Law Student Knocks Mandatory Insurance

By: THOMAS PAPSON

A University Law School student has begun to organize a petition drive in protest of the mandatory insurance law passed last year. The drive is being organized by a student named Jack Russell, who believes that the current law is unconstitutional.

Russell, a first-year student, said he had already collected over 1,000 signatures from students in support of his petition. He plans to file the petition with the state attorney general's office within the next few weeks.

Russell's main concern is with the cost of the mandatory insurance. He believes that the current premium rates are too high and that the state should be providing more subsidies to make the insurance more affordable.

In a statement, Russell said, "The cost of the insurance is a major burden for many students, and I believe that the state should be doing more to help."

The mandatory insurance law was passed last year in response to a federal mandate that requires all states to have a health insurance plan for full-time students. The premiums for this insurance can be quite high, with some students paying upwards of $500 per year.

Russell's group is calling for a referendum on the insurance law, which would allow students to vote on whether or not they want to continue with the mandatory insurance. They are also calling for a reduction in the premium rates.

Law Student Knocks Mandatory Insurance

Major Events

Vice Provost Kicks Off Drive For Cooperative Food Store

National

Philadelphia - President Richard M. Nixon will visit the Philadelphia Art Museum during his trip to the city later this year. Nixon is scheduled to arrive in Philadelphia on September 10th, where he will meet with local leaders and discuss the future of the arts.

Nixon is expected to speak at a dinner for the Philadelphia Art Museum, which will be held at the Statler Hilton Hotel. The dinner is expected to raise several thousand dollars for the museum.

Superblock Will Host Summer Conferences

By: ANITA SAMA

In an effort to attract visitors to the city, the Superblock, a new summer conference center, will be opened this year. The Superblock is located in the heart of Philadelphia and will be open from June 1st to September 30th.

The Superblock will offer a variety of conferences and events, including business seminars, educational workshops, and cultural events. The center will be located on the site of the former Municipal Services Building and will feature state-of-the-art conference facilities.

New Haven Conn. - The head of the Black Panther Party, Bobby C. Seale, has returned to the city for the first time since he was convicted of conspiracy to use the United States mails to defraud the state of Connecticut. Seale was found guilty on October 27, 1969, of participating in a plot to use the mails to defraud the state.

Seale has been in prison since his conviction and has beenailer for the Superblock, which has been described as "the most massive drive ever conducted by the University." The drive is expected to raise $30,000 to cover the cost of organizing the co-op.

The co-op is seeking to open a new food store on the University of Pennsylvania campus, which would serve as a market for University students and staff. The group is also seeking to open a community center, which would be used for educational and social events.

Vice Provost Russell To Advise President On 'State of University' Talk

By: R. LYNNE STONE

In a temporary administrative position shift, Russell Jack Russell will advise his vice-president for student affairs in order to advise President Emerson on ideas for a "State of University" address.

Russell Jack Russell will assume his new position as vice-president for student affairs in order to advise President Emerson on ideas for a "State of University" address. Russell Jack Russell, who has served as director of the Office of Student Affairs, will leave his current position on September 1st to assume his new role.

The "State of University" speech is a major policy statement that the University president makes to the faculty and staff each year. This year's speech will be delivered on October 1st.

Russell Jack Russell's new position will allow him to focus on the day-to-day operations of the Office of Student Affairs. His current role as assistant vice-president for student affairs will be taken over by Immediate contact with the vice-president for student affairs.

Superblock Will Host Summer Conferences

By: ANITA SAMA

In an effort to attract visitors to the city, the Superblock, a new summer conference center, will be opened this year. The Superblock is located in the heart of Philadelphia and will be open from June 1st to September 30th.

The Superblock will offer a variety of conferences and events, including business seminars, educational workshops, and cultural events. The center will be located on the site of the former Municipal Services Building and will feature state-of-the-art conference facilities.

Superblock Will Host Summer Conferences

By: ANITA SAMA

In an effort to attract visitors to the city, the Superblock, a new summer conference center, will be opened this year. The Superblock is located in the heart of Philadelphia and will be open from June 1st to September 30th.

The Superblock will offer a variety of conferences and events, including business seminars, educational workshops, and cultural events. The center will be located on the site of the former Municipal Services Building and will feature state-of-the-art conference facilities.
considered a site for them." He cited South Hall or Hill Hall, but only buildings and added that the ad-
of Women, composed of from 800 to 1000 members, which will be staying

Ongoing Events

---

Macmillan's Bookstore

50% off all Children's Books

During National Children's Book Week

(Ends Nov. 21)

---

Classifieds

MISCELLANIES

- WANTED: GOOD HIDE FOR DOG. EIGHT SQUARE FEET. Priced right. Will accept good with minor defects, good hunting. Call Mr. Jones at 123-4567.

