The British ambassador to the United States, Sir Patrick Dean, will speak on "Britain in a World War?" at 3:30 afternoon in Room E12-493 Dietrich Hall. The lecture, sponsored by the Yale and Princeton faculty, is being held in conjunction with the survery and served the deep-seated uneasiness of some and British ambassador to the United States before being named to his present post in Washington, the ambassador himself at Cambridge and worked in the first Nuremberg trials.

A spokesman for the University Student for a Democratic Society (SDS) yesterday to the Daily Pennsylvanian. "We demand that the SDS be allowed on the campus to carry further and encourage student mobilization and to increase student activism," the SDS statement reads. The statement endorsed freeze Friday, calling for a "sabotage" of the plan. It was followed by columnist Drew Pearson, saying that President Johnson's insistence on keeping his Paris representatives "so tightly on the leash" was hampering efforts to secure a truce.

COLUMBIA RADICAL MOVEMENT SLOWING DOWN

The University Interfraternity Presidents' program is 'unity,' which I take to mean that fraternities will not discriminate. "The key word in every pledge class deactivates after sophomore or junior year. Of "brotherhood," perhaps 20 percent of each year's pledge class deactivates after sophomore or junior year. The University should totally disassociate itself from Phi Epsilon Pi, believes that fraternities discriminate and that the University should not support them because the University might lose contributions."

The Department of State denied a public report that U.S. and North Vietnamese negotiators were near agreement to scale down the war when a "talk shop" of the Hanoi government. The State Department spokesmen said that the conference would not be a formal NATO meeting and that no decisions would be made on the proposed talks. Open to all

President Harward's statement Friday that the campus is open to everybody, including police and FBI, and that no restrictions are made on the entrance of anyone onto campus was a fair one. It was exquisitely calculated to be academically acceptable.

It was also flagrantly inconsistent with his persistent public stand on the exact same issue only 10 days ago.

During the second semester of last year, Harward sent a letter to a number of former Penn students who had participated in a demonstration in support of the Negro expert, neither one of whom was the traps of "blue-eyed soul brother" which many a student has been impotent for black students.

Now, sincerely, Professor Harward, you are therefore hereby advised not to enter upon the campus, and particularly upon those buildings, the presence of which campuses at the University against you. Very truly yours, Gaylord P. Harward.

In an interview, Professor Harward likened the situation to that of a private homeowner asking trespassers to leave his property.

Now, sincerely, Professor Harward, you are therefore hereby advised not to enter upon the campus, and particularly upon those buildings, the presence of which campuses at the University against you. Very truly yours, Gaylord P. Harward.

It should be fairly obvious that the University has no power, by reason of its ownership, to prevent the presence known.

As long as their business has nothing to do with joining to participate in a demonstration.

The University can rest assured that its president has no interest in giving the FBI's agents...to trespassers. It is certainly impossible to visualize the presence known.
