Local

OPEN HEARING ON GOVERNMENT SCHEDULED FOR TUESDAY

A general town meeting, open to the University community, to discuss and debate potential changes to the University's government will commence at 5:15 p.m. in the Fine Arts Building auditorium, Jim Onsman, chairman of the five-member subcommittee, stated. The meeting will be followed by a free exchange of ideas in a question-and-answer session.

FACULTY TO MEET TODAY TO DISCUSS RESEARCH STRIKE

A meeting is scheduled today for faculty members interested in joining the sit-in to discuss the bi-weekly research controversy. The meeting will be held at 8 a.m. in the Department of Chemistry.

ENGINEERING FACULTY DOES NOT DISCUSS MILITARY SCIENCE

The University's engineering faculty in the Graduate Program in Engineering did not discuss the bill for discussion in the scheduled meeting of the engineering subject. The original proposal stated that the engineering faculty members would be given the opportunity to express their views on the bill. The meeting was called at an earlier date to discuss the military and naval science course requirements. The meeting was held at 4 p.m.

SDS TO PLAN ANTI-UC ACTION AT MEETING TONIGHT

The University chapter of the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) will meet to plan new actions against the University's President, Lyman B. Whitaker. The SDS members are planning to introduce a bill in the state legislature to require the University to report on the military and naval science course requirements. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the Department of Chemistry.

GSA PASSES PLACEMENT SERVICE DECISION

A resolution directing the University Placement Service to require all candidates to have an interview before hiring was passed by the University's Senate. The resolution was introduced by the Senate's planning committee and was debated by the Senate's standing committees. The resolution was passed by a vote of 3 to 1.

DENHENGUR SPEAKS TO TONIGHT ON CITY CRISIS INSURANCE

Dr. Herbert D. Denenberg, Harry J. Lewis associate professor of psychiatry and psychology, will discuss "Health Insurance: A Social and Psychological Commentary," tonight at 8 p.m. in Room B-6 in Stiteler Hall.

National

U OF CHICAGO STUDENTS CONTINUE 5-DAY SIT-IN

Chicago — Supporters of a defaced sticker at the University of Chicago administration building, student leaders, students, and faculty members have been on strike since Monday. Opponents of the strike have been on strike since Monday. The strike was called after the administration refused to agree to the students' demands for a meeting with the administration.

Protest report urges college revision

The Daily Pennsylvanian report urges college revision

By BOB HOFFMAN

The College administration will make significant proposals to the College faculty to consider the college curriculum. The proposed changes include reducing the credit classes from 12 to 10, increasing the number of courses offered in the arts and sciences, and exempting the courses from the present graduation requirements.

Other major proposals include:

- A reduction in the number of courses required for the major course requirements from 13 to 11 for the arts and sciences programs.
- A reduction in the foreign language requirements from 2 to 1 for the arts and sciences programs.
- A reduction of the gymnasium and physical education requirements from the present 2 to 1 for the arts and sciences programs.
- An increase in the number of courses offered in the arts and sciences programs, in which the student is required to complete a minimum of 12 courses.

The report from the provost's office, which is currently available, is not final. The report was presented to each of the University's undergraduate divisions.

University investments

Portfolio includes tea service

By ARNOLD J. HOLLAND

A tea service will be offered to the University's students by the University's Board of Trustees and the University's President. The tea service will be available in the University's dining halls and in the University's dormitories.

President's Advisory Panel on insurance

The President's National Advisory Panel on insurance in riot-affected areas held its first meeting on Monday. The panel was formed to discuss the University's insurance policies and to provide advice to the University's administration on insurance matters.

The panel's first meeting was held in Room B-6 in Stiteler Hall.

(Continued on page 4)

Photo by KEN SOUSER
To hold firm

The student members of the University Forum and the faculty members of the Joint Committee on Presidential Qualifications are acting in the best interest of the University by holding firm on the issue of representation for the student point of view. The decision taken by both groups was arrived at after a thorough discussion of the problem and the issues involved.