---

Farmers

You can get the same sound I do by getting a harmonica and guitar at the same time, said Joe Brown. He's been playing the harmonica since he was eight. While across the lines of the mountains men, homesick sailors and weary cowboys; you can hear the sound of the harmonica and guitar playing together.

---

Public Forum on Violence

A public forum on violence, terrorism, and community issues will be held Wednesday, November 18, at Messiah College campus at Temple University 2026 N. Broad St., Philadelphia, from 7:30 to 9:00 PM.
RIGHT ON?

Days of November

It's November now, and we are bored.

It's November now - bleak, biting, hopeless November, the advance man in winter's tour of barren despondency, and to warn us that the Blue Moon phase of snow-and-or man are on their way. The dark is longer now, there's a time to think, to ask why it's not dark all the way under the summer sun. It's time to think now, and face the squirming fact that you're bored you're bored, and it won't ever cease.

It's the war, that's what good it is, what good it ever going to be, why do we keep doing it when we know we're doing nothing? Because we have those little things called the blue moon.

A reminded, starting out of Superblock at November's rain, coming out of November's odd to Superblock by a conscience. Thinking about the turned last spring's love, wondering if September's warm spots will make it through November's cold to Superblock's ice. A conscience, thinking about me tarnish on we've heard before, the people we've known forever i thought we met them only freshness of the strawberries inPenn Fruit. All we have left is the frozen thoughts pretty good in September, are dead now. The professor's insights are blunted won't go away.

To think, to ask the icicle why's that melted so fast under the summer sun. It's time to remember the icicle in the winter's force of frozen depression, sent to warn us that the Blue Meanie hordes for the moments. They work at jobs which bore them so they can relax at ac-

And, anyway again, what have you done but write a book? You own problems. And, anyway again, what have you done but write a book? You thought, to ask the icicle why's that melted so fast under the summer sun. It's time to remember the icicle in the winter's force of frozen depression, sent to warn us that the Blue Meanie hordes for the moments. They work at jobs which bore them so they can relax at ac-

And the spectres of philosopher and parent vanish, and the roommate and I throw our frisbees, and love. We will forget for a while that this too will pass; we will forget about it and do something? You're the worst cop-out there is.

And after February it will be March, and the Blue Menies will be vanquished by life's way, and there is no hope for you so long as you stay on that road - it leads nowhere. Yes, you are living wretchedly-yes you are consuming the worth of everything by the satisfaction it gives you, or the pleasure you feel as a result. Pleasure isnt unlimited. You will inevitably get bored very frequently. And then what? Yes, tell me, and what then?

And the little man goes on to give you the answer, which we cannot accept, because the answer is God, and we regard that answer as self-deception. And anyway, we add, you cannot simply withdraw from other men and hide in your life's way, and there is no hope for you so long as you stay on that road - it leads nowhere. Yes, you are living wretchedly-yes you are consuming the worth of everything by the satisfaction it gives you, or the pleasure you feel as a result. Pleasure isn't unlimited. You will inevitably get bored very frequently. And then what? Yes, tell me, and what then?

"You know what your problem is, young man? You are on the first stage in your room, the roommate replies. I just don't want to write anymore, and the thinking that it certainly not there. "There is no God, and there must be God." Kafka wrote from his world of tenement stench and sweats, and giant holes in philosophical systems by mentioning a few stubborn facts that don't fit the theories. But it also like to poke holes in the thoughts of pretentious young men who are very self-consciously bored. You can go on thinking in this way for the rest of your life, and there is no hope for you so long as you stay on that road - it leads nowhere. Yes, you are living wretchedly-yes you are consuming the worth of everything by the satisfaction it gives you, or the pleasure you feel as a result. Pleasure isn't unlimited. You will inevitably get bored very frequently. And then what? Yes, tell me, and what then?"
The President's Visit

Fresh from a self-proclaimed victory, President Nixon and wife Pat, are coming to Philadelphia today. And hoping that the American public can be duped into providing the margin of victory--as it was in 1972 if not in the battlefield.

The occasion for the visit, as is usually the case, is ceremonial and needless. Mrs. Nixon will attend opening ceremonies at the Philadelphia Academy of Fine Arts. The President is scheduled to be in the area somewhere between the hours of 6:00 and 9:00 P.M., to accompany the visit, the Student Mobilization Committee has planned a demonstration outside the Academy of Fine Arts from 7:00 to 9:30. The rally's organizers have emphasized that this demonstration be legal and peaceful: there are to be no hurled epithets or rocks to provide the ammunition the President's next attack on violent protesters.

We urge you to join with SMC in welcoming the Presidential party to Philadelphia, and once again that the President comes to Philadelphia to accomplish something.

by alan braverman

Give the United Way

The main task involved in the establishment of a community, according to Margaret Batte, is to "keep your community growing and flowing and stick together." It's good to think of peace and continue to wage war. To live the American public can be torn apart instead of continuing a flow and stick together. It's good to think of peace and continue to wage war.

