Constitutional Runoff to be Held on Three Proposals

BY ANITA SABA

Last week's close connection between three also-ran university resolutions to succeed in the present Commonwealth of Student structs, has necessitated a runoff election planned for this Tuesday.

Resolutions rejected by the Elections Committee a little more than a week ago—two at the student senators' conference and one at the Senate—have been forestaled by the final-hour filings for today's major event.

The last-minute rush for an extra 48 hours has enabled three of the 11 resolutions put forth by the Senate to be reconsidered by the student body.

Majors Events

National

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said last night that the nation was moving into "a infusion of legislation and a beginning of a recession at the same time." Another Democratic Senator, Rarig Vehring, Tex., said that "The runoff was induced by the year's budget surplus and a desire for greater graduate student voice in the college's administrative decisions."

The United States, according to one graduate sociology student Haskell, said that a group of 25 graduate sociology students "strongly disagrees of and therefore cannot support the tactics being used by the political agents in the graduate students' conference." Haskell went on to say that "after tonight, the affairs of the students will be determined by the student body, probably in the same way it determined them before the Senate divisio..." The runoff will be held Tuesday in the Student Senate.

Sociology Grads Split Over Tactics

By J. B. TALMAGE

An effort to end the governmental repugnancy of last week's student-handle negotiations appeared to have reached its apex when a group of "reactionary" students asserted that at least 25 students in the department disagreed with the action of the committee.

The committee, according to a graduate sociology student Haskell, said that a group of 25 graduate sociology students "strongly disagrees of and therefore cannot support the tactics being used by the political agents in the graduate students' conference." Haskell went on to say that "after tonight, the affairs of the students will be determined by the student body, probably in the same way it determined them before the Senate division." The runoff will be held Tuesday in the Student Senate.

Sociology students met Monday to discuss recent movements for increased graduate participation in departmental affairs and the controversy which followed.

By JOHN SHEILED

The University has signed an agreement with the Pennsylvania state government to report the names of all state-aided students, who disrupt the functioning of the University, it was revealed on Friday.

The agreement, which will affect both undergraduate and graduate students, was signed by the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency (PHEAA) to comply with the state's financial aid program regulations.

Thomas Harnwell also called the act "highly appropriate" in view of the recent "national call to order" in the Graduate Students Association (GSA). With the security of individual right.

Major Events

National

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said last night that the nation was moving into "a infusion of legislation and a beginning of a recession at the same time." Another Democratic Senator, Rarig Vehring, Tex., said that "The runoff was induced by the year's budget surplus and a desire for greater graduate student voice in the college's administrative decisions."

The United States, according to one graduate sociology student Haskell, said that a group of 25 graduate sociology students "strongly disagrees of and therefore cannot support the tactics being used by the political agents in the graduate students' conference." Haskell went on to say that "after tonight, the affairs of the students will be determined by the student body, probably in the same way it determined them before the Senate division." The runoff will be held Tuesday in the Student Senate.

Sociology Grads Split Over Tactics

By J. B. TALMAGE

An effort to end the governmental repugnancy of last week's student-handle negotiations appeared to have reached its apex when a group of "reactionary" students asserted that at least 25 students in the department disagreed with the action of the committee.

The committee, according to a graduate sociology student Haskell, said that a group of 25 graduate sociology students "strongly disagrees of and therefore cannot support the tactics being used by the political agents in the graduate students' conference." Haskell went on to say that "after tonight, the affairs of the students will be determined by the student body, probably in the same way it determined them before the Senate division." The runoff will be held Tuesday in the Student Senate.

Sociology students met Monday to discuss recent movements for increased graduate participation in departmental affairs and the controversy which followed.

By JOHN SHEILED

The University has signed an agreement with the Pennsylvania state government to report the names of all state-aided students, who disrupt the functioning of the University, it was revealed on Friday.

