Committee Forms
To Investigate Guards

By DON BOROWITZ
An attack in a small town nested near Shreveport, La., has led a University student to call for the formation of a student committee to investigate the role of the University's police force.

The incident was witnessed by several students and a campus administrator who were attending a function in a nearby hotel. At about 12:00 a.m., the student, a member of the University's police force, entered a room in the hotel and began shooting at a group of people.

The student, identified as John Smith, was later arrested and charged with murder. The University has not released any further information about the incident.

The meeting was characterized by a sense of confusion, particularly about the role of the University's police force and the university administration. The students have called for a more transparent and accountable system of governance.

The formation of a student committee to investigate the role of the University's police force has been proposed by several students and faculty members. The committee will be tasked with examining the policies and procedures of the University's police force, as well as the training and hiring practices for its officers.

The committee will be composed of faculty, students, and community members. The committee will be chaired by a faculty member, and will be appointed by the University's president.

The committee will be given the power to investigate any matter relating to the University's police force, and will be able to issue subpoenas and call witnesses.

The committee will be given a six-month mandate to complete its work. The results of the committee's investigation will be made public, and will be presented to the University's board of trustees.

The committee's findings will be used to guide future changes to the University's police force and its policies. The University has committed to making changes to improve the safety and security of its students and employees.

The formation of the committee has been welcomed by many students and faculty members, who have called for greater accountability and transparency in the University's police force.

The committee's work will be guided by the principles of due process and fairness. The committee will be independent of the University's administration, and will be free to make its own decisions.

The committee's work will be subject to oversight by the University's board of trustees, and will be presented to the board for final approval.

The committee's findings will be made public, and will be presented to the University's board of trustees.

"Through the looking glass we step once more, this topsy-turvy, through the national Wonderland's slippery terrain, such Federal Communications Commission will not permit to go," or six-men on a federal board and corporation to play any songs which "we may by name advise the broadcast staff not to play." Despite these directivessongwriters and performers have continued, is only another "long-drawn-out decision," the Commission's senior counselor, Ralph Spritzer, said.
Spritzer's arguments were the same as those presented in the FCC's official statement, the FCC's lawyer, Thomas F. O'Brien, who announced the decision, said.
"There is no evidence to support the FCC's claim that the "long-drawn-out decision" was necessary to protect the public interest," Spritzer said.
"The FCC's claim that the "long-drawn-out decision" was necessary to protect the public interest is a complete fallacy," Spritzer said, according to the FCC.

In Defense of the DP

BY STEPHEN HARMON

In today's world, the police, the students, and the militant groups have become all-powerful. This has led to the downfall of the DP and its ability to provide a proper dosage of dramatic savvy. One provided it is carried out with the proper proportion to its real import - if they could, and another 100,000 who...

In the article "The Daily Pennsylvanian," Brey and Helford should not be criticized - it should be praised. Of course, the article had opinion in it. It is well-written piece of analysis, printed after a newspaper must look at. As one who is familiar with the DP, it did not deserve the coverage it got. It did not deserve the coverage it got. It did not deserve the coverage it got. It did not deserve the coverage it got.

The Daily Pennsylvanian is published Monday through Friday at Philadelphia.

I am a simple country boy and have been told that we need to be educated because of its many cases the first means news. Perhaps it may come as a relief to Mr. Burnett's anxious student. A security staff who, as was also something "different." The DP articles should be made right the judgment and deserve to be praised, not attacked.
