Radical Newspapers

Republone Operations

By PETER GELICK

The return of the radical newspaper's exposure on "hardcore revolutionaries" is not an isolated phenomenon. This is the issue that gave the major newspapers, as well as the police, the FBI and the Catholic News Service, the opportunity to launch the campaign. This is the issue that gave the police the opportunity to launch the campaign.

The Philadelphia Free Press and The Plain Dealer, among the major newspapers in the country, have been forced to accept the police's demands and shut down publication of the Free Press. The police's actions have been condemned by the editor of The Plain Dealer as "a violation of the First Amendment and a threat to our way of life." The police have been accused of "infringing on the liberties of the press" by the American Civil Liberties Union.

New Urban Studies Program

Introduces "Learning Cells"

By MAURICE OBSTFELD

The University's new president, Martin Meyerson, has announced that the university will introduce a new urban studies major, which will be offered to students starting this fall.

The new major will be interdisciplinary, allowing students to combine coursework in the social sciences, as well as city planning, with courses in economics, law, and other areas.

The "learning cells," as they are called, will be small groups of students who will work together on a specific project or issue. The cells will be supervised by professors who are experts in the field of urban studies.

The goal of the program is to prepare students for careers in urban planning and policy-making.

Six New Dormitories Open on Campus Amid Difficulties

By JONATHAN S. TALMADGE

A radical newspaper put an abrupt end to a controversial issue in Philadelphia. The Daily Pennsylvanian, a student newspaper, has been forced to halt publication by the university. The paper's editors have been charged with "inciting violence." The university has given the paper 90 days to come up with a new policy or it will be closed.

National

Philadelphia's two leaders of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) have resigned, announcing that Philadelphia is a "closed shop" for the NAACP.

The NAACP's national secretary, Dr. Barry J. Green, and the chairman of the Metropolitan Council for Philadelphia, Marvin Ruderman, announced that they would resign from the NAACP to protest the university's decision to close the NAACP chapter on campus.

Members of the University's quadripartite commission have been forced to resign, including the chairman, Lorenzo Barber, and the vice-chairman, John Graham. The university has announced that it will not allow the quadripartite commission to continue its work.

Although residence administrators and other university officials have been living in the house previously occupied by former president Gaylord P. Harnwell, the university has refused to allow them to move into the house.

The quadripartite commission, which had been_forming a report on the university's housing program, had been asked to resign by President Meyerson. The commission had been formed in response to a series of incidents on campus, including protests against the university's policies on housing and civil rights.

The university has announced that it will not allow the quadripartite commission to continue its work.

Every student or faculty member who has an apartment in the High Rises should have received a blue key to the building in which he or she will be living. Many students have already taken advantage of this. Students who have not received the key will receive it this week. Students who are not in residence should ask their residence hall director for the key.

The key includes a number which identifies your building and your apartment. The key is provided for your protection. It is recommended that you keep it somewhere safe, such as in your wallet, but you need not hold onto it constantly.

The key is not a lockout. If you lock yourself out of your apartment, you should call your residence hall director. If you are not in residence, you should call your residence hall director, who will contact the emergency personnel for you.

The key is not a replacement. If you lose your key, you must replace it. Replacement keys are available at the residence hall directories.

The key is not a permission. If you need to enter your apartment, you must have a key. You cannot enter your apartment without a key.

Rizzo's Headlines

Pass the Revolution

D. LARRY DALEY
Not unknown for its predatory ability to make fortunes out of newly discovered predators, America's largest cop industrial complex is making hay out of our movement.

"Youth-orientated" films also fall into the same category of "cultural ripoff." If we view these as anything more than superficial entertainment, to pay three or four dollars to watch people participate in a three day rip-off is a grossly hypocritical act of major proportions. Perhaps all those important goals than the legal sub-vision this is only one of many instances

The grand finale came as September poked its head over the horizon, and Rizzo delivered a virtuoso performance. On Sept. 1, the Philadelphia Bulletin printed three front-page Rizzo stories recording the killing of one policeman, the wounding of three others, and subsequent (though technically unrelated) raids on three Black Panther offices.

In a press conference Rizzo, one of the three top men in the city government, enganged in the distinguished art of name-calling. White radicals were "creeps" and "the most dangerous people in the community." Black radicals were "yellow dogs," "imbeciles," "psychopaths," and "fanatics;" their combined forces represented "this cuckoo element."

Well, Mr. Rizzo, try these on for size: you are a borough pig, a godless subhuman, and your police force is a sadistic dungheap. Racist and insidious are cheap, childish, and self-denying; when indulged in by a city official with enormous and crucial responsibility, they are intolerable. The words -- the actions -- of Mr. Rizzo only serve to inflame sensibilities, and contribute little toward "keeping the peace."

We contend that Commissioners Rizzo constantly bends the law he claims to serve, and in doing so destroys respect for that same law he is supposed to preserve. We contend that the recent use of search and seizure warrants to raid the Black Panthers was an attempt to provoke violence, and thus afford the police an opportunity to revenge the death of one of their number. We contend that there neither is nor was any evidence linking the Panthers to that death. And we contend that this is only one of many instances in which the police commissioner has misused his authority.

The only "Rizzo headlines" we long for is the one that will record the disgrace of this man of unjustified violence and hate.

Decision Against Fall Recess

By CLAUDIA COHEN

Three student members of the University Council have charged the administration with violating their democratic responsibilities. In a decision to adopt a flexible two-week calendar, the council held a vote that did not reflect the wishes of students, they said.

The students, who are members of the council, also charged that the council was being pressured to make the change. The council, they said, is being pressured to make the change.

The three students who made the charges were: Michael Smith, a senior in Sociology, and two students from the University of Indiana. The council has been asked to reconsider its decision.

COMM. CONSIDERING 66 FOR PROVOSTSHIP

The new subcommittee of the Committee to Advise the President on the Selection of a Provost will spend more than six months examining the qualifications of prospective candidates in preparation for their recommendation to the Board of Trustees. The subcommittee will hold its first meeting next week, and its members will begin to interview candidates.

Survey shows rise in undecided graduates

A recent survey conducted by the department of educational research and evaluation shows that 42 percent of the students in the current class are undecided about their major, compared to 38 percent in 1969. The survey indicates that the enrollment trends in the College are not as strong as those in other fields of study. The survey also shows that the number of students who are undecided about their major is increasing, while the number of students who are certain about their major is decreasing.

Admin. approves Student Bail Fund

The University has authorized the creation of a permanent bail fund to be used by the President's staff to assist students in financial need. The fund will be used to help students who are unable to pay their tuition fees, and it is hoped that the fund will relieve some of the financial pressure on the University. The fund will be managed by the President and his staff, and it will be used to help students who are in financial difficulty. The fund will be replenished by the University, and it will be used to help students who are in financial difficulty.
FreeGrid Tickets Ready for Pickup

Today is the day. All fulltime University students are entitled to a free season ticket for Penn's six games home football schedule. Season ticket books are available starting today at the Franklin Field Office, open daily from 9 A.M. to 4:45 P.M. at the 10th Street entrance. Penn students can order their books over the telephone by calling 459-1199 between 10 A.M. and 4 P.M., or by attending the Preview Ticket Office at Franklin Field Saturday, Sept. 19, at 3:30 P.M. Open to the public, the preview will enable Penn rooters to get on the inside and learn what the Card and Blue plan to do in both offense and defense.

Long, a starter of last season gives the Quakers a solid blocker in the backfield and adds to his hard-nosed running. Even that, however, wasn't enough to get him over the goaline on a fourth down and one foot to go for the first down.