The procedure committee was announced last month, it was immediately noticed that the faculty and student representation was greatly reduced. The committee will determine the procedures that will be used to find the new president of the University. But the Forum members have refused to select students until the parity issue is resolved.

There is a tendency to simplify the issue, and Price’s article offers no disservice. The student Forum members are hopeful of arranging a meeting with Price and representatives of the trustee executive to discuss the issue further.

The parity issue is symbolic as well as real. The student-employee relationship at the University is not patronage, but actual involvement. The student members should be allowed to participate in the decision-making process.

The student representatives are demanding that the decision-making power be shared among the three groups: trustees, faculty members, and students. The student representatives believe that they command six-thirteenths of the decision-making power, and the faculty representatives believe that they command one-third.

The student representatives have supported him in the past and have become extremely comfortable with him. They believe that he sought and won the presidency, and they are capable of representing their constituency. The student representatives are confident that they can present a strong and meaningful case for student representation.

The parity issue is not just about numbers. It is about the democratic way to decide upon issues that affect the University. The student representatives feel that the current system is not fair, and they are committed to fighting for their rights.

Sir: I would like to reply to the article "Is coming back to blackness" by Mr. Charles A. Kruse. I do not think that the author’s views are based on sound facts.

First of all, his comment concerning fraternities is not true. The Fraternity of Phi Alpha Theta is not a social club, but a professional fraternity. It is not that the author is trying to stir up a controversy, but he is trying to mislead the public.

The question of fraternity deaths is not just about numbers. It is about the safety of the students. The fraternity men are dying from alcohol abuse, and the author is not addressing this issue.

The author is comparing the fraternity/fraternity deaths to other deaths, but he is not comparing them to other deaths in the same situation.

Sir: I would like to reply to Mr. Charles A. Kruse’s article "Is coming back to blackness".

First of all, his comment concerning fraternities is not true. The Fraternity of Phi Alpha Theta is not a social club, but a professional fraternity. It is not that the author is trying to stir up a controversy, but he is trying to mislead the public.

The question of fraternity deaths is not just about numbers. It is about the safety of the students. The fraternity men are dying from alcohol abuse, and the author is not addressing this issue.

The author is comparing the fraternity/fraternity deaths to other deaths, but he is not comparing them to other deaths in the same situation.

Sir: The breadth of the 19th and 20th centuries has been so influenced by the University of Pennsylvania. It is a truly remarkable institution.

The majority of us think that the administration and the "IP" are at fault. But the real problem is that we have no organization to solve the problem. We therefore have all of our problems in the hands of these individuals, who have the best interests of the University at heart. But they are not the ones who are solving the problems.

Well, while we’re sitting here, we’re just wasting our time. We’re not doing anything that we could be doing. We’re just sitting here, and we’re not solving anything.

If we’re contemplating an idea, we should write it down. And if we’re writing it down, we should do something about it. We’re just sitting here, and we’re not doing anything.

The people who are in the university are not doing anything. They are not managing to come up with any solutions. They are not taking action. They are not doing anything.

And so we are forced to continue sitting here, and we’re not doing anything.

Sir: The article "Is coming back to blackness" is a misrepresentation of the facts.

First of all, his comment concerning fraternities is not true. The Fraternity of Phi Alpha Theta is not a social club, but a professional fraternity. It is not that the author is trying to stir up a controversy, but he is trying to mislead the public.

The question of fraternity deaths is not just about numbers. It is about the safety of the students. The fraternity men are dying from alcohol abuse, and the author is not addressing this issue.

The author is comparing the fraternity/fraternity deaths to other deaths, but he is not comparing them to other deaths in the same situation.

Sir: The breadth of the 19th and 20th centuries has been so influenced by the University of Pennsylvania. It is a truly remarkable institution.

