Students Uncensored Letter Confirms Cuban Inhumanities

An apparently uncorroborated letter from a Cuban student organization, describing conditions in that country as "bestial and inhuman", has been received by the McG and International Students Association recently.

The letter, sent from the Institute of Administration and Commerce in Calixco, Havana, has been sent to leading and the International Students Association, yesterday. The letter was received on February 16.

Cuban students "are being subjected in the prison and concentration camps of the communist dictatorship", according to the letter. "The best men of our young generation are assassinated and destroyed day after day. We fight the red totalitarianism."

Petition To Be Circulated

In response to the charges against the Castro regime made in the letter, a committee has been formed to circulate a letter petition protesting the alleged cruel and inhuman treatment of the regime, announced de-Goya, a former Cuban citizen, this week. The petition will be presented to the Cuban Embassy in Washington, D.C. The diplomatic agent for the Cuban government in the United States.

Cuban students assert in the letter that the Castro regime has imprisoned and tortured thousands of "innocent Cubans" on false charges of comparing with foreign governments to overthrow the government. Thousands of our brothers imprisoned in Lira are denied educational freedom.

That one Cuban woman committed suicide on a female graduate's as an example of the treatment that the government has suffered as the result of their own moral behavior.

Sister Dominick then went on to explain, "The Republican party hasn't been settling our viewpoint."

Senator Dominick believes that all Republicans can unite under their basic approach. The first is "letting people determine their own governmental system."

He said, "We can't have won the championship without him.""
ISAAC USES TANKS IN SYRIAN CLASH

TEL AVIV, Israel—Tanks and machine guns were used in a border clash between Israel and Syria, an Israeli army spokesman said.

He reported Israeli forces, firing from tanks against machine guns, silenced two Syrian positions after the Syrians had allegedly fired on an Israeli tractor driver, north of the Sea of Galilee.

The spokesman said the Syrians had opened fire with pistols and machine guns—but the tractor driver continued working through the incident.

Penn's National Champions

It has been a long time since Pennsylvania has had a national champion, but if Penn's last by league champions was the 1922 squad, then the Penn football team of 1964 is without question one of the finest scholarship teams to ever wear the blue and white. This is not so much a matter of the steady, unswerving excellence of the team, but rather a matter of the team's three-year run that culminated in a Rose Bowl victory.

In this spring semester, as in all spring semesters, if you listen attentively on a bright spring day, you can hear far-off bleats of last year's glory, but you will not hear them all. Even those who pretend to be the die-hard team booster must admit that there probably have their doubts. It was a bit of a shock to the football world. Why, it was almost controversial!

College has made more of a <displaylose> shock to other football teams than it has to any other school. It has been nothing less than a hair-raising struggle to keep body and soul with considerably large endowments and envy on individuals who may be second-string

But the end time draws near, and informal elucidations can test that people start getting religion in such a period. Meditations and musings on the gifts, and issues, and the story would, I think, the time comes upon us, one and one for years.

For one thing, the average chabot has absorbed a lot of book knowledge, but does not know all that much, or as much as a beginning student of philosophy, but he learns a thing or two about Descartes or Berkeley or Kant or men who may be second-string. He may be able to understand an integral or differential, or at least he once could and might be able to state a little bug again if he put too much to mind. He can read a poem and trace a symbol or book. But he never really applied himself to his hard. The next time as exam was the picture of a four-leaf clover, string, frantically attempting to crank a problem that he should have worked a long time on.

The fact of intellectualism, whose membership runs into the "tens," has formed a court on campus far out of proportion to its importance. We are in the "Ominous UberAlles" has been a long time coming, and it is our hope that the false bubble blown by the "ominous UberAlles" or any other may have been destroyed in the minds of a few people. However, it is not our wish but our hope that we have definitively cleared the field... Far from it. We would wisely miss the amusement provided by the "UberAlles". Common man of one is our hope, and these good people provide a great opportunity for those in this admittedly mild, but nonetheless pleasant, act on society.

In addition, we would like to inform the university community that the Democratic Republican Organization for the Promotion of International Tolerance (DISCOUT) will hold its regular meeting in the front row of the next S.F. club meeting, so it is important that we do not fail to go.

Ford Motor Company is: responsibility

A key dimension of any job is the responsibility involved. Graduates who join Ford Motor Company find the opportunity to accept responsibility early in their careers. The earlier the better. However, we know the transition from the academic world to the business world requires training. Scholastic achievements must be complemented by a solid understanding of the practical, day-to-day aspects of the business. That is the most direct route to accomplishment.

