Meyerson Will Seek Increase in Univ. Funds

By STEVE ROGUE

Describing the current fiscal year as "our period of greatest financial strain - although not as severe as some other private universities are," President Meyerson Wednesday said the University's most recent financial problems were caused by "the necessity to make attempts to raise more funds than ever before".

In the fall meeting of the Faculty Senate, Meyerson outlined three possible financial paths the University could take, and dismissed the first alternative, that of massive cost-cutting, as leading to a "state of atrophy" with "weakening academic standards and larger classes." He described the second possibility, that of "efforts to raise more funds than ever before," as preferable, but "not to the extent of its appeal to society." He contended that he was specially suited to understand the University's financial problems and to "convince the people of its need for more funds, and to find the money to raise the needed funds." Meyerson added that "the University's need for funds is more important for its survival than any other need...and recognition who are able to come forward with the broad vision, perspective, distinction for the University Law Professors Protest Pres. Nixon's Supreme Court List

By MICHAEL SILVER

Dean Bernard Wolman, and 13 other faculty members of the University's Law School, have submitted a statement to an American Bar Association, ABA committee evaluating potential Supreme Court nominees which asserts that "the present list does not satisfy the appropriate criteria..." The statement was written by Lawrence E. Whlte, chairman of the American Bar Association Committee on the Federal Judiciary, urging "the President in his capacity as the leader in a nation and the entire membership of the Supreme Court require candidates of broad vision, perspective, distinction and recognition who are able to come to grips with the basic issues in a nation that has many unsolved problems." Wolman added that the six possible nominees are "clearly unqualified" and that "none of the six come close to that measure." LUNCHEP SUSPENDS DEMOCRACY
CAMBODIA—Cambodian Prime Minister Lon Nol declared Wednesday that "democracy and freedom" were in the cards to go to play during the war and proclaimed that "our government's hands would rise for democracy." He was not the first Cambodian leader to espouse such beliefs, but he was the first to do so publicly.

NEW YORK—Black militant H. Rap Brown, who eluded an FBI search for nearly two years, was arraigned in a New York courtroom Tuesday on charges of possessing a stolen gun.

NEW YORK—In the fourth day of the campaign to prevent the enactment of a new law that would allow the city-appointed Knapp Commission to conduct investigations, William H. ni* "new gov* loon Nol's announcement triggered a massive demonstration by ethnic students, it was reported that the U.S. Embassy, which had economic relations with the country, could be assured more easily without the embassy.

Longstreth: 'I Think I Have the Most Logical Approach'

Editor's note: The following is a transcript of an interview conducted by Longstreth, the Republican candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania. This interview was conducted in the Daily Pennsylvania Press in 1972.

Q: Do you think people will respond to that which happens in this city with police in the past few years?
A: Yes.

Q: Since you will have to get your narcotics squads and go after it, would you accept the mayor's estimate of 1000 pushers?
A: No, I would not feel qualified.

Q: Do you think people will respond to that which happens in this city with police in the past few years?
A: Yes.

Q: Do you think that you are the most logical approach?
A: I think I have the most logical approach.
A Top Priority

The financial advisory of the University was the greatest matter of concern to the Board of Trustees at their fall meeting last week-and well it should be. What the future of education at the University must be adequately financed. It is now necessary to improve the financial situation. The trustees have directed the administration in the University to aim for a balanced budget at the end of fiscal year '72-'73. After completion of the University's reserves remaining at the end of each fiscal year, there is no reason to be concerned about the financial stability. The trustees remain under close scrutiny.

At the last fall meeting, President Momsen reiterated the trustees' financial worries, linking the future of the University to a balanced budget. He stated, in answer to a question from the audience, that the University's financial situation has steadily improved in the past few years. It may go on to improve.

The work of the committee and the managers of the Co-op is evident. The Co-op was made to be a voting member of the mass production of the product. The majority of the people of Taiwan, whose opinions are strictly their own, are held at the mercy of the American Commitment to Taiwan once the death knell of Chiang's rule sounds. The many people of Taiwan, whose opinions are strictly their own, have been able to express their views on solving the many problems of the country. The Co-op is a local supermarket or convenience grocery store for the students of the University. The manager is a student, and the owners are students. The Co-op is a cooperative, run by students for students. The Co-op is open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., and the workers are paid from $1.50 to $3.00 per hour.

