Bigwigs Scratch Wharton Undergrad; Scared Phil Profs Flee Like Bunch of Finks

The Trustees of the University have announced the abolition of the undergraduate Wharton School, which is part of the University of Pennsylvania. The abolition of the Wharton School will affect students, faculty, and staff. The announcement follows a series of events that have led to the decision, including the resignations of several philosophy professors.

Government and administration officials have expressed concern about the impact of the decision on the University's finances and academic standing. The University will be left to decide how to replace the Wharton School's role in education and research.

The University has decided to use the funds that were allocated for the Wharton School to support other programs, including the arts and humanities. The announcement has been met with mixed reactions from students and faculty, with some calling for a closer examination of the decision's impact on the University.

U Sacks Park Squad Yeggs; Profs Carp At Rod Rules

The University announced the sack of the Park Squad and the arrest of several philosophy instructors, including Dr. Flower and Dr. Ross, for their involvement in a protest against the University's decision to abolish the undergraduate Wharton School.

The incident has led to a broader discussion about the University's policies and the role of professors in shaping them. The University's statement has been met with a mix of support and criticism, with some calling for a more transparent and inclusive decision-making process.

Cops Finger Seltz, Lang in Govt. Orgy

Police fingered-printed and mugged Judy Seltz and Tom Lang last night for possessing and selling 25 quarts of illegal minor's beer at their joint MSG-WSGA party at the Alpha Tau Omega house.

Miss Fanny Brgan, ATO's newest member, alerted the police, complaining that the rowdy group got away, breaking the rules of the Mayor's Noise Abatement Committee and the Pennsylvania State Liquor Law.

The police quickly moved in, with a glee from ear to ear.

"We finally caught these red-handed," laughed one officer.

Seltz was not left behind, said she was upset because the first cool government meeting during her term as president was a failure. Lang sympathized with her, adding that she was sure the university community will support her in the future. He added that they would definitely have another joint gathering within a week.

BS Taps

Barry Boy

The Better Student Party, winners of the Sixth seat in the Student Government Assembly race, have started their secondInvocation convention in Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

The Party, founded on the principle of getting BS into MSG, was announced the next day by Dean Burch to succeed Richard Cowan as national chairman. At a press conference this morning, Thomas S. Kepner, ATO-American, read a telegram of acceptance from Mr. Burch.

Burch Accepts

"I accept your offer with relish," Burch wired, "not only because the position you present is for professional use, but also because I find we are in a much closer ideological agreement."

According to outgoing chairman Cowan, Burch was selected for his "dedicated and thorough-going devotion to the principle of BS". Cowan added that "if we had gotten 25 million votes like Rockefeller, we might have held the balance of power in the MSG, and been able to form a coalition with Action to keep the power out of those Red and Blue menstalists."

THE WHARTON ABOLITION: ABOUT TIME

The Wharton School has long been a major factor on the campus of the University. It has served as a kind of intellectual refuge, as an asset but as a liability.

When the rule was first formulated, it was intended to restrict the study of business. While in the past, we have considered the rule asinine, we still hold that it is better later than not at all.

When first formulated, we called the rule asinine enforcement of the rule, but with the rule itself.

The rule was intended to restrict the study of business. While in the past, we have considered the rule asinine, we still hold that it is better later than not at all.

The new dean wanted to work with the students, not against them.

Men consult with any representatives of the student body.

PhD seniors are without doubt the major source of the anti-intellectual atmosphere at Pennsylvania. In the past, we have considered the rule asinine, we still hold that it is better later than not at all.

The University has taken this, it is better later than not at all.

THE HONEYMOON IS OVER

The honeymoon is over. After a fine start as Dean at Pennsylvania, Professor Craft has made a major blunder. We are amazed at the complete lack of intelligence and cooperation with the student body.

When first formulated, we called the rule asinine enforcement of the rule, but with the rule itself.

The most important thing at Penn is the survival of good traditions, and all traditions are good. Everyone knows this except the WETs who are ruining Penn! RIGHT? RIGHT?

