Thieu Demands Clarification of U.S. Peace Plan 'Flexibility'

By United Press International

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu, assessed by recent U.S. administration reports to have softened his hard-line stance on the war, said Tuesday he wants a "clarification" of the U.S. peace proposals.

Thieu told Ambassador William J. Porter to make sure that the U.S. government understands "the meaning of 'flexibility'" in the peace plan.

Freedman said he feels the Democratic Committee is not aware that student registration, and thus their registration problems, is a result of the "great faculty pressure," and because it supported Longstreth, he "wants to be sure that everyone's efforts are pointed in their own interest to prevent registration problems from occurring."

Freedman, however, that the "complaints have been that the faculty are not doing their part."

The Democratic City Chairman, William J. Porter, could not be reached, the comment.

David A. Sterner, coordinator of 100.000 Strong, said his group is filing a suit against the City Commissioners and because the registrars are too far from the University campus.

Both 100.000 Strong and the Voter's Rights Committee will be running shuttle cars back to the People'sBlack area and the quid to the registrar every 15 minutes from 3:15 to 9:15 P.M.

Reading Mr. Pyenson's article, "Quality Education?" (Feb. 15) was both appalling and inspiring. It is inspiring to think that some readers will get their first impression of Penn's new public policy science professor from such an authentic source. I cannot, unfortunately, be fully confident that the article is itself authentic. To do so would require analyzing it in its entirety, which I am not inclined to do. It is alarming to think that some readers would get their first impression of Penn's new public policy science professor from such an authentic source.

I am a student at Penn and I spent one and a half hours yesterday afternoon reading the entire book "Quality Education?" by Mr. Pyenson. This is the kind of book that I expected to find at Penn. I found it to be a well-written, well-researched book that accurately describes the educational system at Penn. I would recommend it to any student who is interested in understanding the educational system at Penn. I am confident that I will learn something from this book.

A Quality Education?

By STEVE HARTSE

I am a student at Penn and as such I feel that I should be affecting the quality of my education. However, I do believe that the administrative system is still in a prototype stage and I believe that students should be able to have a voice in the process of education.

As the new Registrar of the University, I believe that the quality of our education should be improved. I feel that the university should take steps to improve the quality of education and that these steps should be taken in a way that is consistent with the values of the university.

I believe that the administrative system should be improved to ensure that the quality of education is improved. The new internal structure will allow students, faculty, and staff to have a voice in the process of education. This will ensure that the quality of education is improved and that these steps should be taken in a way that is consistent with the values of the university.

Voter Registration

President emphasized that the registration issue is important because a student must be a registered voter to be a party member to be able to vote in the primary, which determines the delegate who will be selected to the party's national convention.

Since Pennsylvania will send one of the nation's largest delegations to the convention, voting in this primary now more than ever has more than an impact for just the student body but for the entire ballot of its home state, President said.

Students may use their campus address to determine what state they will vote as a result of a ruling by then Attorney General J. Bruce Hunter.

Icemen Out to Break Cornell Winning Habit

BY JOHN WINSTON

Looking nine straight games to a team is not a very pleasant situation to be in, but the Quakers were certainly riding high enough this past weekend to feel that they had come out victors. Cornell had beaten them in the Ivy League title race, and the Quakers had been unable to register a win against them all season. Consequently, they felt that they were better than they had been in the past two seasons.

In the Ivy League, Cornell dominated both ends of the ice and had a total of 16 points, with 9 goals in regulation play and 7 in overtime. The Quakers finished the season with 12 points, but were unable to get past the new crop of freshmen. Cornell had a total of 27 points, with 15 goals in regulation play and 12 in overtime. The Quakers finished the season with 14 points, but were unable to get past the new crop of freshmen.