The agreement, which will affect both undergraduate and graduate students, was signed by the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency (PHEAA) to comply with the state's financial aid program regulations.

Thomas Harnwell also called the act "highly appropriate" in view of the recent "national call to order" in the Graduate Students Association (GSA). With the security of individual right.
Campus activities include a speech tonight by noted Sovietologist Michael Goldfield, author of "Jewry in Russia" at 7 P.M. in Chestnut Hall Me.

The film "The Jews of France," directed by Elie Wimper's, will be shown in the Science Pavilion at noon today. The film will be followed by a question and answer period.

For the benefit of students and faculty, the Jewish Student Committee is sponsoring Soviet Jewry Week, Monday through Wednesday, April 6-8. The activities are aimed at raising widespread anti-Semitism in Russia.

A petition with faculty signatures will be presented to the University Council at its meeting on Thursday, April 16. The petition is in support of the following proposals:

1. The establishment of a council for the protection of students, faculty, and members of the Jewish community.
2. The establishment of a council for the protection of students, faculty, and members of the Jewish community.
3. The establishment of a council for the protection of students, faculty, and members of the Jewish community.

These proposals are designed to ensure the safety and well-being of all members of the Jewish community.

The work of political scientists at the Institute of Contemporary Art will be presented in a series of lectures and discussions throughout the week. These lectures will focus on the historical and cultural aspects of Jewish life in Europe.

The University's music department will present a concert featuring the works of Ludwig van Beethoven and Richard Strauss on Wednesday, April 17, at 8:30 P.M. in the Recital Hall.

The film "The Jews of France," directed by Elie Wimper's, will be shown in the Science Pavilion at noon today. The film will be followed by a question and answer period.

For the benefit of students and faculty, the Jewish Student Committee is sponsoring Soviet Jewry Week, Monday through Wednesday, April 6-8. The activities are aimed at raising widespread anti-Semitism in Russia.

A petition with faculty signatures will be presented to the University Council at its meeting on Thursday, April 16. The petition is in support of the following proposals:

1. The establishment of a council for the protection of students, faculty, and members of the Jewish community.
2. The establishment of a council for the protection of students, faculty, and members of the Jewish community.
3. The establishment of a council for the protection of students, faculty, and members of the Jewish community.

These proposals are designed to ensure the safety and well-being of all members of the Jewish community.

The work of political scientists at the Institute of Contemporary Art will be presented in a series of lectures and discussions throughout the week. These lectures will focus on the historical and cultural aspects of Jewish life in Europe.

The University's music department will present a concert featuring the works of Ludwig van Beethoven and Richard Strauss on Wednesday, April 17, at 8:30 P.M. in the Recital Hall.

The film "The Jews of France," directed by Elie Wimper's, will be shown in the Science Pavilion at noon today. The film will be followed by a question and answer period.

For the benefit of students and faculty, the Jewish Student Committee is sponsoring Soviet Jewry Week, Monday through Wednesday, April 6-8. The activities are aimed at raising widespread anti-Semitism in Russia.

A petition with faculty signatures will be presented to the University Council at its meeting on Thursday, April 16. The petition is in support of the following proposals:

1. The establishment of a council for the protection of students, faculty, and members of the Jewish community.
2. The establishment of a council for the protection of students, faculty, and members of the Jewish community.
3. The establishment of a council for the protection of students, faculty, and members of the Jewish community.

These proposals are designed to ensure the safety and well-being of all members of the Jewish community.

The work of political scientists at the Institute of Contemporary Art will be presented in a series of lectures and discussions throughout the week. These lectures will focus on the historical and cultural aspects of Jewish life in Europe.

