GE strike set in billion-dollar deal

The General Electric Company and the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America announced today that they have reached a tentative agreement for a new three-year contract, and that a strike of 147,000 workers is set to begin at midnight.

The agreement calls for a three-year contract with a 20 percent increase in wages and a cost-of-living adjustment for the period of the contract. The company says it will make a $2.5 billion investment in the industry over the next three years, and will hire 14,000 new workers.

The contract will go into effect on Oct. 1, 1971, and will end on Sept. 30, 1974. During the strike, the company will work 2,500 overtime hours per day for the first shift and 1,000 overtime hours per day for the second shift.

The Phila. Engineering Club announces a month-long Engineering Night. Engineering students are invited to attend a forum to be held at the auditorium, 1317 Girard Avenue, on the second Tuesday of every month. This is an opportunity for members to discuss topics of mutual interest.

Michael Cain, junior vice president for the program, will discuss "Automobiles and Possibilities of Telecommunication." 2 P.M. today, in the Annex.

The Pennsylvania Company for Higher Education, Inc., has announced the formation of the "Miles Scholarship." The program was established to provide financial assistance to students who plan to enter the professions of law, medicine, and the ministry. To qualify for the scholarship, applicants must meet certain academic requirements.

The program is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Company for Higher Education, Inc., and the University of Pennsylvania. For more information, contact the Pennsylvania Company for Higher Education, Inc., 1120 Spruce Street, Philadelphia, PA 19107.

On the necessity of having a language

THE language that we dedicate ourselves to is the most important of our intellectual requirements. Rather a very distant education. I know of an instance of the kind that will problems. The language is a true road that must be traveled by the mind of the learner in order to have the opportunity to express oneself clearly. It is the language that helps us to see ourselves and others. The language is a tool that we use to express our ideas and feelings. It is the language that allows us to communicate with others. It is the language that allows us to think.

Special to The Daily Pennsylvanian

No one knew for certain how the game would turn out. The Eastern Lions, who had come to the Palestra to show off their new coach, had never before met a Big Red team that was as good as they were. They were convinced they would win, but after the game, they were left with a feeling of uncertainty.

The Quakers were down by two at the end of the first half, but they came out swinging in the second half. They scored 18 points in the last 11 minutes of the game, and it was a convincing score of 9-2. It was the kind of performance that would make anyone believe in the possibility of a good team.
