When the walls come tumbling down

By STEPHEN MARZON

The first that everyone across campus, with the exception of the president of the Student Senate and a number of professors that block out their visits to campus, was a realization that the President was not going to admit any of the charges.

The Poor Richard Pennsylvania society has been organized by a group of undergraduates who hope to attract membership in Penn student groups interested in political and social issues. The society will demonstrate at football games and other athletic events with cheers, chants and skits. The College Legionnaire Joe Kalmanash, president of the group, said he hoped "to support the political issues" which it was far from serious since its first meeting.

The society already has 300 members, according to Goodman, a member of the group's executive board. Morgan State meeting slated

Students and faculty members interested in the University's cooperative project with Morgan State College in Baltimore will be able to attend a meeting to be held in the conference room of the University's student center at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 24. The meeting will be held to discuss the project, which will be started this fall.

Morgan State College will be able to participate in the University's cooperative project at the time of the meeting, according to the university's cooperative project chairman, Dr. Emery Kaufman, who said he hoped for "spontaneous cooperation" which will be far from serious since its first meeting.

The society is already working on ideas for future political skits, and hopes for the full cooperation of the University's student center.

SDS revitalized

an organizational meeting scheduled for October 10 in Room 1012 in Rosenau Hall will be a new and revitalized Students for a Democratic Society. The meeting will be held in the conference room of the University's student center. The meeting will be held to discuss the project, which will be started this fall.

Play tryouts start Wed.

The University's student center will be open on Saturday, Sept. 11, for tryouts for the play "Bye, Bye, Blackbird." The play will be held in the University's student center and will be open to all interested students. The play will be held in the University's student center and will be open to all interested students.

INTRODUCTION

The Commission and Open Expression and Demonstrations was established in April, 1968, for the purpose of studying the effects of open expression and demonstrations on campus, and for the purpose of investigating the problems which arise when these activities are held on university property. The report, entitled "Open Expression and Demonstrations: A Guide for University Administration," was submitted to the Board of Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania on May 28, 1968.

The Commission's report is presented by the University of Pennsylvania as the recommendation of the Committee on Open Expression and Demonstrations, and as the result of an exhaustive study of the problems which arise when these activities are held on university property. The report, entitled "Open Expression and Demonstrations: A Guide for University Administration," was submitted to the Board of Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania on May 28, 1968.

For the most part, I agree with the recommendations of the Report, in particular, I agree with the Commission's conclusion that the University's existing guidelines on the question of demonstrations should be revised. This is because I believe that the making of the Guidelines to some other tribunal in the University should be recommended Committee on Open Expression and Demonstration.

The Report recommends that the guidelines be reviewed by the University, and that the guidelines be updated in light of the developments to which they have been subjected. I believe that this recommendation is sound, and I support it. I also believe that the University should be encouraged to make the guidelines available to the public, and that the guidelines should be made available in a timely manner. I believe that this will help to ensure that the guidelines are understood and followed by all members of the University, and that they will be used to promote a positive and productive environment.

I agree with the Report's recommendation that the guidelines be revised in light of the developments to which they have been subjected. I believe that the guidelines should be revised in order to reflect the current state of the law, and to ensure that they are consistent with the principles of free speech and academic freedom. I also believe that the guidelines should be revised in order to reflect the current state of the University's policies and procedures, and to ensure that they are consistent with the principles of fairness and due process.

Professor proposes hybrid car to cut pollution, parking space

By DAVID KAYE

Some of the biggest transportation problems of some of the nation's biggest cities may be solved by a hybrid car with an unusual engine. The vehicle is essentially a car that has a fuel-efficient motor to provide power when the car is stationary. But the car also has a feature that allows it to operate on a separate electric power source, making it more efficient and reducing pollution.

The car, which the student decided to call the "Hybrid Car," is a hybrid of the gas power and electric power engines. The hybrid car would reduce pollution because of the small size of its gas power engine and its use of a partially electric power source. The hybrid car would be a hybrid with a dual power system.

The system proposed by the University psychology department would help to determine the feasibility and performance of the car. The car, he said, would be a hybrid with a dual power system.

"Considering the only word that signifies in my mind an appropriate description of this exceptional film, its color is absolutely gorgeous. The performers are perfect—that is an appropriate description of this film. Written and Directed by Bo Widerberg, with Thommy Berggren as Barry Jordan, "Madigan" is a testament to the power of cinema. In-depth review by Barry Jordan.

New grid coach

Wojcicki lines up defense

By HOWIE TOPEL

Although one might expect Ron Wojcicki to be here for his fifteenth year as head coach of Penn's football team, he has taken a new approach to his coaching career.

In contrast to previous seasons, Wojcicki has been focusing on more than just football. He has been spending time on finding ways to improve his players' mental game, which he believes is just as important as their physical abilities.

The new coach faced his first problem earlier this week when he was preparing for the annual team photo. "I can't believe how nervous they are," Wojcicki said. "I mean, we're playing against the best teams in the country, and they're nervous?" He added, "But I think we'll be fine. I've got a good team, and I think we can do well this year."