The University's music department will present a concert featuring the works of Ludwig van Beethoven and Richard Strauss on Wednesday, April 17, at 8:30 P.M. in the Recital Hall.
The article on the editorial page of April 1, entitled "Black Laws," was incorrectly attributed as expressing solely the views of Robert Yovan. It was, rather, an open letter to the University Community, regarding the regulation of the Black Student Union, and the University Law School, administration, and faculty. The letter is a direct result of the impetus of a request by the Black Student Union that we be excused from University, city, state or federal laws and regulations that exist in this country. The letter is signed by members of the Student Judiciary hearing, to which the University has been summoned via written notice.

A brief confrontation between the guards and two University students at the Swim-in held March 26. The campus police were called on a report that the two students were allegedly "indecent exposure." "Four letter words," ten University students affirmed, "we didn't even blink at a skin flick nor cringe at the sight of them. And we certainly didn't take off our suits. It's a mockery of any law," said one of the ten.

"They selectively took matricates cards," according to a student who was present. "They licked the grime off the card and put it back in the pocket," said another. "When the two refused, someone put up a sign, 'No more suits, no more suits,' and many more students then took off their suits and jumped into the pool. He pod the lights to the grime were turned off and everyone began to leave."

Madden noted, however, that at first only two students had been detained at which point the mime was torn off. The director of the gym, however, Madden added, "It's ridicule to even charge us with an offense." Refusing to attribute the impetus for the Swim-in to any particular person, Madden explained, "There was a common feeling that people should take their suits off, so all of us did.""
Sociology

Hogan added that the position of the only restricted faculty member prevented from voting on the budget was held by Dr. Ralph Ginsberg, "might be changed" via "weekend politicking." Vice President Doud and President Smith both said they would consider the budget once it was presented to the faculty. Dr. Victor Breslow, professor of philosophy, said he was opposed to the original motion because it would have limited free speech and debate. Other faculty members who spoke in favor of the budget included Dr. John E. Pastier, professor of political science, and Dr. Robert J. White, professor of economics.

Carrell (Continued from page 1)

The Senate, which has a majority of 69 Democrats to 30 Republicans, is expected to vote on the budget today. The House, which has a majority of 218 Democrats to 212 Republicans, is expected to vote on the budget tomorrow. The budget is expected to be approved by both chambers.

Constitutional Runoff

(Continued from page 1)

The Senate, which has a majority of 69 Democrats to 30 Republicans, is expected to vote on the budget today. The House, which has a majority of 218 Democrats to 212 Republicans, is expected to vote on the budget tomorrow. The budget is expected to be approved by both chambers.

Constitutional Runoff

(Continued from page 1)

The Senate, which has a majority of 69 Democrats to 30 Republicans, is expected to vote on the budget today. The House, which has a majority of 218 Democrats to 212 Republicans, is expected to vote on the budget tomorrow. The budget is expected to be approved by both chambers.

Constitutional Runoff

(Continued from page 1)

The Senate, which has a majority of 69 Democrats to 30 Republicans, is expected to vote on the budget today. The House, which has a majority of 218 Democrats to 212 Republicans, is expected to vote on the budget tomorrow. The budget is expected to be approved by both chambers.

Constitutional Runoff

(Continued from page 1)

The Senate, which has a majority of 69 Democrats to 30 Republicans, is expected to vote on the budget today. The House, which has a majority of 218 Democrats to 212 Republicans, is expected to vote on the budget tomorrow. The budget is expected to be approved by both chambers.

Constitutional Runoff

(Continued from page 1)

The Senate, which has a majority of 69 Democrats to 30 Republicans, is expected to vote on the budget today. The House, which has a majority of 218 Democrats to 212 Republicans, is expected to vote on the budget tomorrow. The budget is expected to be approved by both chambers.

Constitutional Runoff

(Continued from page 1)

The Senate, which has a majority of 69 Democrats to 30 Republicans, is expected to vote on the budget today. The House, which has a majority of 218 Democrats to 212 Republicans, is expected to vote on the budget tomorrow. The budget is expected to be approved by both chambers.

