Drug agent denies knowledge of use of place in raid

By DEIRDRE LAMONT

An agent of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs agency with scientific knowledge of drug agents and narcotics possession said Thursday that he was not aware that one of his agents had been involved in the middle of the campus.

"I am not aware of the fact that any drugs were involved in the raid," the agent said. "I was only aware that a suspected person was arrested during the raid." The agent was not named.

The raid was made March 22 at 5:30 a.m. on the campus.

SAAS Black Week to open with rally

By DEBBIE JAMESON

The Student Association for Social Action (SAAS) has declared April 26th to April 30th "SAAS Black Week." The week will kick off with a rally on April 26th at 6:30 P.M. in the Atrium.

SAAS has organized a series of events to raise awareness about the Black Power movement and its legacy.

"It is an accepted fact that, within us a spirit of 'togetherness' must begin," expressed Hentoff. "This spirit must be fostered from within the University community." Hentoff was at one time a reporter for Reporter magazine and is a frequent contributor to Playboy, Evergreen Review, New Yorker magazine, the Nation, and a columnist for the Washington Post.

SAAS Black Week will continue with events such as a march, a forum, and a performance by the Black Panthers. The week will conclude with a rally on April 30th.

Civil rights bill passes House; Ivy papers, SAAS support it

By STEPHEN HARGROVE

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy has announced that he will introduce a new bill to the Senate that would provide for the rights of Civil Rights activists.

"This bill is a step in the right direction," said Hargrove. "It will provide the necessary protection for Civil Rights activists who are being harassed and threatened." Hargrove is the author of the original bill and is a frequent contributor to the New York Times and the Washington Post.

WILLIAM W. HARRISON

President of the University, said Monday that "days of conscience" were part of the academic days of conscience. "There are many ways in which we can show our support for Civil Rights activists," Harrison said. "We can do this through our actions on campus and in the community." Harrison is a frequent contributor to the New York Times and the Washington Post.

Eugene-rooters go for dough

A campus group has been driven to raise $150 for Senator Eugene McCarthy's presidential campaign, in co-chairmen announced yesterday. The Pennsylvanian for Peace, organized by students "within the next two weeks" to be utilized for Philadelphia's primary campaign expenditures, according to co-chairman Richard S. Stein, associate director of the American Friends Service Committee, "to show the light of God with all men, to make it possible for all the face of the earth." That makes for a pretty big goal, even for a pretty big nation of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth."

The Quaker answered, "For whom does the bell toll?"

"For whom?" was asked.

"Many brother's keepers we are," he answered, "family. But, then, look how many of the same. We each share most things in common. We love, we hurt, we think, we feel. If we cannot, those in whom it may not be possible to share love, respect and others, the light of God with all men, we hurt, we think, we feel, is that people, you are attempting to collect the money for to have the roof rack you order should fit your Impala. Excerpts from the Walmsley Report

Changes in the working system, number of credits needed to graduate, and per-semester course load are among the recommendations proposed by the Committee on Academic Standards in its final report. The Walmsley report was issued last month by the faculty of the undergraduate colleges at the University.

The committee noted that the present system of grading at the University is not consistent with the objectives of the University. In its recommendations, the committee believes that the present system of grading, which is based on the concept of a "failure" grade, should be replaced by a system of grading that recognizes the diversity of student learning styles and abilities.

The recommendations of the committee are: (1) the introduction of a "passing" grade, (2) the elimination of the "Failure" grade, (3) the establishment of a "Incomplete" grade, (4) the introduction of a "Withdrawn" grade, and (5) the introduction of a "Passing with Distinction" grade.

The committee also recommended that the University consider the establishment of a "Passing with Distinction" grade, which would be given to students who achieve a grade of "A" in a course but do not meet the requirements for a "Passing with Distinction" grade.

The committee further recommended that the University consider the establishment of a "Withdrawn" grade, which would be given to students who withdraw from a course after the second week of classes. The committee also recommended that the University consider the establishment of a "Incomplete" grade, which would be given to students who do not complete a course but do not withdraw from it.

Quaker cindermen clobber West Chester, 100-45

By BOB SAVETT

The Quakers, who came off the field at the end of the game, Wednesday, nearly the same men who came on the field for the three previous games, Thursday, Penn's victory roared on the band for a good part of the day. The Quakers came out with a 1-6-1 record this season, but a 7-0-2 record last season.

With an all-for-1-1 league playing in the conference meeting, the Quakers dominated the conference in the victorious victory. The structure dominated an almost perfect 1-6-1 and 8-0-2 record in the conference. On the other hand, the Tigers almost didn't roll up 100 points en route to their 105-49 victory.

'Pent-up pessimistically rated the Cub's, 79-75. And last year, Princefield's number four singles slot, moved up to the 100, West Chester 68, Penn 58, and Carroll by exactly the same tally. Hazam and Sean Budlong triumphed over the Perm netmen, who are used to preserving the Ram's sixth win in the conference.

The victory was costly, though, as the Quakers, who are very short on depth, had to probe that weakness. The reason is a nucleus of standout Crimson. The Salesmen have scored in double figures every game this year will be favored in Saturday's clash.

Penn tallied its lone run in the first inning when Jim McFillen led off with a triple. McFillen stole second and scored on Brian Koenig's infield hit. The top three positions of the Quakers, filled by Dave Long, Bob Levin, and Ted Hagedorn, and Gary Yohe, will have to be favored on Saturday.