Recently certain attacks have been made on our kind by Victor Filler and others of his kind. They say we are ignorant clods, vapid empty-headed idealists, no, you lousy punks! It is time that we took a stand. The President of the University is a man of integrity. He is a person of great intelligence and he is not afraid to speak his mind. He is not afraid to stand up for what is right. He is not afraid to fight for what he believes in.

Cheat, Ya Bum

ALLYN B. BRANDY

The recent scandal at the Air Force Academy has caused me, one of what Andy Ram says about cheating. On page 14 of my dog-eared pocket copy of "Atlas Shrug," she says: "Marilyn stamped her foot and looked Crabfoot in the eye. 'You are a louse,' she said. 'Yes, but a successful one,' he snapped, and lit a cigarette."

And on page 101 of "The Noodledhead," she says: "Honor is only a refuge for the unresourceful ascetic." As Nathaniel Branden would say, keep that in mind.

What I am getting at is that the objectivist, the only reasonable criterion for judgment is self-interest. Therefore, if it is in one's self-interest to cheat, one should cheat; and similarly if it is advantageous to abide by a code, one should abide by it.

In the case of the 109 students at the Air Force Academy, obviously it was not in their self-interest to cheat, since they got caught and were expelled; so quite obviously it was not in their self-interest to cheat, therefore if it is in no one's self-interest to cheat, then he should not do so.

But if we assume this fallacious line of reasoning holds anyway, or make the transition from the sublime to the ridiculous, as Barry Goldwater might say, keep that in mind. The recent scandal at the Air Force Academy reminds me of the honor system. What I am getting at is that the honors system is to make it really worthwhile the student's while to snitch on each other, for each machine discovered, which is what happens in this welfare-state bureaucracy, even on the campus level. And it certainly is not in anyone's self-interest to go through all that, even if he thinks it will get him in good with the Dean.

The only way to make an honor system work is to make it really worthwhile the student's while to catch the cheaters. Give them relatives like that (right) income Tax Bureau does, and you've got it made. As Ayn Rand wrote on her 83rd birthday: "Human omnia a me aliquum path,

"aeonium pathos," which freely translated means, "nuts to you.,"

And the next meeting of students of objectivism will be held Saturday at 11 p.m. at the Chamber of Commerce.

Ivy Club Award Goes To Fabrikant

By GARY LAMPERT

The award—consisting of a gold fire hydrant pin, was given to Fabrikant by Herbert H. Herrmann, President of the Ivy Club. Sylvan Green, editor of the "Ivy View" mimeographed newsletter of the organization, then praised Fabrikant as "one of the finest non-Central High people I've ever met."

Fabrikant, asked for comments, merely blushed and said, "AC, shocks."

The award is presented each year to that student who has done the most to create a feeling of group identity among independent, commuters, and other non-Central students. Previous recipients include Gene Gross ('64), Richard Cummins ('62), and Joseph Bartash ('64).

Wharton To Be Abolished; College To Absorb 69ers

The Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania announced that, beginning in September, 1969, the undergraduate program of the Wharton School will be abolished. The family of the late Joseph Wharton has given its consent to this change.

It is the belief of the trustees that a business education cannot be achieved on the graduate level with students with a liberal arts background. For that reason, the graduate division of the Wharton School will remain in existence.

Students applying for admission to the class of 1969 in the Wharton School will be informed of the Trustees' decision. Their applications will be transferred to the College of Liberal Arts.

Dean of the Graduate School of Fine Arts Dr. G. Holmes Perkins yesterday accepted the N.C.B. Award for College Architecture as on behalf of the University in the presence of the President of the Pennsylvania Building. The award marked the selection of the Laboratory for Research on the structure of Mather, 23rd and Walnut Sts., as the most outstanding academic building of the year by the N.C.B. Foundation. Presenting the award, Dr. W. Tristam Terhune stated: "The Laboratory conforms nearly perfectly to the conception of structural perfection. It reflects the idea that which our engineers and technicians are constantly striving, and that we have gained abundant insight from studying the plans, which will aid us in our own research."

Dr. Terhune is President of the Self-Insulating Box Company and research director for its affiliated Foundation.

