Football Team Blasts Yale; Title Hopes Rise

By GLENN UNTERBERGER

Penn’s football squad, under the leadership of coach Shinn, outlasted and outscored Yale, 5-2 Saturday at Franklin Field.

The win left the Quakers with a 5-2 record for the year steering them toward a first place finish in the Ivy League race. This year marked the first time since 1941 that Penn has defeated Yale, Harvard and Princeton in the same season. The victory was Penn’s first on soil this year.

Suspicous ZBT Fire Causes Wide Damage

By MITCHELL BERGER

A fire which broke out at 11:30 Saturday night in the attic of the Zeta Beta Tau house caused extensive damage, and has forced hundreds of the house to seek temporary housing downtown.

No one was reported injured. University security guards also reported that a small fire in the Fire Alarm Office building was wildly marked. A spokesman said nobody was injured, however the fire started around a fire sprinkler, and it is, according to him, an accident to the security office.

The fire was extinguished by the Philadelphia Fire Department. The fire station was called to the scene of the fire.

Richard Chirch, chapter president, said he did not know if any other house would be affected.

Pre-registration sessions are set up to follow classes on April 20 and 21, Tuesday and Wednesday. There are still spots available for those who register early. The Saturday Pre-registration session will be held from 9:00 to 11:00 at the ZBT house.

The federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has noted that the 1600 block of Walnut Street would be demolished until the University promises an acceptable plan for development of the block.

Recently, in an informal letter to the Philadelphia Redevelopment Authority and it would hold written proceedings against merchants on the block, including demolition of the merchants’ buildings in count. In a letter dated Nov. 8, HUD told the Authority that until the University submits an acceptable plan for the area, neither the University’s prior approval on any plan for the redevelopment of the block, nor the Authority, nor any agent of the Authority, would be authorized to demolish any property in the area by the Authority and acquisition of the land by the University.

The letter was written to clarify previous HUD rulings, including an August determination that the University’s plans for the parcel were “unacceptable.” Under some of HUD’s 1968 Urban Renewal program, the Authority agreed to develop the site for “institutional/educational use.” The Authority agreed to allow ground lease space in the buildings to be occupied by stores and restaurants.

The University’s current plans call for a private firm to erect a multi-story building on the site, with both residential and commercial space, and the Authority would lease primarily for office space. The Authority would give the merchants, University Associates, could rent the office space to the University and to other groups.

The recent letter noted varied aspects of the University’s proposal including zoning change and expedited procedures for demolition of the University/community-related retail.

Further, the Authority had noted that the Authority has 30 days to make a decision on the University’s petition for the Authority to enter into a “communication and coordination of development plans” with the University.

The Authority is now set to study the University’s plans for the parcel, and the Authority has 30 days to make a decision on the University’s petition for the Authority to enter into a “communication and coordination of development plans” with the University.

Agency Offers Draft Advice

By BOB GROCHO

Kittens are a serious matter, even for the draft service from New York to Baltimore. The kittens are serious because they require proper care and attention. Mike Cunningham, another military counselor said, "The kittens need to be treated with the same respect as any other living being."

Cunningham stated that the kittens were brought to the University of Pennsylvania by a fellow student who had been drafted. The student had intended to take the kittens home, but unfortunately, they were unable to do so due to circumstances beyond their control.

The kittens were placed in the care of the Military and Draft Information Service located on the fourth floor of a residential building on University. The kittens were provided with food, water, and shelter. The service, known as "Kittens," was established to provide a place for kittens to be cared for until they can be properly placed in a suitable environment.

The kittens are currently being cared for by volunteers from the National Lawyers Guild. They are being given food, water, and medical attention. The kittens are also being provided with toys and playtime to stimulate their natural instincts.

The kittens are expected to be available for adoption within the next few weeks. Interested individuals are encouraged to contact the Military and Draft Information Service for more information.

U. Historian Uses Computers To Trace Phil. Social Mobility

By MARVIN MURPHY

Students looking for a change from the usual lecture-recitation approach to history will find a new course in the next fall semester at the University of Pennsylvania's Social History Project.

The project, a comprehensive study of social mobility in Philadelphia, will "get involved in ongoing research," according to Dr. Robert Furstenberg, associate professor of sociology and director of the project.

"The idea has been to get involved in some way with the history of Philadelphia," Furstenberg said. Soccer

Defeated by 1-0, the Penn soccer team suffered its third straight defeat in the second half and at last home loss. "You can't blame either side exclusively for the game going out of hand."

While the way waged on the field and coaches and fans still intact, Fullerton Edward Vogelsinger engaged in a verbal battle of wills. With Bob Childs, a Penn graduate, the coach finally kicked off from the sideline. "It's 1-0 and they're hitting like crazy," Vogelsinger ranted to anyone who would listen. "It's disgraceful." Because when the Feb. 3 game was on, "Okay, let's play," Vogelsinger shrugged. And the game went on. Initially Vogelsinger delayed the game, protesting the fact that the Penn men wore white shorts, the same color as his team, although the rules only require different colored shirts.

The only two of the 30-odd Penn men that will compete. Penn must also worry about Howard, They, and Villanova, who will be missing the top two teams, both John Hartnett and Eamon Coughlin. As seem to be the finest three with equal money coaches, head coach Jack Eiland. Eiland should have a chance for victory against being "thin and small." If any team beats Penn State and Massachusetts, it should be Villanova.
