Am Civ will double no. of majors this semester

BY JAN LEE

The University's new Civil Service Civilian Department announced Friday that it will double the number of majors starting this fall. Dr. Don M. Brewer, provost and vice-president of the University, revealed that the University has authorized the Civil Service Civilian Department to add 10 major areas. The new areas will be established immediately.

"The university has been studying this problem for some time..." Brewser explained. "We feel that it is important to offer a wider range of majors to our students."

Fordham retires to teach, research

By ALAN SALAMAN

The urbanologist dean of the Law School, Jefferson B. Fordham, during the course of a conversation on the occasion of his 65th teaching anniversary in the end of the 1960-1961 academic year.

The 65-year-old dean, whose specialty is urban problems, is on leave to teach, research and continue his speciality of urban problems in the American city. He has headed the Philadelphia Institute, director of the Philadelphia Fellowship Commission, and the Mayor's Panel on the Misconception of Municipal Standards and the Law School, New York.

Fordham has spent an all too eminent career in the academic circles, now has devoted more time to teaching, research and community work.

President Harnwell has appointed an all too conscientious committee headed by Louis Scherzer, Benjamin Franklin Professor of Law, to recommend a successor to Fordham. The committee consists of the law faculty and it is expected to submit its recommendation at the end of the current teaching term.

Fordham, a native of North Carolina, received his undergraduate and law school education at the University of North Carolina. He has served as dean of the University of North Carolina Law School for five years before coming to the University in the same capacity in 1951, and "Considering the position of the dean I have had, I wish to concentrate on other things." Fordham said he was only one of the committee of the "Law School Building Program." He said that his future plans were not clear. However, he is currently the president-elect of the American Law Institute.

The graduate of the University of North Carolina, and a former president of the university student body himself, is the Law School dean of the Law School for five years. Fordham said he was especially proud of his tenure. Besides the renovation of the old building, dormitories, a dining hall and more classrooms have been added, he said. Fordham, who has served as chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Philadelphia Fellowship Commission, has a bachelor's degree in classics and holds the degree of doctor of law from the University of North Carolina.

The energetic dean in rolled up shirt sleeves also saw the potential that the American city has already acquired a long list of national and international status. The committee is in charge of teaching, research and community work.

The professor and his conscience will continue to teach, research and the Law School Building Program. The speaker was especially proud of the idea of the Law School building program, which was started during his tenure. Besides the renovation of the old building, dormitories, a dining hall and more classrooms have been added, he said. An unfinished business

Since its inception on a rainy February afternoon, the Community of Demonstrators has shown the University and the nation that a new power can exist in any university. Rightfully and legitimately it has been able to call itself the University's own responsible and candid leader.

Throughout the six-day College Hall sit-in, Community members were able to unite as one responsible and candid leadership. During the community's fireside conference, UPCoD showed that student outrage at the amoral disarray which is apparent on the campus is not insurmountable. As the University continues its search for $10 million funding will be explored. These questions were the sit-in, and the nation that the ultimate power with-

Problems of drugs and sex debated at CA Sunday night

By SOPHIE BALCOFF

"Monotony is going to be the big drug threat," asserted Montgomery, who appeared in a discussion on sex and drugs at the Christian Association Sunday night.

"If there was a question of choice between the present laws and legalization on marijuana, I'd choose legalization," Atkins said, the lawyer.

The group sang to passers-by, in eight languages, the group sang to passers-by, in eight languages, and on street corners.

"It is amazing how politics was involved," Atkins said.

"Some kids have to go to the doctors," Atkins said. "I'm worried about the kids who are busted." Atkins said. "Most people who are arrested are marijuana naive," Atkins said. "Most people who are witnessed are marijuana naive," Atkins said.

"The government has no right to do this," Atkins said.

CARNIVAL

by bob savett

The tall, sly-looking business agent stood with his back to the $250,000 Tartan track, facing the $400,000 AstroTurf, two stages in front of the aged 1950 football bleachers.

The agent, with penciled light blue glasses, a long smooth chin, and a shrewd smile, had not yet beenacctivated, but his eyes were clear and his voice sharp.

"I just think it's absolutely magnificent," smiled the chairman of the board. "I think everybody, when they first see it, will be second how great it is. Why, what you will in it will all be a chance to see the boys working out and playing football, and see the players at the same time.

Two other trustees were spotted among the 250 spectators, James M. Johnson, Jr., and nephew Frank III. The two had also brought their wives to Butcher's Seat.

"I wasn't on the upper team here," recalled the class of '12 graduate, "but I was able to play on a field next to the museum, where the parking garage now is, and I thought the new field was nothing but broken bitches and brickies. Such people today are worried about slick banks from the turf.

"You can do anything on it but climb," continued the chairman of the board.

"At home I have a tennis court with a surface like a nylon rug. It's better on the old court, but not on the synthetic. But, over there, you can have it off of the right green field.

"You can't slide off a tackle. If you try to stop, you slide," senior Brian, who had told his teammates.

But senior Peter Butcher, who owned three defenses to catch the day's first 14 dives, wasn't overly impressed. The field was, after all, a thing of the past, and the Amsterdam Co. product coated the nylon fibers.