Stephen Jaeger, of the Ford Division's Milwaukee District Sales Office, is a good example of how it works. His first assignment, in January, 1963, was in the Administrative Department where he had the opportunity to become familiar with procedures and communications between dealerships and the District Office. In four months he moved ahead to the Sales Planning and Analysis Department as an analyst. He studied dealerships in terms of sales history, market penetration and potentials, and model mix. This information was then incorporated into master plans for the District.

In March, 1964, he was promoted to Zone Manager—working directly with 19 dealers as a consultant on all phases of their complex operations. This involves such areas as sales, finance, advertising, customer relations and business management. Responsible job? You bet it is—especially for a man not yet 25 years old. Over one million dollars in retail sales, annually, are involved in just one dealership Steve contacts.

Bond 'Conservative' Says YAF Article

James Bond is a secret conservative agent," says T. K. Miller in the March issue of The New Guard, the magazine of Young Americans for Freedom.

Miller finds that Ian Fleming's best-selling literary creation "is easily recognizable in the popular mind as a conservative figure, for with his rather uncomplicated philosophy of life, his pronounced loyalty to his country, and his executive interest in fine machinery, he coincides with the current conception of the conservative mystique."

A graduate English student, Mr. Miller studied under Professor Jeffrey Hart at Colgate, and is now temporarily in the Army.

Miller notes that "James Bond is an individualist who prefers to work alone, and the fact that alone he achieves results far greater than great offices of bureaucrats makes the books, without reference to his methods, a kind of testament of individualism."

And while Bond had "early doubts about the system" in Casino Royale, says Miller, he becomes "ever more conservative" as the Fleming series proceeds, "and conservative sentiment increases in prominence up to the climax in You Only Live Twice, in which Bond and Tamara discuss the debilitating effect of socialism on British character."

Perhaps most heartening for the conservative reader," says the author, "is Fleming's recognition of evil and his persistent identification of it with international communism. . . . (The) long-range effect may be to create a greater awareness of the design of communism with at least as much effectiveness as the timeless Louis novels had in turning the image of the small town and the businessman. Not literary merit but wide appeal is required to spread an idea."

Oehrlein Wins Squash Racquets Crown

Overpowers Penn's Cooley, 3-1, Then Praises His Foe's Tenacity

By STEVE SARSH

Oehrlein, Harvard's number one player, was on the top of the collegiate squash world for 16 minutes on Saturday. The Quakers' number one player won the National Team Championship for the other members of the team.

The win, according to Oehrlein, was the result of a seven-foot shot by John Coonley. "We were almost professional in their precision," said Oehrlein. "The passing was deadly accurate, and the offensive move was a thorough one." The defeat ended the season in which Oehrlein had the best day of his career, with seven points on four goals and three assists. Coonley eventually bowed to the third-seed Tom Poor of Harvard in four games.

The Penn scorer's best squash of the tournament during the semi-final round. The crushed the first three rounds of the week-end, 2-1, to Princeton's Pete Smith, and, with another fine effort, he rebounded to take the third at a cost of 3-0. Coonley, appearing recharged and raring to go on Sunday morning despite the 10:30 start, and eliminated Penn's 1-, 15-4, 15-3, 15-8, and was out".

"Howard Coonley gave me a great match," said Oehrlein. "He's only a junior and he'll be back next year. God help the players who have to play Howard in next year's nationals."

Coonley's first victory in the semifinal round clinched the team championship for the Penn squadmen. Although the Quakers are not yet sufficient to capture the individual title, he did not let his disappointment mar his appreciation for the other members of the team or his coach.

"I'm very happy for the team and for coach Al Molloy," said Coonley in a brief speech after the match.

With 9-1 Victory

The Hockey Club trounced Lafayette in the first meeting of the teams after the latter's recent tour of the States, 10-10-2, and caps the best season in the history of Penn hockey. The Red and Blue skaters scored early and often, stalling Mike Morgan losing two for their poorest outing of the season. The Red and Blue skaters scored early and often, stalling Mike Morgan losing two for their poorest outing of the season. Coonley, who scored the first three rounds of the week-end, 2-1, to Princeton's Pete Smith, and, with another fine effort, he rebounded to take the third at a cost of 3-0. Coonley, appearing recharged and raring to go on Sunday morning despite the 10:30 start, and eliminated Penn's 1-, 15-4, 15-3, 15-8, and was out".

"Howard Coonley gave me a great match," said Oehrlein. "He's only a junior and he'll be back next year. God help the players who have to play Howard in next year's nationals."

Coonley's first victory in the semifinal round clinched the team championship for the Penn squadmen. Although the Quakers are not yet sufficient to capture the individual title, he did not let his disappointment mar his appreciation for the other members of the team or his coach.

"I'm very happy for the team and for coach Al Molloy," said Coonley in a brief speech after the match.