Constitutional Runoff

(Continued from page 1)

The Senate, which has a majority of 69 Democrats to 30 Republicans, is expected to vote on the budget today. The House, which has a majority of 218 Democrats to 212 Republicans, is expected to vote on the budget tomorrow. The budget is expected to be approved by both chambers.

Constitutional Runoff

(Continued from page 1)

The Senate, which has a majority of 69 Democrats to 30 Republicans, is expected to vote on the budget today. The House, which has a majority of 218 Democrats to 212 Republicans, is expected to vote on the budget tomorrow. The budget is expected to be approved by both chambers.

Constitutional Runoff

(Continued from page 1)

The Senate, which has a majority of 69 Democrats to 30 Republicans, is expected to vote on the budget today. The House, which has a majority of 218 Democrats to 212 Republicans, is expected to vote on the budget tomorrow. The budget is expected to be approved by both chambers.
PETITION OF ACADEMICIANS TO THE RUSSIAN EMBASSY CONCERNING THE JEWISH OF THE U.S.S.R.

The academic community cannot stand by in silence.

We appeal to the Soviet Union to observe the United Nations Declaration of Human Rights.

We call upon the Soviet Union to take the following measures:

1. To establish, with the kind of encouragement and support which it gives to all other nations, to the Jewish people, the culture, command and control of a single Jewish University, as a single Jewish school in the USSR, in which a large number of the Jewish students of the country may be profoundly shocked by the treatment of the Jewish people in the Soviet Union.

2. To maintain the large community of the Jewish people in the Soviet Union and to allow them to develop their national identity.

3. To undertake a determined campaign to combat anti-semitism with all the adequate measures, and facilities that are designed to assure to succeeding generations in a Jewish state, the right to leave the U.S.S.R.

4. To establish recognition for the Jewish religious complex is characterized by hatred of man and the world.

5. To undertake a determined campaign to combat anti-semitism with all the adequate measures, and facilities that are designed to assure to succeeding generations in a Jewish state, the right to leave the U.S.S.R.

6. To make available to the Jewish people in the Soviet Union a knowledge of Jewish history, literature, language, art and artistic institutions that would assure to succeeding generations in a Jewish state, the right to leave the U.S.S.R.

NEUROLOGY
Peter H. Buxbaum - Director of Division of Neurology
D. Pleasure - Associate Professor
L. Kowall - Instructor
L. Sadow - Instructor
L. Schell - New York University Medical Center
S. Tucker - Assistant Professor

OBSTETRICS AND GYNECOLOGY
Gerald F. Berk - Instructor
John M. Boland - Professor
John J. D lapse - Professor
Y. Grossman - Instructor
E. Gorlin - Professor
M. Goodall - Professor
J. L. Kolczynski - Assistant Professor
R. M. Levy - Assistant Professor

PHYSIOTHERAPY
Louis I. Kahn - Paul P. Crest Professor of Architecture
S. T. Siegel - Associate Professor
H. St. A. Steinberg - Associate Professor
Mark E. Steinberg - Assistant Professor
D. St musical - Instructor
L. S. Weil - Instructor
E. S. Yellin - Instructor

WITNESS INSTITUTE
Members and Associates

C. A. Goldman - Associate Professor
C. B. Gottlieb - Assistant Professor
R. A. Green - Assistant Professor
D. G. Hirsch - Assistant Professor
S. E. Hovnanian - Assistant Professor
M. I. Kass - Associate Professor
J. P. Kim - Associate Professor
H. R. Klinger - Associate Professor
L. S. Levy - Assistant Professor
M. Levine - Assistant Professor
W. W. Lieberman - Associate Professor
S. E. Mandel - Assistant Professor
T. E. Marks - Assistant Professor
D. M. Miller - Assistant Professor
D. J. Mitchell - Assistant Professor
R. B. Roberts - Assistant Professor
M. R. Rosen - Assistant Professor
D. A. Schaffer - Assistant Professor
J. S. Schwartz - Assistant Professor
S. E. Sheehan - Assistant Professor
D. A. Stover - Assistant Professor
R. E. Storm - Assistant Professor
D. W. Turk - Assistant Professor
R. F. Unger - Assistant Professor
D. A. Van Beurden - Assistant Professor
S. P. V. Waring - Assistant Professor
D. J. Weisman - Assistant Professor
D. W. White - Assistant Professor
W. G. Wilson - Associate Professor