The University of Chicago Press

Phoenix Eye View of Modern Man

The human condition is a hard one to grasp. The term philosophy means, "the fashioning of transcendental intellectual power with the aim of making Man's relations into history and politics seem both necessary and possible." The book is an attempt to do that. The book is an attempt to do that. The book is an attempt to do that.

FOUR MODERN PHILOSOPHERS Carrara, Wittgenstein, Heidegger, Sartre

The University of Chicago Press

PROPER BEHAVIOR

SIR: In my discussion of "good taste," I have been especially impressed by the work of an American philosopher, John Wehster. He has written a book called "The Proper Behavior," which I believe is a valuable contribution to the study of ethics. It is a book that every student of philosophy should read.

SIR: In Jerry Fodor's "The Mind," we are informed that chapter 7 is about "The proper behavior of rational agents." I believe that this chapter is a valuable contribution to the study of ethics. It is a book that every student of philosophy should read.

SIR: In your comment on "proper behavior," I would like to add that the work of John Wehster is particularly valuable. He has written a book called "The Proper Behavior," which I believe is a valuable contribution to the study of ethics.

SIR: In my discussion of "good taste," I have been especially impressed by the work of an American philosopher, John Wehster. He has written a book called "The Proper Behavior," which I believe is a valuable contribution to the study of ethics. It is a book that every student of philosophy should read.

SIR: In Jerry Fodor's "The Mind," we are informed that chapter 7 is about "The proper behavior of rational agents." I believe that this chapter is a valuable contribution to the study of ethics. It is a book that every student of philosophy should read.

SIR: In your comment on "proper behavior," I would like to add that the work of John Wehster is particularly valuable. He has written a book called "The Proper Behavior," which I believe is a valuable contribution to the study of ethics.

SIR: In my discussion of "good taste," I have been especially impressed by the work of an American philosopher, John Wehster. He has written a book called "The Proper Behavior," which I believe is a valuable contribution to the study of ethics. It is a book that every student of philosophy should read.

SIR: In Jerry Fodor's "The Mind," we are informed that chapter 7 is about "The proper behavior of rational agents." I believe that this chapter is a valuable contribution to the study of ethics. It is a book that every student of philosophy should read.

SIR: In your comment on "proper behavior," I would like to add that the work of John Wehster is particularly valuable. He has written a book called "The Proper Behavior," which I believe is a valuable contribution to the study of ethics.
In an independent test, some independent newspeople and buyers of electric shavers were given new models, such as the Norelco or Chromium blade. They shaved their beards several times with the new blades, and then with the older blades. The results showed that the new blades were much closer and more comfortable than the older blades.

The new blades are designed to last longer and require less maintenance than the older blades. According to the manufacturers, the new blades will provide a closer shave, reduce irritation, and reduce hair build-up in the shaver's chamber. The blades are made of high-quality materials and are designed to withstand heavy usage.

The new blades are available in a variety of models, each with different features and benefits. Some of the features include longer-lasting blades, more efficient hair cutting, and reduced hair build-up. The blades are compatible with most electric shavers and can be easily replaced when necessary.

In conclusion, the new blades are a significant improvement over the older blades. They provide a closer shave, reduce irritation, and require less maintenance. The new blades are a great choice for anyone looking for a better shaving experience.

The new blades vs. Norelco.

The new blades are a significant improvement over the older blades. They provide a closer shave, reduce irritation, and require less maintenance. The new blades are a great choice for anyone looking for a better shaving experience.
Boothers Meet Rams in Rematch

NOAA Soccer Tournament Pairings

District 1
- W. Arkansas
- Penn
- Phila. Textile
- Delaware

District 2
- Harvard
- Navy
- Howard
- Md.

District 3
- New York
- Fordham
- Montclair

Booters and the Holy Grail

Philadelphia Textile has been selected in a soccer game for two seasons. This season, however, the team was knocked out of the NCAA tournament at the qualifier. The team is in the fourth round of the NCAA tournament. The team has accumulated more points in the first round of the NCAA tournament.

When Textile (10-3) takes on coach Bob Seidman's Indiana (16-2) today at 4:30 in Franklin Field in the first round of the NCAA playoffs, the Textile team will be looking to extend its streak of nine straight wins. Despite Textile's win last week, the team has been outscored in four of its last five games. The team is also coming off a loss to Harvard, which has won its last three games.

The Rams, led by captain John Vrornan, have won their last five games and have outscored their opponents 16-4. The team's defense has been strong, allowing only six goals in their last five games. The team has also scored 14 goals in its last five games.

The Rams have not played Textile since last year's season opener. The game is expected to be a tough one, with both teams looking to advance to the next round of the NCAA tournament.

For more information on the game and updates, check out the team's website.