Peace Corps to Recruit On Campus This Week

By ELEANOR NORDIER

The Peace Corps stands for a remarkable brand of idealism born of both the human heart and the American spirit. It is an organization in which people of all backgrounds have a chance to serve their country and themselves. It is a chance to make a difference.

Peace Corps was founded in 1961 by John F. Kennedy and later expanded by Lyndon B. Johnson. It is a volunteer-based organization that sends American volunteers to work in developing countries around the world.

The Peace Corps offers volunteers a chance to do something meaningful with their lives. Volunteers work on projects such as education, health, and agriculture. They also have the opportunity to learn about the culture and language of the country they are working in.

Volunteers receive training before they go to the country and are supported throughout their service. They also have the chance to travel and explore the countries they are working in.

The Peace Corps is open to people of all backgrounds, including those with disabilities. It is a great opportunity for anyone who wants to make a difference in the world.

different advantages. "I do it for spirituality and the joy of the hunt," said Price. "I like to find unique and interesting pieces to add to my collection.")

"It’s a very affordable way to acquire things," said another frequenter, who declined to give her name. "I like to find items that are affordable and that I can use in my home."}

Although the market is not particularly large, there are items which are moderately priced. Prices for handmade crafts and items made from recycled materials are typically lower than those for antiques or collectibles.

The Flea Market is held in the Pennsylvania Convention Center, which provides ample space for the vendors and their wares. The atmosphere is relaxed and welcoming, making it a pleasant experience for both vendors and customers.

A GRATEFUL DEBUT
QUESTION: I want to see the Gustavus Dee at the Spectrum about ten days ago. The concert was fabulous, but I had to pay a ticket price ($2.00) whichever shall be less, plus a $7.60 service charge. Is there a statute (Vol. 4 Purdon, Section 213) which states that the difference between the face value of a ticket and the ticket price paid is a 'service charge'? The Hot Line was called by Better Business Bureau for help on this one. It seems that in Pennsylvania the face value was only $4.50. Is there a law which indicates that the consumer of his or her rights through a ticket price paid is a 'service charge'?

ANSWER: SCB called the Better Business Bureau for help on this one. It seems that in Pennsylvania there is a statute (Vol. 4 Purdon, Section 213) which limits the amount to "one half the face value of the ticket or the sum of two dollars and fifty cents whichever shall be less, plus a service charge.

In the case described by the consumer, the difference between the face value of a ticket and the ticket price paid ($2.00) would be considered a 'service charge'. However, it is important to note that service charges are not always legally permissible. It is always advisable to check with consumer protection agencies or legal professionals to ensure compliance with applicable laws.

JOIN DEPARTMENTAL S.C.U.E.'S

S.C.U.E is sponsoring the formation of departmental S.C.U.E.'s in order to increase student participation in educational planning.

Department S.C.U.E.'s have the greatest potential for increasing student input on matters of curriculum design and innovation, and hiring, promotion, and tenure of faculty. Meetings for each departmental S.C.U.E. will be held over the next three weeks. A member of S.C.U.E. and a member of the department's faculty will be at each planning session to help your group organize.

This is the place to come if you are concerned with crowded classes, unresponsive faculty, inadequate course content and selection, and binding requirements.

These meetings are planned for everyone: majors, prospective majors, and those who are simply interested.

Below is a schedule of the meetings.

(All meetings will be held in Houston Hall conference rooms, on the third floor, at 8P.M.-10P.M.)

If you are unable to attend a department S.C.U.E. meeting you are interested in, stop by the S.C.U.E. office and sign up.

A Pennsylvania education is as stimulating and worthwhile as you make it.

The Nixon machine winds down

By Joanne Whitehill

The Nixon machine has been famous expose four years ago and the latest "black tape" affair reflecting the White House in 1973 is the latest in a string of revelations. After the mid-November hearing before the Senate to investigate the Watergate scandals, the situation has begun to wind down. Though the administration's legal strategists are trying to put a spin on the situation, the White House has been dealt a serious blow.

The previous week's developments have contributed to the downfall of the Nixon administration. On November 25, the Senate voted 81-19 to confirm the_...

Gamble Wears the Leopard's Skin

By TOM KAVATCH

The long-simmered feud finally boiled over way out of Harry Gambel's "normal range of activity." The next time he played legal football, that is.

Gambe! was an old-fashioned rock and roll lawyer. Just the kind of guy who would sleep through the second half of a football game and still be classified information. But to add insult to injury, he also seemed to have a personal grudge with the Quakers.

The Quakers were for him what the Yankees were for Mickey Mantle. They'd been on his radar for years, but it was only last year that he finally decided to do something about it. The first two times he played against the Quakers, he had scored a touchdown each time.

But the Quakers had other ideas, and this season, they decided to test whether the Leapord's were as formidable as their reputation suggested. The result was harsh reality, as the Quakers were outscored 42-12.

"That's the effect of the address," said Gamble after the loss. "I still think we could have done all right without Harry."

But the Quakers were not about to take Gamble lightly. They had already been beaten by the Leapord's twice before, and this time, they were determined to get revenge."It's not just a matter of winning," said Gamble. "It's about the satisfaction of knowing we can beat this team."

Gambe! was so determined that he even went as far as to make a public announcement about his intentions before the game. "I'm going to show them what they're missing," he said. "I'm going to show them that I'm the best thing to happen to this school since the day they opened their doors."

And he wasn't wrong. The Quakers were completely dominated by the Leapord's, with Gamble scoring a touchdown on his first carry and adding two more in the second half. The final score was 55-12, and the Leapord's had their revenge.

But Gamble didn't stop there. He continued to dominate the game, scoring two more touchdowns in the fourth quarter. The final score was 62-12, and Gamble had solidified his place as the greatest player in the school's history.

"I told them they were in for a treat," said Gamble after the game. "And I proved it to them."

Gambe! was so happy with his performance that he even went on to score a touchdown in the team's season opener against Lafayette. The final score was 66-12, and Gamble had a historic day, scoring six touchdowns.

But the Quakers were not done yet. They had a grudge to settle, and they were determined to get revenge. The next time they played the Leapord's, they were ready for Gamble.

"We're not going to let him beat us again," said Gamble before the game. "We're going to show him what we're made of." And they did just that.

The Quakers were up 35-12 by halftime, and they didn't let up in the second half. Gamble scored two more touchdowns, and the final score was 55-12, and the Quakers had their revenge once again.

But Gamble wasn't done yet. He continued to dominate the game, scoring another four touchdowns in the fourth quarter. The final score was 86-12, and Gamble had a historic day, scoring eight touchdowns.

"I told them they were in for a treat," said Gamble after the game. "And I proved it to them."
