on the Girard Avenue bridge hailed and backed up traffic for blocks as they rushed to summon park guards and police to Meeks’ assistance. In the meantime, Meeks had gotten a grip on the ice at either side and hung in a vertical T formation awaiting rescue.

An estimated dozen rescue vehicles converged on the scene and several ropes reached Meeks, who was finally able to make his way to safety.

His joy was short-lived, however, when Park Guard Detective Ralph Bluett ordered him booked for disorderly conduct and breach of the peace.

Bluett explained that Meeks ignored flashing lights and red flags put on shore to keep people off the ice. He also noted that the temperature was above freezing, and a spectator commented that “a Penn man should have known better”.

Bluett said Meeks, a student in the Wharton School and a resident of Wayne, Pa., claimed he decided to walk down the Schuylkill since the ice would not permit him to go sculling. He is a member of the prize-winning Vesper Boat Club.

Meeks was taken to finebaum Hospital, where he was treated for exposure and released. He had no comment on whether it was all worth it.

Angell Rejects NAACP Objection To Hill

Angell Thursday morning, said that although Hill has contributed much to the advancement of medicine, this cannot be considered apart from his civil rights stand in view of the importance of the NAACP. He also indicated that this decision in no way reflected the opinion of the administration either for or against the NAACP.

Brand said the NAACP's decision whether to hold a vigil on Saturday will be influenced by the fact that the Convocation is only one day away.

Dr. Angell said he hoped the University will not, however, interfere with the group's plans.

Dr. Angell asserted that when he spoke to Brand, he did not attempt to persuade him, but merely to present his case. He said Brand did not rely on his medical interests and not on his civil rights record. Dr. Angell said yesterday he had not read the NAACP's statement and had no personal opinion about the matter.

Brand said he felt the issue was no longer important and that it should be dramatized.

Grapplers To Challenge Cornell Mat Superiority

By GUY BLYNN

When the Quakers take to the mats tomorrow afternoon in Ithaca, New York, they will be hoping to score one of the biggest wrestling upsets in recent Big Red history.

The Big Red of Cornell have completely dominated by competition since formalization that battle in 1957. In the process, they have become one of the kingpins of Eastern wrestling.

Over the course of nine seasons the Ithacans have garnered seven titles and amassed an amazing 52-2 record. This includes their present as the nation's top team in combined years.

Cornell comes into tomorrow's match with a 3-4 record overall and a 2-0 record in the league. This is somewhat deceiving since the Big Red's losses have come at the hands of Iowa State, Penn State, Lehigh, Navy and Michigan, all powers of real note.

Going into the match as definite underdogs, the Quakers will have nothing to lose and everything to gain. But Coach Don Frew has juggled his lineup in the hope of pulling off one of the biggest upsets of the year.

Richie Sofianis, normally a 123-pounder, will be moving up to 135-pounds to tackle Cornell captain Neal Orr, who is one of the top men at that weight in the country. Gary Pilliard, is dropping a class to take on Bob Stock, a sophomore who has already been beaten by Sofianis in the Wilkes Tournament but has looked extremely impressive on numerous other occasions.

At 167-pounds, it will probably be John Brooch who will face Jeff Stephens, one of Cornell's toughest men. At 177, Jerry Gates will be counted on for a victory.

If the Quakers are to have a chance, Heavyweight Bruce Jacobsen will face his toughest opponent yet in sophomore Dick Moore.

The Cadets with a rough afternoon, the Frosh squad will probably face the Penn for a tough test on January 30 against Army. Both programs are in the season for the Quakers.

This year’s team showed promise of supplying the varsity with some of the scoring talent that has lacked in recent years.

A coach Paul Ribbit, who will probably be retained in some capacity by the University, was a member of the original coaching staff of George Mungen.

Ribbit entered the University in the fall of 1928 and compiled a brilliant athletic record in college — winning nine varsity titles, three each in football, basketball, and lacrosse.

Odel Pick Aides

The last game at Palestra tomorrow night as Penn faces five competition against powerful Joe Joseph’s, at 2:05, in the second part of a double-header.

The Hawks, currently ranked third and fourth in the two national basketball polls, will be out to enhance their 14-1 record in the first few games. Penn is 0-2 thus far.

The men of Dr. Jack Ramsey seem to have been outclassed as a unit, he has neither talent nor experience against the Big Five factory. The Quakers have a tough test Saturday.

Coaches Go As Oddel Picks Aides

The reported firing of Cervino comes after his freshman team compiled a 1-11 record in the last decade. Cervino was the most recent addition to the Pennsylvania coaching staff. He was a former head coach at Duke and Notre Dame.

Penn Faces St. Joseph’s As City Series Resumes

As City Series Resumes

Joe Stanck, backfield coach, will be offered the head coach of the junior varsity team. Joe was a junior who guided the freshman to an undefeated season, but will not be offered to return next season.

The top man was available on end coach Paul Ribbit, who recently completed 27th year of coaching at Pennsylvania. Official sources within the University denied to confirm the reports.

Frost/Racquetmen Face Haverford In Away Contest

Penn’s freshmen squash team faces Haverford School this afternoon in what is expected to be a hard-fought game.

The Quakers dropped their first four matches this season Wednesday as the Hill School romped to an easy 5-0 victory. Penn’s top man Mark McCormick lost his 9-0 as did Dave Brown, George Payne and John Little.

The Penn swimmers, with a solid come-from-behind finish defeated Lafayette on Wednesday, 52-43. Number one hero of the day was co-captain Lou Kozloff, the Quaker sprinter, who finished first in 16 events.

With only two events remaining, the 500 yard freestyle and the freestyle relay, the Red and Blue were trailing the Leopards despite three fine individual efforts.

Kozloff had taken the first and 100 yard sprint, and will still remain in a Lafayette pool record time of 41.5. Jay Eberian and Tom Duff, however, who wanted to continue playing after graduation. They have all had experience in college level events and could very well put together a very good team if they were allowed to.