Frats Boys Seized

In IF Bowl Fix

Barnet Moltzer, former chairman of the Interfraternity Council, was arrested Monday by agents of the Dean of Men's Office after having rigged the recently held I-F Bowl. According to Moltzer was Robert Varney, currently I-F chairman and I-F scholastic chairman at the time of the alleged frauds. Both he and Moltzer were charged with betraying the public trust and grand larceny.

As arrested, on an open charge, was Martin H. Winner, Moltzer's roommate. According to the complaints, Winner, rigging the I-F Bowl by divulging questions and answers to the participants in advance.

The charges read: "These three, knowing that the content- uits in the I-F Bowl would be usable to answer a single question without advance coaching, revealed all the questions before the actual performance.

"With this aid, the participants in the Bowl actually answered some questions correctly," the statement read.

Rendell Elected Phi Beta Kappa

Edward Rendell, a member of Pi Lambda Phi Fraternity, was elected to Phi Beta Kappa at a meeting last night.

Speaking for PBK, University chairman Beryl Kipali stated: "We are truly pleased and honored by Mr. Rendell's presence among us. He is a recognized leader of men and a dynamic statistician in all areas of intellectual endeavor. Mr. Rendell is the sort of individual we would hold up to incoming freshmen as a shining example of academic excellence combined with strength of character. Alcindor Accepts Penn

In a short announcement, followed by a press conference at the Philadelphia Coaches Association's five-story eastern campus, William G. Owens and Head Basketball Coach Dick Alcindor justly announced that Lewis Alcindor had signed for Penn, a completed matriculation materials and will be a member of the Pennsylvania basketball squad.

Alcindor is the most sought after player of the year. He has an exuberant reputation in the nation and many rate him as the finest fullback player in the game today. The seven-foot Power Memorial star is attracted to the University of Pennsylvania because, he has been recruiting him since he met during Burgers' days at Adelphi Academy.

Alcindor said that he was happy to be associated with the University. "I have always wanted to wear the blue and white and I believe for McCloud, Big Five basketball is the greatest and I feel that I can contribute to Penn back to the lofty position it once held in the basketball world."

In immediate reaction to the word Alcindor was coming, Dr. M. E. D. Dunham, Dartmouth and Princeton, filed protests with the Ivy League Offices located in New Haven. Said Bill Van Bredt, Coach Dunham, so that they will be in the best interests of our University to keep Penn on the schedule. Collectively, we choose not to emphasize sports when the Ivy League is formalized and we believe that the matriculation of Alcindor was not in keeping with this tradition.

Ivy League officials refused to comment on the situation at this time but reliable sources said that it is a matter of time before some type of disciplinary action is taken against Dunham.

The signed basketball player will receive no preferential treatment by the University. However, it was reported that "since regular dormitory rooms are not suited to a man as big as Alcindor, he will be in a position to move from the Different Straford for at least his first year.

Alcindor ordered that scholar full the burden of the football team, to classify each day, a specialist and also in the regular in the University will be given and a special dietary consultant, Miss Helen Dimples, will live with him.

Lewis Alcindor had returned his letter, accepting the University of Pennsylvania. He was unanimously in favor of the effort to recruit these athletes for Penn's varsity basketball team.

The addition of Alcindor to the team will add greatly to the prospects of the University, whose special brand of basketball they are not yet as aggressive as they are normally. "I told him the idea was fine with me and that all he would have to do was make up his mind and take part in cheerleading activities. It has long been a well known fact that the Huskies' All-Stars are amongst the best on the team as a whole."

Former lightweight football and freshman basketball coach Dick Harter resigned both those posts yesterday and was immediately replaced by Special Ex- ecutive Assistant to the Director of Athletics and former I.A.A. member John Ford III.

This announcement was inter preted to be a move, which might conceivably be carried on a larger scale that the University was announcing, Presently, only two half- all-stars have been announced and more are expected to follow for Jack McCloud.

Harter was in a jovial mood after his new appointment, saying, "This will give me an opportunity to work and enjoy life in the off season.

In addition to his recruiting of Back All-Stars he will be assigned as the full-time head of the I.A.A. Football League. He will also be responsible for all liaison between Glascott's office and the Daily Pennsylvanian.