STUDENT STRUGGLE FOR SOVIET JEWRY

We regret that the above is only a partial list of signatories.
The Senate Advisory Committee was asked to prepare a report that would examine the quality of education in the schools of the University. The committee was asked to consider the following factors:

- The minimum budget of $200,000 per year.
- The need for more non-honors English majors during sophomore years.
- The need to retain the services of a small number of the top professors.
- The need to expand the curriculum to include new courses.
- The need to improve the teaching departments.

The report recommended that the junior and senior classes should contribute to the assessment of the probabilities of the developed policy. The Senate Advisory Committee has issued a report that recommends these issues for a full, open, and informed discussion by the Senate.

Editorial Perspective: March 30-April 4

Sociology: Crisis in Relevancy

As one of the main societies of the University, the Sociology Department has been striving to improve the relevancy of its courses. The department has been working on a proposal to add a new course to next year's offerings. The proposal is to be submitted to the editorial committee and presented to the Senate.

Fall 1970

A Gloomy Forecast

In a week spottted with controversy in two graduate departments, the fall semester ended on a gloomy note. Several of the popular social science courses faced faculty unrest, as two successive, if not simultaneous, events-the defeat of the President by the personnel process and the resignation of the four assistant professors who consistently had expressed dissatisfaction with the university's policies. Senator Scott can claim to be on the wrong side of the policy.

Tenure: The Faculty Wants To Rule

Richard Tiberius is one of the few course to next year's offerings; it is an outmoded, archaic, and concentrating on teaching abilities do not merit the attention of the Senator or the community service function of the university. As formal student input becomes ever more, many faculty feel, is to be lost if the university is not given up on. The department should be informed of the priorities must be clarified before any allocation of the proposals hold just as true. The department should be asked to go, as the University's Board of Trustees, to the Senate.

Letters to the Editor

Letters to the Editor should be submitted to the editorial chairman of the DP office.

The image may have been sharpened.

Fall 1970

A Gloomy Forecast

In a week spottted with controversy in two graduate departments, the fall semester ended on a gloomy note. Several of the popular social science courses faced faculty unrest, as two successive, if not simultaneous, events-the defeat of the President by the personnel process and the resignation of the four assistant professors who consistently had expressed dissatisfaction with the university's policies. Senator Scott can claim to be on the wrong side of the policy.

Tenure: The Faculty Wants To Rule

Richard Tiberius is one of the few course to next year's offerings; it is an outmoded, archaic, and concentrating on teaching abilities do not merit the attention of the Senator or the community service function of the university. As formal student input becomes ever more, many faculty feel, is to be lost if the university is not given up on. The department should be informed of the priorities must be clarified before any allocation of the proposals hold just as true. The department should be asked to go, as the University's Board of Trustees, to the Senate.

Letters to the Editor

Letters to the Editor should be submitted to the editorial chairman of the DP office.

The image may have been sharpened.

Fall 1970

A Gloomy Forecast

In a week spottted with controversy in two graduate departments, the fall semester ended on a gloomy note. Several of the popular social science courses faced faculty unrest, as two successive, if not simultaneous, events-the defeat of the President by the personnel process and the resignation of the four assistant professors who consistently had expressed dissatisfaction with the university's policies. Senator Scott can claim to be on the wrong side of the policy.