The majority of us think that the administration and the "IP" are at fault. But the real problem is that we have no organization to solve the problem. We therefore have all of our problems in the hands of these individuals, who have the best interests of the University at heart. But they are not the ones who are solving the problems.

Well, while we’re sitting here, we’re just wasting our time. We’re not doing anything that we could be doing. We’re just sitting here, and we’re not solving anything.

If we’re contemplating an idea, we should write it down. And if we’re writing it down, we should do something about it. We’re just sitting here, and we’re not doing anything.

The people who are in the university are not doing anything. They are not managing to come up with any solutions. They are not taking action. They are not doing anything.

And so we are forced to continue sitting here, and we’re not doing anything.

Sir: The article "Is coming back to blackness" is a misrepresentation of the facts.

First of all, his comment concerning fraternities is not true. The Fraternity of Phi Alpha Theta is not a social club, but a professional fraternity. It is not that the author is trying to stir up a controversy, but he is trying to mislead the public.

The question of fraternity deaths is not just about numbers. It is about the safety of the students. The fraternity men are dying from alcohol abuse, and the author is not addressing this issue.

The author is comparing the fraternity/fraternity deaths to other deaths, but he is not comparing them to other deaths in the same situation.

Sir: The breadth of the 19th and 20th centuries has been so influenced by the University of Pennsylvania. It is a truly remarkable institution.

The majority of us think that the administration and the "IP" are at fault. But the real problem is that we have no organization to solve the problem. We therefore have all of our problems in the hands of these individuals, who have the best interests of the University at heart. But they are not the ones who are solving the problems.

Well, while we’re sitting here, we’re just wasting our time. We’re not doing anything that we could be doing. We’re just sitting here, and we’re not solving anything.

If we’re contemplating an idea, we should write it down. And if we’re writing it down, we should do something about it. We’re just sitting here, and we’re not doing anything.

The people who are in the university are not doing anything. They are not managing to come up with any solutions. They are not taking action. They are not doing anything.

And so we are forced to continue sitting here, and we’re not doing anything.

Sir: The article "Is coming back to blackness" is a misrepresentation of the facts.

First of all, his comment concerning fraternities is not true. The Fraternity of Phi Alpha Theta is not a social club, but a professional fraternity. It is not that the author is trying to stir up a controversy, but he is trying to mislead the public.

The question of fraternity deaths is not just about numbers. It is about the safety of the students. The fraternity men are dying from alcohol abuse, and the author is not addressing this issue.

The author is comparing the fraternity/fraternity deaths to other deaths, but he is not comparing them to other deaths in the same situation.

Sir: The breadth of the 19th and 20th centuries has been so influenced by the University of Pennsylvania. It is a truly remarkable institution.

The majority of us think that the administration and the "IP" are at fault. But the real problem is that we have no organization to solve the problem. We therefore have all of our problems in the hands of these individuals, who have the best interests of the University at heart. But they are not the ones who are solving the problems.

Well, while we’re sitting here, we’re just wasting our time. We’re not doing anything that we could be doing. We’re just sitting here, and we’re not solving anything.

If we’re contemplating an idea, we should write it down. And if we’re writing it down, we should do something about it. We’re just sitting here, and we’re not doing anything.

The people who are in the university are not doing anything. They are not managing to come up with any solutions. They are not taking action. They are not doing anything.

And so we are forced to continue sitting here, and we’re not doing anything.

Sir: The article "Is coming back to blackness" is a misrepresentation of the facts.

First of all, his comment concerning fraternities is not true. The Fraternity of Phi Alpha Theta is not a social club, but a professional fraternity. It is not that the author is trying to stir up a controversy, but he is trying to mislead the public.

The question of fraternity deaths is not just about numbers. It is about the safety of the students. The fraternity men are dying from alcohol abuse, and the author is not addressing this issue.

The author is comparing the fraternity/fraternity deaths to other deaths, but he is not comparing them to other deaths in the same situation.

