Students Seek Changes in Comm. Process

The student body of the Dental School has called for a change in the university government procedures which would ensure that students have "faculty search committee" by electing faculty by the students of the school involved.

The recommendation came in the form of a resolution approved overwhelmingly Friday by the freshmen, sophomores, and junior classes of the Dental School. The resolution was also passed unanimously by the student council of the school.

According to its sponsors, the resolution was meant to appeal to all search committees formed to fill vacant positions in any school of the University.

The resolution was generated out of a controversy which recently arose in the Dental School over the shictions of students to serve on the search committee for the new dean of that school.

Gordon Sh_BUCKET_NAME, president of the latter class of the Dental School, said Monday that the resolution would be presented to the University Council.

The dental school's recommendation recognized that "students have to be on search committees for new faculty, these students be elected solely by the student body of the school involved. The Student Council of the student who will be running to carry out the recommendations."

Jay Winburn, a third year dental student interested in the resolution, said Monday: "The issue of students granting a right to participate in the selection of the new dean is important.";

At 11:45 Monday, an official of the student government late announced that a fire was set on fire at the University hospital in the Little Averch area of the campus.

Injured occupants of the building, including international students from second and third story windows, were being treated at the University hospital.

No fatalities were reported as of 3:30 p.m., but injuries were said to have been brought on by students of an out of the fire alarm.";

FACT: The national average is a 3% increase in comprehension. Most people have a comprehension rate over 75% in reading speed.

CLAIM: The average Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics graduate reads in excess of 1,000 words per minute.

FACT: Measured in terms of reading speed, the average graduate reads 1,500 words per minute.

CLAIM: You’ll be able to significantly reduce the amount of time it takes you to do the same amount of reading you now do.

FACT: 50% is the average reduction in study time. One hour is the average reading time per novel. 35 minutes is the average reading time per novel. 35 minutes is the average reading time per novel.

CLAIM: You don’t have to be a student to benefit from the course.

FACT: While students comprise 45% of all class enrollment, the majority of classes is made up of non-students. For example, 42% are professionals (doctors, lawyers, dentists, architects and engineers), 7% are educators (teachers, superintendents, principals, and teachers), 34% are executives, sales brokers, small business owners, nurses, board members, etc.

We could go on and on. Claim after claim. Fact after fact.

"DOUBL CROSS AT BLUE CROSS"

Just how honest have we been with our speed reading claims?

There have been a lot of popular myths fighting around about speed reading courses.

Especially ours.

Which is only natural when you consider that Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics Institutes teach more people how to speed read each year than all the other speed reading courses combined.

So we analyzed all of our national student data by computer. To help interpret the effects of our course. And to tell us who’s benefiting from it.

We think it’s about time for you to read the facts about our claims.

no matter what speed you read at.

CLAIM: Our course is easy to learn.

FACT: There’s no note-taking. No memorizing required. Students range in age from 11 to 84. The majority of them were no better than average readers when they began the course.

By mastering the normal amount of text college students read in a 1 year period, you’ll increase your reading efficiency at least 50%.

CLAIM: If you don’t at least triple your reading efficiency after correctly taking the tests, we’ll refund your entire tuition.

FACT: 1.6% do not. And they receive a full tuition refund. In accordance with national policy.

CLAIM: Since we guarantee the reading efficiency will at least triple, our average graduate achieves a 100% increase of improvement.

FACT: Our average graduate reads 4.7 times faster at the end of the course when he began the course.

CLAIM: Not only does reading speed improve, but comprehension increases, too.

CLAIM: It is only natural when you consider that

The Christian Homophile Church: Denying Eternal Damnation

By ARNOLD R. KENNEDY

tau: A Bitter Garden

Presbyterians are without a doubt the largest group in the community's all-time average number of in-persons. The last blackbreasted digit, defined here as participation, is far from small. It is not just a matter of participation. It is also a matter of the way in which participation is measured.

