Steve Marder, a spokesman for Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) said yesterday that his organization is "profoundly disturbed" by the "1

part of City Council members attitude toward the International Council from U.S. foreign policy to human rights."

President Arthur Shriberg has been one of the four

University this year by the Coordination on the University's several problems of the day.

The letter restated ADA's position in support of S.O.S.

and academic freedom.

The letter, sent Monday, to

Chairman of the academic campaign in William L. Day,

the earth was the center of

Dante's "Divine Comedy,"

albeit more than 700 years ago,

remains current today because

Dante speaks to man in ways that have not changed over the years, he said, and I have not tried to do so," he added.

Dr. Francis Fergusson

suggested that Dante "digs down to certain peculiar human aspirations," like

"many a journey into hopeless suffering in the "Inferno," and Fiumara as a symbol of the consequently greater man's subsequent emergence "a-cause Dante had learned his art

from the Latin poets of a thousand years, Dr. Francis Fergusson explained.

He announced that ADA has sent

the letter, sent Monday, to his interest."

The letter, sent Monday, to

the Zoning Board hearing

several weeks ago, SAS has wide support, he continued,

"and that it is expected that

Norwich's district to warrant the program, offers to all under-soliciting support from faculty members throughout the United despite the "inefficiencies" of the campaign's attitude," said Shriberg, speaking for the Southeastern committee members.

Fergusson also praised

"Inferno," and

University Receives Project Calls for Funds, Seeks 200 Volunteers

Dear Friend of the University Community,

During the Christmas recess 20 students and faculty from the University of Pennsylvania were spending three weeks near Trinitib, Mississippi, helping to construct a general health building for hundreds of homeless farmers. These farmers were forced to leave plantations when they asked for the Federal minimum wage. At the time, tickers were receiving three dollars and tractor drivers seven dollars for a 12-hour day. They are refused work from all local employers and are living in tents without heat or plumbing.

This community is in desperate need of a permanent building to tide them through the winter. Project Mississippi is attempting to raise, primarily within the University, the $80,000 that is needed to construct this building. You are working closely with the Delta Ministry, a branch of the National Council of Churches, to be sure that this Project will be successfully completed.

If you are a member of the university community we need your support to achieve our goal. The money raised is as of December 4th, and we are far behind our goal. You may want to be part of this united University of Pennsylvania effort.

Sincerely yours,

Daniel J. Finanery, Project Coordinator.

Those going on Project Mississippi: Tony, Sven, Marylin L. Goldberg, Kate Montgomery, Carol Both Goodwin, Tony Perkins, and Yale Rabin.

Dr. Alan Scott and Reverend Richard Fernandez complete the list of volunteers.

Final Examination Schedule Fall 1965

Examinations will be held in the regular classrooms normally held at the usual time as the class meets.

Exceptions to the Regular Schedule

- Students who for religious reasons are unable to take examinations scheduled on a religious holiday, or on a day of traditional religious observance, should as early as possible:
  1. Inform the instructor of the course involved and arrange for the examination at another time.
  2. If the instructor plans to be away, the student should report to the Office of the Registrar to the schedule set for those examinations. This will enable the Proctor of the Special Examination Period to complete the arrangements for those examinations, including obtaining examinations from the instructors or class teachers.

Job Guide

More than 50,000 summer employment opportunities in this country and abroad are listed in the 1965 Summer Employment Guide. Just published by the National Society of Collegiate Scholars, the Summer Employment Guide is the largest selling summer employment directory in the nation.

The newest edition, he said, includes a wide variety of jobs "from driving a stagecoach in Colonial City, Maryland, to working as a receptionist in Naples, Italy.

"Finding summer jobs for students is our year-round job," the NESI Chief Executive explained. "We contact employers and select the kinds of jobs students want most from those available around the world."

He said the publication, which is in its fifth year, is used by hundreds of college faculty members and placement directors, and by students in over 1,500 colleges and universities.

The exhibit will be open to the public, starting Thursday, December 1, and continuing through December 15.

Penn Players Open Contest

The Pennsylvania Players announce that the deadline for their Annual Original One-Act Play Competition will be January 21, 1966. This competition is for the J. Howard Remer Memorial Award, a cash prize of $500,00 and is open to all undergraduate and graduate students at The University of Pennsylvania.

There is no limit to the number of scripts which may be submitted by any one person. A board of qualified judges will read the scripts and decide which ones are worthy of production. Those considered worthy will be given publication by the Players in April.

The donor of the award fully realized that a play is not a play until it is brought to life before an audience. This is what will be achieved at the performance of the plays selected by the judges.

All those wishing to enter competition must submit five typed copies of his or her play to the office of The Pennsylvania Players by January 21st. Any questions on details may be referred to The Pennsylvania Players' Office, also.

Univ. to Close Vocational Unit

The vocational teacher education department of the University will be discontinued at Penn as of the end of the current academic year, Neuman characterized the Pennsylvania Thanksgiving and Christmas drives on campus as the "success primers" and Mortardoburt women's honor society.

Neuman indicated that all campus organizations, including fraternities, sororities, clubs, and dormitories, will be asked to sponsor a needy family by purchasing a basket. The baskets will contain complete holiday dinners including a turkey "with all the trimmings," Neuman said.