Sir: The breadth of the 19th and 20th centuries has been so influenced by the University of Pennsylvania. It is a truly remarkable institution.

The majority of us think that the administration and the "IP" are at fault. But the real problem is that we have no organization to solve the problem. We therefore have all of our problems in the hands of these individuals, who have the best interests of the University at heart. But they are not the ones who are solving the problems.

Well, while we’re sitting here, we’re just wasting our time. We’re not doing anything that we could be doing. We’re just sitting here, and we’re not solving anything.

If we’re contemplating an idea, we should write it down. And if we’re writing it down, we should do something about it. We’re just sitting here, and we’re not doing anything.

The people who are in the university are not doing anything. They are not managing to come up with any solutions. They are not taking action. They are not doing anything.

And so we are forced to continue sitting here, and we’re not doing anything.

Sir: The article "Is coming back to blackness" is a misrepresentation of the facts.

First of all, his comment concerning fraternities is not true. The Fraternity of Phi Alpha Theta is not a social club, but a professional fraternity. It is not that the author is trying to stir up a controversy, but he is trying to mislead the public.

The question of fraternity deaths is not just about numbers. It is about the safety of the students. The fraternity men are dying from alcohol abuse, and the author is not addressing this issue.

The author is comparing the fraternity/fraternity deaths to other deaths, but he is not comparing them to other deaths in the same situation.

Sir: The breadth of the 19th and 20th centuries has been so influenced by the University of Pennsylvania. It is a truly remarkable institution.

The majority of us think that the administration and the "IP" are at fault. But the real problem is that we have no organization to solve the problem. We therefore have all of our problems in the hands of these individuals, who have the best interests of the University at heart. But they are not the ones who are solving the problems.

Well, while we’re sitting here, we’re just wasting our time. We’re not doing anything that we could be doing. We’re just sitting here, and we’re not solving anything.

If we’re contemplating an idea, we should write it down. And if we’re writing it down, we should do something about it. We’re just sitting here, and we’re not doing anything.

The people who are in the university are not doing anything. They are not managing to come up with any solutions. They are not taking action. They are not doing anything.

And so we are forced to continue sitting here, and we’re not doing anything.
CLASSIFIEDS

INN, the home of the "Happy Hour" only $175 per month.

COEDS - WE'RE TWO FUN-LOVING STUDENTS available June 1st. 39th & Chestnut. Furniture investment.

APARTMENT - 7 ROOMS, 4 BEDROOMS. AVAILABLE MARCH 15TH. 4015 Pine St., EV 2-9331.

APT TO SHARE - MALE GRAD STUDENT HAS accurate, excellent references. DORIS, MI 9-6684.

Black & White processing, mounting, fast copy and chemistry symbols. Experience in PhJ). dishwashing, furniture, it would be a pity if something drastic proposal than most speeches presented at faculty meetings. (Continued from page 1)

"Considering how badly our general public. Anyone interested in joining the speaker for dinner at the Moravian Cafe immediately after the talk should contact Annette Blanendijk at EV 6-5618.

THE INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS ASSOCIATION ANNOUNCES ITS 1969 SERIES OF FACULTY-COMPETENT DISCUSSION GROUPS:

1. Wednesday, February 12, 1969, Dr. Alan M. Heston of the economics department, "Economic Development of India and Pakistan".

2. Monday, February 17, 1969, Dr. Roman D. Palmer of the political science department, "American Foreign Policy in Vietnam and Laos".

3. Thursday, February 20, 1969, Dr. Robert J. Osborn of the political science department, "Are the Communist and Non-Communist Worlds Growing More Alike?"

4. Tuesday, February 26, 1969, Dr. Allan Rickett of the history department, "Chinese Foreign Policy."

5. Wednesday, February 26, 1969, Mr. Michael Grant of the economics department, "Foreign Policy of the New Administration."

