COALITION PLANS SUPPORT FOR EASTER DEMONSTRATION

An informal coalition of various anti-war groups on campus met Thursday afternoon to talk about the feasibility of organizing an anti-war "booth" demonstration in New York. The meeting was chaired by Richard F. Russell, chairman of the University Chapter of the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS). The purpose of the demonstration was to protest the Vietnam War, but also to assert the civil liberties of the Vietnamese people.

RUSSELL TO MEET WITH LEADERS IN BUB-HUB MERGER DISPUTE

The Rev. Jack Russell, vice provost for student affairs, will meet next week with Janet Churms, chairman of the Board of Faculty Senate, and John L. Beus, chairman of the House of Faculty Board, to discuss a possible merger of the two organizations. Russell said the two groups will meet on Monday, Feb. 17.

The meeting next week will be the third time the groups have been discussed, and Russell said he expects that in the future they will meet at least once a month. Russell said the reason for opposition to the merger is to try to stop the merger. Until this last year, the two boards met only once a year, and Russell said he believed that the meetings were necessary before they took a next step. Russell said, "I think the handshake is pretty close. It's just a matter of when."

Admissions office to accept black students until March

By JIM HOGE

It is an effort to enroll as many black students as possible in next year's freshman class. A dean of admissions of another Pennsylvania school has told his staff that he won't be as picky this year. But he will have a black student to go with his white one, and his staff will need to make sure they are on equal footing.

After working through some very juicy documents, Jo-Ann Horovitz, who is working on the project, said that the office was working with a much more racially diverse pool of applicants. And the pool is much larger than the pool of applicants for the last 10 years.

The irony is unbearable; and the play is painful to see. The audience positively overreacts to the violence, the nature of which we think distinguishes rats specifically, but that we're animals, that we react instinct and not the reason which we think distinguishes us from other beings.

The final seminar, taught by Murphy, assistant professor of sociology, covers "The Urban Crisis and Its Effect on Business." Horovitz is up to, and all the details of the production reflect Horovitz's work. While the material itself suffers from some point. Neither seemed to be men playing rats nor rats and John Mummaw attained the balance between man and rats may seem a unlikely paradigm for man, but Horovitz plays. While the material itself suffers from some point. Neither seemed to be men playing rats nor rats and John Mummaw attained the balance between man and rats exist. Joanna's nostril becomes a content in the face the game winning, around which occurred. [The Red and Blue had organised a treaty before the elections.]

We've got to get the point where we expect to win, "Horovitz said. "We're not going to win with just our top guys."

Youth air fares may cease; students, Congressmen protest

Princeton

At least 300 Princeton students protested, blocking traffic at intersections. The demonstration took place in response to a new transnportation policy announced by the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB). In the face of pres-
dent opposition,

One of the leaders of the protest,
Saxon, a junior from Princeton, news, "We are convinced that only the CAB has the right to make such decisions. We take our position that their decision has been made in good faith and deserves the support of all people of good will."

Saxon said that President's decision was based on a nearly unassailable discrimination in fares. Saxon and his supporters claim that the youth fares represent a form of reverse discrimination. However, Smith pointed out, for discrimination to exist, passengers must be charged different fares for "substantially similar" services. Saxon and his colleagues, however, maintain that there are substantial differences in service, and that the CAB failed to take these differences into account.

The CAB's opposition to youth fares began with Smith,
who expressed concern about the CAB's role in setting fares. The CAB was originally established to protect the interests of the airlines, but now it is being used to discriminate against students.

The CAB's decision was also criticized by members of Congress.

President. He warned that the CAB's decision would result in the loss of a generation of students, who are the future of the country. He also expressed concern about the impact of the decision on the nation's transportation system.

The controversy began in 1964 when Transcontinental Continental announced a suit with the CAB charging that youth fares represented discrimination. By the time that CAB refused to review the case, the CAB had already made its decision. The CAB's decision was based on the fact that there was no evidence of discrimination.

Singers aim for Ivy wins against Brown and Yale

By HOPPER TOPEL
There were some only slightly glowing phrases in the heater of the Lloyd brothers. They seemed to have done a good job of smoothing things out for the final.

There's a sense that some of the players are just a bit more comfortable with the idea of winning.

Penn squash this season has been a bit of a surprise. The team was picked to finish third in the Ivy League, but has been contending for the top spot throughout the season.

The Penn squash team is currently ranked third in the nation, just behind Harvard and Princeton. The team is looking to make a strong showing in the upcoming NCAA tournaments.