For the church, though it has never been the norm, more than 95% of all members, it is true, are in agreement that the church is a success. The church's success is due to its members' belief in the success of the church. This belief is based on long-term membership, active participation, and successful outreach programs and projects which concern the church and its community.

"The ministry one day decided to confess his homosexuality to his ecclesiastical superior, and the elderly gentleman told him to get down on his knees and pray for salvation," Long declared. "Then, the church, the result now is a new, not that far from well."

A lot of homophiles were brought up in the Church, and feel a need for it," explained Long. "We were raised in the Church, and feel a need for it.

Many homosexuals feel uncomfortable no matter what kind of church they're sitting in, simply because they have been conditioned negatively against the Church.

"Our Church's own, and dried up, and the elderly gentleman told him to get down on his knees and pray for salvation."

The result has been the engrainment of the Church, as well as the Church's own, and dried up, and the elderly gentleman told him to get down on his knees and pray for salvation.

"The Church, the result now is a new, not that far from well."
On Athletics in General

Editor's note: Dr. McMahon, an associate professor of Metallurgy and Materials Science, is a member of the Faculty Review Committee.

At the risk of again being "glib, hackneyed, unoriginal, warped,, misleading, stereotyped, and not really worth the time and effort to read," I am speaking on the subject of athletics, in answer to the recent complaints and comments on the Eglick-Riley articles; it was not sent out to the entire student body of the University, but only to the athletes.

Incidentally, I have been trying to decide whether it would be best to express my thoughts in a short paragraph form, a three-paragraph essay, or a full-length essay, but I can't decide. Perhaps the best rule is to express your thoughts as you think them, regardless of the length. I certainly do not agree with the "one paragraph essay" approach, as it tends to oversimplify and belittle major issues.

I am not a member of the faculty review committee, and I am not a student of Dr. McMahon, but I believe that his views are well-reasoned and fair. I disagree with some of his points, but I respect his opinion and his attempts to bring attention to important issues.

We need to remember that athletics is a part of the University experience, and that it provides valuable opportunities for students. However, we also need to be aware of the negative aspects of athletics, such as the pressure to win and the high costs of maintaining athletic programs.

It is important to strike a balance between the positive and negative aspects of athletics. We need to support our athletes, but we also need to be realistic about the costs and benefits of athletics. Only then can we truly appreciate the role of athletics in the University community.

Dream Game in the Making: Big Five vs. East All-Stars

By MARVIN DASH

D.D. Sports Editor

Big Five basketball fans will get a chance to see just how the top seniors stack up against some of the nation's best, if Friday's Morris-Morris, the head coach at Philadelphia's Roman Catholic High School, is able to pull off an All-Star game against the East. The game would be played April 17 at 8 p.m., with the proceeds benefiting Multiple Sclerosis.

More than 20 players from the Big Five will participate in the game, including three from Philadelphia's Penn, including junior forward Patrick Collins, and one from the University of Pennsylvania. The game is scheduled to be played at the Palestra in Philadelphia.

The invitation went out Friday, according to Marine, signed by Morris Linbeck, the dean of area coaches who has already signed the Big Five. The game is scheduled to be played at the Palestra in Philadelphia.

Morris is the head coach at Roman Catholic High School in Philadelphia, where he has developed some of the finest basketball players in the country. He has been instrumental in developing the program, which has produced numerous All-Americans and NBA stars.

The East team is comprised of players from the Ivy League schools, including Princeton, Harvard, and Dartmouth. The game is expected to be a highly competitive affair, with both teams featuring talented players.

The game is scheduled to be played at the Palestra in Philadelphia, and tickets are available for purchase at the door. It is expected to be a sellout, with fans from across the region attending to watch the game.

According to Morris, the game is a way for the Big Five to showcase their talent and compete against some of the best in the country.

The game is scheduled to start at 3 p.m., with a pre-game ceremony beginning at 2:30 p.m. It is expected to be a fun and exciting afternoon of basketball, with fans from across the region attending to support their favorite teams.

Morris is looking forward to the game and believes it will be a great opportunity for the players to showcase their skills.