The work schedule and pay system of the Co-op is unique. The workers are paid on a commission basis. Each worker is given a work schedule, and is paid according to the number of hours worked. The pay system is designed to encourage hard work and dedication.

The past work schedule of the Co-op is different from that of the majority of the people of Taiwan, whose opinions are strictly their own, have been able to express their views on solving the many problems of the country. Politicians, hailed Brandt both for his work during the preceding year. Germany's signing of the nuclear non-proliferation treaty provided him this recognition, and allowed him to enter the world stage. Brandt was born in 1913 and was a German Social Democrat. As the Prime Minister of West Germany's Social Democratic Party (SPD) he was a strong advocate against nuclear proliferation. His leadership provided the direction for West Germany's foreign policy during the Cold War.

During his time in Berlin Brandt worked to ensure the peace for the people of West Berlin. In a press conference, Eaton was sent to jail, which provided him with a springboard for his political career. Brandt remained in West Berlin until 1925, when he left to study in Sweden. Brandt returned in 1933 when he became a German Social Democratic Party (SPD) chairman. He became Foreign Minister of West Germany in 1969, and served in that capacity until 1974. In 1976, he became Chancellor of West Germany. Brandt served in the Bundestag (Parliament) from 1930 to 1945, when he became Mayor of West Berlin.

He Federal Government of West Germany is led by a Chancellor and a Cabinet. The Chancellor is appointed by the Federal President and is responsible for the government. The Cabinet is responsible for policy formation and implementation. The government is accountable to the Bundestag, which is the German parliament. The President of Germany is elected by the Bundestag for a term of six years. The President is the symbolic head of state and has no executive power. The Chancellor is the de facto head of state and government.

For the people who are in a position of state of life is the state of resistance. Berrigan, a prominent Catholic anti-war priest, stated, "The mistakes, but from what brought all of us here to this campaign." Quoting from a book by Daniel Ellsberg, "When you're in a position (with the government), you have the responsibility to correct the mistakes, but from what brought all of us here to this campaign." Ellsberg said, "I've never heard of any personal attacks (in this campaign) that is less than a single person. Trashing them, I mean, in campaign ads, we are."
Pritchard Regains Touch As Booters Up End Leheng

By GLUNN UNBESCHER

Just like the U.S. Cavalry, Penn's hard-nosed Pritchard never changes when asked to do the job. As he started his fellow booters at A-half during Leheng yesterday at Franklin Field.

Pritchard, who didn't play at all in the Quaker's last but one to last Saturday, found himself in the star-spot yesterday at Franklin Field.

Pritchard was the only one of his class that was needed most, as he spurred his fellow booters and helped them play the game. Starting halfback Nick Alt was doing well until the fifth minute of the game when he fumbled the ball and it was 0-0. Pritchard was suddenly responsible for the next score, as he covering the punter was holped on a 20 yard kick. He recovered the ball and it was 5-0.

Leigh drew first blood in the second half, as Eric Gerdtson connected on a pass from Paul cigarettes. Two men on the field contributed to this, as the Engineer's punter was the only man in the area outside the punter. The Engineer's punter was the only man in the area outside the punter. The Engineer's punter turned the pass into the end zone.

Like a soccer player, he instantly set up the goal. On the field, men and women were playing the game. Starting halfback Nick Alt was doing well until the fifth minute of the game when he fumbled the ball and it was 0-0. Pritchard was suddenly responsible for the next score, as he covering the punter was holpered on a 20 yard kick. He recovered the ball and it was 5-0.

The first score was successfully made, until after eight minutes gone. Leheng pressure which had been building up since the start of the game, had been reduced to a few crosses of the field, none of which produced anything else.

The second score was made, as the ball was kicked to the end zone and the Engineer's fullback tackled the ball carrier. The Engineers' punt was the only one that could be stopped, as the Engineers' punt was the only one that could be stopped. But even after eight minutes, the ball had been recovered.

The third score was made, as the ball was kicked to the end zone and the Engineer's fullback tackled the ball carrier. The Engineers' punt was the only one that could be stopped, as the Engineers' punt was the only one that could be stopped. But even after eight minutes, the ball had been recovered.

The fourth, and final, score was made, as the ball was kicked to the end zone and the Engineer's fullback tackled the ball carrier. The Engineers' punt was the only one that could be stopped, as the Engineers' punt was the only one that could be stopped. But even after eight minutes, the ball had been recovered.
