Student fights for right of assembly

Test case now in court

Students were arrested by Lt. George Fonda's Civil Disturbance team for trying to overturn the reorganization of the Student Union building, the arrests were made, 10,000 students and faculty members were at the University for a demonstration.
This Sunday is the last official function of fraternity rush. All fraternity houses will be open from 2 to 4 P.M. and will be making mammoth attempts to impress freshmen. These fraternity houses will be braving all liberal attitudes in the fraternity system and about the attempts being made to change all of these discriminations which, despite claims to the contrary, still remain within the system.

The fraternities can do no more than half the fighting to eliminate discrimination. It would be impossible for a non-Jewish house to pledge a Jew if that house has never been violated by a Jew. Freshman rushes can determine whether the discriminatory vestiges in the present fraternity structure will be carried on into the Class of 1972.

Without giving a blanket endorsement to fraternities, we urge freshmen not to be swayed by a view of fraternity rush and not merely to imitate free punch, but to find out for themselves whether this is the type of rush they want. If you feel rush to rush, do not make the senseless mistake of limiting yourself to houses of your own religious persuasion.

it's insignificant, except that it has been interpreted by some as a form of non-cooperation. In fact, the practice of "heeling" is not without its critics. Some feel that it is an unnecessary and disruptive act that undermines the authority of the master and the respect for the dog. Others argue that it is a natural and instinctual behavior that should be encouraged to ensure the obedience and loyalty of the dog. Regardless of one's position on the matter, it is clear that "heeling" continues to be a topic of discussion and debate within the world of military science. As such, it remains important to stay informed about the latest research and developments in this area. It's worth noting that the military science community is constantly evolving, and new methods and techniques are being developed to improve the effectiveness and efficiency of military operations. It is essential for all military personnel to stay up-to-date with the latest advancements in this field in order to ensure that they are prepared for any challenges that may be presented to them. At the end of the day, "heeling" is just one small aspect of the larger and more complex world of military science. It's important to remember that no single issue, no matter how seemingly insignificant, should be taken for granted. Instead, we must remain vigilant and committed to learning and growing in this ever-changing field.
Honor Board and code now start fifth year

The internal and external University honor system is mentioned favorably by students and faculty members, according to Paul Morris, chairman of the Honor Board.

The system, in its fifth year, is designed to improve the academic and social climate on campus by teaching increasing student responsibility. It operates on the concept that the campus community, under the aegis of the Student Senate, is the best judge of what behavior is permitted and what behavior is not. Under the code, a student's ultimate responsibility is to recognize and act as a student and to recognize and act as a member of the University community.

The Board's function is to consider reports for opening up for the internal members, one junior secretary, and one member from the inter-university system. The Board members must take the initiative to require written consent of the applicant to be submitted to the Board of the Honors Faculty, the set of the Senate, or before Thursday, October 5.

The Board consists of 11 members, representatives of the six undergraduate schools. The Board investigates reported cases of undergraduate students and recommends the appropriate disciplinary action to be taken by school officials. Penalties range from a warning to suspension or expulsion.

In a crisis, it takes courage to be a leader—courage to speak the truth, and to point the way. . . . to say, "Follow Me!" In a crisis, it takes action to survive. . . . the kind of decisive action that comes from a man of sound instinct, as well as intelligence.

If America is to survive this crisis . . . if the youth of America are to play their role in the formation of the future . . . if the youth of America are to become a part of the American Establishment, and they've got to act. They've got to act now.

The Tea Party

"This was one week," the Manches heard a lot about it, and I"m not wondering about it. "I don't want to hear about it."

"You say that?", and the Manches

John Hatch is a name that strikes everybody's hearts of Pennsylvania football fans. So have another drink.
After all, it's the time of year again.
The world is always weekly amusing. It may be hard to remember the time that once paper has all the way to another game before the Quakers lose season. Because, that time the

Do you remember the Quaker fans?
Drinking to much.

Both Hatch, remember that bad hospital, a couple of dropped passes and fumbles, and a certain fourth-and seven after seven to think about tomorrow.