Neuman expressed his hope that actual collections can be begun by next week. He indicated that area food merchants and national concerns were being contacted to enlist their support and that "the progressive is favorable."

We can get the food," he said, "but only if the University is willing to participate to the fullest."

I know we have a lot of drives on campus," he added, "but rarely one that has the potential for developing real human understanding that this one does.

Rugby Team Places High

Two Penn rugby teams fought their way into the quarter-finals of the Annual Fall Seven-A-Side Tournament in New York last Saturday. The tournament, played under international rugby rules, except for the number of men on opposing sides, i.e., seven as opposed to fifteen, located a 34 team field representing the best rugby clubs in the East. By placing two teams in the quarter-finals, the Quakers had two teams which ranked anywhere from 8th to 5th in the 34 team field.

"B" Team

The Penn "B" team won their first game from the University of Virginia by forfeit, but then went on to score an impressive 6-0 win over Fordham on runs by Jim Mahoney and Dick Ranek. In the quarter finals the Penn "B" team was eliminated 13-0 by the Baltimore Rugby Club, which subsequently, went all the way to the finals.

"A" Team

The Penn "A" team rolled to an 18-0 win over Lehigh, which saw three Quakers register scores; Bobby Dea (2), Dana Steele, and C. Stephanoff (1). In the second round Penn found itself matched with a highly touted New York Rugby Club seven. The odds were heavily in favor of New York, which had just completed an undefeated fall season. The crowd was surprised, therefor...

Dartmouth Best in East; Wins Lambert Trophy

The Dartmouth College football team scored a major prestige victory when a squad of twelve expatriate writers, broadcasters and Lambert Trophy trustees awarded Dartmouth the 1965 Lambert Trophy for Eastern football supremacy. The Princeton gridiron, decorated by the Indians on November 9th, placed second in the voting to give the Ivy a 1-2 sweep.

Independent power Syracuse finished third in the balloting; many of the Ivy League's critics felt that the Orangemen were logical choices for the trophy. The Indians, who finished with a perfect 9-0-0 slate, were the first Ivy by winners since Princeton capped the trophy in 1951. Dartmouth captured eleven first place ballots and one second place ballot in the poll.

Ivy Prestige

The quality of Ivy League play has been a topic of controversy in recent years, especially during the past few weeks. Dartmouth's selection is expected to bring prestige and could be instrumental in improved non-league competition for all eight Ivy teams.

Tiger Finish 8-1

Princeton brought a 17 game winning streak into Dartmouth church before bowing to the ultimate trophy winner. The Tigers finished with an outstanding 8-1 mark.

Wrestling

The Penn wrestling team opens its 1965-66 campaign with hopes of improving on last year's 4-13 mark. The men's national ranking is not the highest, but "we're hoping to surprise with some of our young men," said Coach Robert W. Eberhardt, who holds this position.

Swimming

The Penn swimming team opens its 1965-66 campaign today with hopes of improving on last year's 6-4-0 mark. The men's national ranking is not the highest, but "we're hoping to surprise with some of our young men," said Coach Robert W. Eberhardt, who holds this position.

Ice Hockey

The Penn men's hockey team is well under way for the season, as many as 1, 1 and 1,1... Penn will play Saturday night against a highly regarded Yale team which boasts six Canadians, two Midlands, an American and a German. The Quakers have a good chance of winning, but will be faced with formidable opposition.

Quaker Threaten

Several times the Quakers appeared to be on their way to a thrilling victory, but were thwarted by the home team. The Quakers have not only scored against the Engineers, but also against the Johns Hopkins Blue Jays, who are ranked fourth in the nation.

Indoor Track

The Quakers have been training hard, as they prepare for the Ivy League championships. The team has been practicing at the Indoor Track, with hopes of improving on last year's 6-4-0 mark. The men's national ranking is not the highest, but "we're hoping to surprise with some of our young men," said Coach Robert W. Eberhardt, who holds this position.
Basketball

Penn's basketball team is something special this year -- a montage of experienced ball players, a strong sophomore contingent, height, speed, and shooting ability, and one of the best coaches around -- and it all adds up to a most promising season.

Nine Year Veteran

Jack McCluskey, in his tenth year as Quaker mentor, will field his strongest team since the John Wideman-led group of 1961-62, which narrowly missed the Ivy title. Led by co-captains, Jeff Neuman and Stan Pawlak, both two-time all-Ivy selections, this year's squad has been picked to improve upon last year's 6-4 record and their third place finish in the Ivy League, head coach Don Fray is going to have to get top-flight performances from an interesting group of returning letterman, sophomores and virtual newcomers to Penn wrestling.

Leading the squad will be co-captains Gary Pillard and Jerry Gula. Wrestling at 123 and 167 lbs respectively, these two will be pressed to carry on the winning ways of their predecessors, Richie Sofman and Bruce Jacobson.

Joining the co-captains will be two other returning, Junior Mike Schiffman (137) and senior Bill Jorden who both contributed important victories last year. Schiffman was a pleasant surprise in posting a fine record while Jorden is rated as having tremendous potential.

Coach John Sanders' freshman team has contributed a number of exciting grapplers to the fold, Joel Green (160) and Bob Bruce (156)...
