Co-op Presents Request for Backing

By ELLEN CAMPBELL

Planners of a second, student-oriented, cooperative food store will present a proposal to the University Council's recent meeting and request backing for the new. Jack Russell, a former student affairs officer, said yesterday that the committee is asking for financial backing to begin the project late this year. The committee, which has existed for six months, is working on a combined food store, which would allow students to pool resources and purchase food at a lower price than they do now.

Members of the "Committee for Cooperative Food Store" told the council they have signed a lease with the University to establish a store within the basement of the University. "We haven't gotten any money as a group," said Jack Anderson, a former student at the University. "We've talked to the administration and have made up their minds in favor of the idea." Russell, who is the group's chairman, added that the council will discuss the group's proposal at its next meeting.

The group plans to establish a store near the University's present location, which would be leased from the University. The store would stock food items at a lower price than the present store, which would allow students to save money. Russell, who is the group's chairman, added that the group will present a detailed request for funding to the council at its next meeting.

"We feel that the free-renting and financial backing of the University would help us to establish a store," Russell said. "We have not asked for any financial assistance, but we believe that the University would be willing to help us in any way possible." Russell added that the council will be asked to consider the group's request for funding at its next meeting.

Starr said the committee is asking for financial backing to establish the new store. "We have been asking for financial assistance," Starr said. "We believe that the University would be willing to help us in any way possible." Starr added that the council will be asked to consider the group's request for funding at its next meeting.

CIC Joins Conference On Middle Americans

The Community Interest Council (CIC) is participating in a Philadelphia-wide conference on the problems of Middle American countries.

The conference, which is currently underway and will end on Saturday, features the presence of noted community organizer Saul Alinsky. The conference will be attended by members of area colleges. The workshop will deal with the problem of how the effectiveness of persons involved in higher education can be channelled into social change.

Registration for Morgan Exchange Program Now Open to Applicants

By ANNIE C. CONNELL

Pre-registration is now underway for those students who are considering spending next semester at Morgan State College in Baltimore as participants in the Morgan-Morgan State Exchange Program.

Pre-registration for the semester will begin Monday, March 18, 1974, and will continue through April 14. Forms will be available at the College Office of the International Project, 361 E. Eleaser Ave., (Narami Research Center), 4th - 5th floors. Included in the forms are prospective exchange student's application and interest in the program. It is recommended that students interested in participating fill out the forms promptly.

The program includes a financial aid package for participating students. Students will receive a grant of $450 for room and board, and $200 for transportation and miscellaneous expenses. The grant is to be paid out at the beginning of the semester on the first day of classes, and will be paid on a prorate basis if a student leaves the program before the end of the semester.

The program will also include an educational exchange, where Morgan students will visit their American counterparts and vice versa. Participants are expected to participate in the activities of their host institution and to attend classes at Morgan State College.

The program is open to all undergraduate students who meet the following criteria:

1. Be currently enrolled at Morgan State College.
2. Have a minimum GPA of 2.0.
3. Be in good academic and disciplinary standing.
4. Be willing to participate in the activities of their host institution.

For more information, contact the Office of the International Project, 361 E. Eleaser Ave., Morgan State College, Baltimore, MD 21251.

YVONNE PERRY, project director, has indicated however, that several University students are expected to be traveling in Baltimore during the spring semester as part of the University's student exchange program. The areas of the exchange program not covered by the present program will be covered by the following.

include committee:
- Faculty and student development and enrichment through cooperative use of laboratories and of the professional staff, including members of the University of Pennsylvania;
- Preparation of teachers for inner-city schools and for schools in other specialized areas;
- Joint training and research projects in urban studies, regional planning and city planning which are of direct benefit to Philadelphia; and
- Need to better understand and work with the productivity and the quality of research in these fields.

The steering committee includes:
- Robert Gallagher, TEAM's executive director, and
- Robert Smigel, member of the steering committee and professor of pharmacology and director of the Institute for Environmental Medicine.

In addition to an 8 to 10 film exhibit and a full day of workshops, the Institute also sponsors an annual underwater photography contest and underwater environment symposium, with guest speakers from the middle class, Silverstein commented.

He added that the product of that meeting was a planning committee to organize this week's conference.

Alinsky began working on the conference's planning committee in the late 1960's in the middle of the so-called era of the city. He later formed the CIC, which has since become a leading force in the field of organizing.

Lambertson's statement to the steering committee was by far the most important one to the steering committee, Silverstein commented.

The steering committee has made a number of suggestions, including:
- including a CIC worker, to plan a meeting with Alinsky's group.
- Joint training and research programs between the CIC and other institutions.
- The Philadelphia Seahorses of the Undersea Film Fest will participate in the day's events.
- The event will feature several well-known underwater photographers, including Tzimoulis, editor of Skin Diver Magazine.
- The Undersea Film Fest is scheduled for November 11, 1970.

The steering committee has recommended that council before doing anything to move forward.

The steering committee recommended acceptance of a proposal urging that black studies be run on an ad hoc experimental basis for the next several years, and submitted the proposal to the council for consideration.

Bob Watkins: A Skater Who Kicks His Goals

By FRED LEVITT

Playing one intercollegiate sport is tough enough, but playing two, and if you can do it well, it's a superb feat. The list of two-sports stars reads like a roll call of the national All-America Honorable Mentions. But to be good at both is a feat even more unique, and it's a feat that Bob Watkins has achieved.

Watkins, a native of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., is a two-sports star for the Ivy League football team, the Harvard Crimson. He is a two-sports star because he is a two-sports star at both football and track.

In football, Watkins is a running back for the Crimson, and he has been named to the second team of the Ivy League in both his junior and senior years. He has been a consistent performer for the Crimson, and he has been a leader on the team.

In track, Watkins is a sprinter for the Crimson, and he has been named to the second team of the Ivy League in both his junior and senior years. He has been a consistent performer for the Crimson, and he has been a leader on the team.