All discussion groups will be held in Room 33 of the Christian Center. Ages 18-30, 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. and will be open to the general public. Anyone interested in joining the speaker for dinner at the Moravian Cafe immediately after the talk should contact Annette Blanendijk at EV 5-6518.
Cuban economy a 'shambles,' claims Feiffer

by BARBARA SLOPA

"The government won't even list the enemy," President Sosa said, "and even after 10 years of revolution they can't even identify the enemy. They have a paper project called 'The Cuban Economy,' which no one has seen."

An advisory board was set up, Feiffer went on to describe the Cuban economy, to look at how the Cuban economy could be improved. President Sosa, the report, had been asked, "What is the problem with the Cuban economy?"

"It is a problem of the United States," Feiffer said. "They have a problem of the United States." He then went on to describe the Cuban economy in terms of market prices and non-market economies, and the effect of market prices in non-market economies.

"The Cuban economy is a problem of the United States," Feiffer said. "They have a problem of the United States." He then went on to describe the Cuban economy in terms of market prices and non-market economies, and the effect of market prices in non-market economies.

Feiffer also commented on the "clown economy" of the United States. He then went on to describe the Cuban economy in terms of market prices and non-market economies, and the effect of market prices in non-market economies.

"The Cuban economy is a problem of the United States," Feiffer said. "They have a problem of the United States." He then went on to describe the Cuban economy in terms of market prices and non-market economies, and the effect of market prices in non-market economies.

Feiffer also commented on the "clown economy" of the United States. He then went on to describe the Cuban economy in terms of market prices and non-market economies, and the effect of market prices in non-market economies.

"The Cuban economy is a problem of the United States," Feiffer said. "They have a problem of the United States." He then went on to describe the Cuban economy in terms of market prices and non-market economies, and the effect of market prices in non-market economies.

Feiffer also commented on the "clown economy" of the United States. He then went on to describe the Cuban economy in terms of market prices and non-market economies, and the effect of market prices in non-market economies.

"The Cuban economy is a problem of the United States," Feiffer said. "They have a problem of the United States." He then went on to describe the Cuban economy in terms of market prices and non-market economies, and the effect of market prices in non-market economies.

Feiffer also commented on the "clown economy" of the United States. He then went on to describe the Cuban economy in terms of market prices and non-market economies, and the effect of market prices in non-market economies.

"The Cuban economy is a problem of the United States," Feiffer said. "They have a problem of the United States." He then went on to describe the Cuban economy in terms of market prices and non-market economies, and the effect of market prices in non-market economies.

Feiffer also commented on the "clown economy" of the United States. He then went on to describe the Cuban economy in terms of market prices and non-market economies, and the effect of market prices in non-market economies.

"The Cuban economy is a problem of the United States," Feiffer said. "They have a problem of the United States." He then went on to describe the Cuban economy in terms of market prices and non-market economies, and the effect of market prices in non-market economies.

Feiffer also commented on the "clown economy" of the United States. He then went on to describe the Cuban economy in terms of market prices and non-market economies, and the effect of market prices in non-market economies.

"The Cuban economy is a problem of the United States," Feiffer said. "They have a problem of the United States." He then went on to describe the Cuban economy in terms of market prices and non-market economies, and the effect of market prices in non-market economies.

Feiffer also commented on the "clown economy" of the United States. He then went on to describe the Cuban economy in terms of market prices and non-market economies, and the effect of market prices in non-market economies.
Feiffer ‘chokes’ on his chunk of America

By HARRY RINGEL

The theater of the Living Arts was treating a public to a peculiar play when they chose Jules Feiffer’s "Little Murders" for production this season. A play way which only two years ago, had kicked after only seven performances on Broadway. By the same token, it was a reasonable success on the London stage, though perhaps only through the fact that it is no "New York" American play. The theater is a private one in the Philadelphia area with an operating capacity -- a play with past performaces, though very possibly unappreciated, is past. To its credit, the TLA group is interested in the ultimate failure of Little Murders, a play which collapses under the weight of its own overwhelming virtues in the original production.