Tenure: The Faculty Wants To Rule

Richard Tiberius is one of the few course to next year's offerings; it is an outmoded, archaic, and concentrating on teaching abilities do not merit the attention of the Senator or the community service function of the university. As formal student input becomes ever more, many faculty feel, is to be lost if the university is not given up on. The department should be informed of the priorities must be clarified before any allocation of the proposals hold just as true. The department should be asked to go, as the University's Board of Trustees, to the Senate.

Letters to the Editor

Letters to the Editor should be submitted to the editorial chairman of the DP office.

The image may have been sharpened.
INTERNATIONAL FASHION SHOW AND COFFEE HOUR

Modeling Of Modern And Traditional Dresses From Eurasia, Africa, And The Americas.

TODAY

HILL HALL

4-6 P.M.

REFRESHMENTS SERVED

FREE
Further Bad News Concerning SKIMMER

Chapter 2, THE HASSLE

You remember in chapter 1 that Sly had just cancelled. Well, the hassle continued for a number of days. We checked all the availabilities and, for awhile, we had a pretty good shot at Neil Young and Crazy Horse but in the end they, too, succumbed to (what we have come to regard as) the inevitable.

Rather than try to unload a second-rate Skimmer that no one really wants to go to for the price, we have decided to charge $2 per ticket for Paul Butterfield (on Hill Hall Field) and hopefully the film of the Cream's Last Performance. Look on the bright side. (We're trying to). Butterfield is fantastic and if he gets a little smashed and gets into it, he'll go all night. And for $2 you can't go too far wrong. And it's outdoors.

Sorry for all the disappointments.

COME TOGETHER-APRIL 17

THE PAUL BUTTERFIELD BLUES BAND

FRIDAY, APRIL 17 8:30 P.M.
HILL HALL FIELD

ALL TICKETS $2 - ON SALE IN HOUSTON HALL
Scarlet Knights grabbed a one seat lead just before the half and continued to overstroke the Red and Blue for the last 3/4 length and brought in the final tow. The 'Cats growled no more, but the damage had been done.

"When I saw him next time, and Harold Gerber beat Peter McNeil, 6-3, 6-3, toward the end of the match, there were no doubts about the number two position if necessary," commented Molloy, "but we had plenty of insurance since the team is in top form. The Red and Blue pulled into a neck-and-neck battle. A five length. While strong wind blew Penn and while continuing to overstroke the Scarlet Knights grabbed a one seat in the end we were very glad to have it close," added Dickey, a junior. "But we had plenty of insurance since the team is in top form."
Trackmen Tie, Set Records
While Breezing by St. Joe

By JOHN WERTHENDER

Thomas Lua's hopes of all but four of 18 events met defeat at the hands of the Quakers. Indeed, the Quakers scored 21 points in the meet, 8 points behind Princeton. The only points the Quakers did not score were in the triple jump and the 1500-meter run.

The Quakers also had the chance to win the 4x400-meter relay, but a late penalty was assessed against them. The Quakers were leading the race with a time of 3:20.9, but a late switchout penalty was assessed against the Quakers, allowing Princeton to win the event with a time of 3:32.4.

The Quakers had six other events in the top five, with first-place finishes in the 300-meter hurdles, the 800-meter run, and the 100-meter dash. The Quakers had a strong showing in the hurdles, with first-place finishes in the 110-meter and 400-meter hurdles, and a second-place finish in the 300-meter hurdles.

The Quakers also had a strong showing in the run events, with first-place finishes in the 800-meter and 1500-meter runs. The Quakers had a strong showing in the sprint events, with first-place finishes in the 100-meter and 200-meter sprints.

The Quakers had a strong showing in the field events, with first-place finishes in the triple jump and the long jump. The Quakers had a strong showing in the throw events, with first-place finishes in the shot put and the discus.

The Quakers had a strong showing in the relay events, with first-place finishes in the 4x100-meter, 4x200-meter, and 4x400-meter relays.

The Quakers had a strong showing in the distance events, with first-place finishes in the 5000-meter run and the 10,000-meter run.