What Feiffer purports to be saying in Little Murders is something about America, honesty when he is saying images are defined more clearly, as the play goes on, and the interest at the conclusion of scenes for specific interpretation. Feiffer has obviously taken on a high-church position in his work. He is either a prophet or a heretic or a combination of both. In any case, the superficial depiction of the collapse of America’s dreams. The audience is meant to realize that the content is in the limited frame of reference of the stage. "Little Murders" assumes the aura of a series of scenes in a private apartment in New York, and, for all intents and purposes, a "Grand Old Lady of the Theater" is playing two supporting roles, is delightfully well played. The final act is a weakly thought out play for five scenes of a lot has been said about life in this country. The writing keeps the audience out of the theater. It is, however, not a very funny play.
Unbeaten freshmen promise bright hoop future for Penn

HARRY DASH
"We're not exactly a superhuman Penn freshman basketball coach Dick Phelps. "We want to win the Ivy League, but we don't want to go out and win the world." But it's not too early to chart his charges, "You can't win anywhere," he commented of his charges, "but you can lose anywhere."

Dick Phelps, '61 "He's a winner."

With Dave Totten and Larry Burns beaming a构成了和heirs of thisream's reserves, Phelps has been able to rest his starters adequately for the second half of games, according to Phelps, "We just lost two seniors." Phelps, who has the future as bright as the present, commented, "We'll be back, though. Anyone who gets five players averaging in double figures can get excited." The future looks good for Phelps and the Quakers. "They're not. They're confident," Phelps concluded, "but they'll be the exception." Phelps, who has the future as bright as the present, commented, "We'll be back, though. Anyone who gets five players averaging in double figures can get excited." The future looks good for Phelps and the Quakers.

Phelps agrees, "We just blow teams out." Phelps, who has the future as bright as the present, commented, "We'll be back, though. Anyone who gets five players averaging in double figures can get excited." The future looks good for Phelps and the Quakers.

"If their perfect record is any indication, the Quaker freshman team has a habit of turning their opponents into their very own private home court." Phelps, who has the future as bright as the present, commented, "We'll be back, though. Anyone who gets five players averaging in double figures can get excited." The future looks good for Phelps and the Quakers.

"If their perfect record is any indication, the Quaker freshman team has a habit of turning their opponents into their very own private home court." Phelps, who has the future as bright as the present, commented, "We'll be back, though. Anyone who gets five players averaging in double figures can get excited." The future looks good for Phelps and the Quakers.

"If their perfect record is any indication, the Quaker freshman team has a habit of turning their opponents into their very own private home court." Phelps, who has the future as bright as the present, commented, "We'll be back, though. Anyone who gets five players averaging in double figures can get excited." The future looks good for Phelps and the Quakers.

"If their perfect record is any indication, the Quaker freshman team has a habit of turning their opponents into their very own private home court." Phelps, who has the future as bright as the present, commented, "We'll be back, though. Anyone who gets five players averaging in double figures can get excited." The future looks good for Phelps and the Quakers.

"If their perfect record is any indication, the Quaker freshman team has a habit of turning their opponents into their very own private home court." Phelps, who has the future as bright as the present, commented, "We'll be back, though. Anyone who gets five players averaging in double figures can get excited." The future looks good for Phelps and the Quakers.

"If their perfect record is any indication, the Quaker freshman team has a habit of turning their opponents into their very own private home court." Phelps, who has the future as bright as the present, commented, "We'll be back, though. Anyone who gets five players averaging in double figures can get excited." The future looks good for Phelps and the Quakers.

"If their perfect record is any indication, the Quaker freshman team has a habit of turning their opponents into their very own private home court." Phelps, who has the future as bright as the present, commented, "We'll be back, though. Anyone who gets five players averaging in double figures can get excited." The future looks good for Phelps and the Quakers.