U. Launches Drive to Attract High-Potential Black Students

by MICHAEL SILVER

Alfred L. Jones, administrative assistant to the university's president, announced today that the university's table of admission requirements and the racial background of the applicant would no longer be considered in the admission process.

Jones said the university would accept a maximum of 500 students from historically black colleges and universities during the next academic year. The university also plans to increase its efforts to attract students from historically black colleges and universities during the next academic year.

Nixon to Meet With Thien's Emissary

By United Press International

President Nixon is expected to meet with a special emissary of South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu later today, a university spokesman said.

The meeting, expected to take place at the university's main campus, would be the first face-to-face meeting between the two leaders in over a year.

Romney Resigns as Secretary of HUD

By Chris Jennifer

The resignation of Governor Mitt Romney, President Nixon's top advisory official on urban affairs, has come as a surprise to many in the White House.

Romney's resignation, announced Monday by David S. Specter, deputy director of the Committee on Open Expression, has been accepted by Nixon, who asked Romney to resign in January. Romney had expressed his desire to resign earlier this year, but Nixon had agreed to delay his resignation until the 1972 presidential campaign.

The resignation has come as a shock to many of Romney's colleagues in the White House, who had assumed he would remain in his current position until the end of the 1972 campaign.

Romney's resignation has also come as a surprise to the public, who had expected him to serve out his term as Secretary of HUD. The resignation has been accepted, and Romney is expected to step down from his current position in the coming weeks.

The resignation has also been met with mixed reactions from the public and political leaders. Some have praised Romney's service to the country, while others have expressed concern about the timing of his resignation.

Nixon May Initiate Long-Term University Tuition Loan Program

As Steakhouse restaurant reported on Page 3, President Nixon will propose a $10 billion, 20-year loan guarantee program for universities, according to sources familiar with the plan.

The plan would be designed to help universities tap into the capital markets and raise needed funds for capital projects and other purposes.

A White House official told the Post that the plan would be announced next week when Nixon addresses the nation on his fiscal policy proposals.

The Post, which was first to break the story, said that Nixon would use his speech to outline his proposals for increasing federal spending on education, research, and other social programs.

The White House official said that Nixon would propose the loan guarantee program as part of a broader effort to increase federal spending on education and other social programs.

The proposal is expected to receive support from Congress, which is expected to pass a budget resolution later this year that includes increased funding for education and other social programs.

The proposal would authorize the federal government to guarantee loans made to universities, which would allow them to borrow money at lower interest rates and on more favorable terms than they could obtain from commercial lenders.

The program would be funded by a combination of federal and state revenues, and would be administered by the Department of Education.

The Post said that the proposal would be part of a larger effort by the White House to increase federal spending on education and other social programs.

The proposal is expected to be well received by educators and policymakers, who have long called for increased federal funding for education and other social programs.

The White House official said that Nixon would propose the loan guarantee program as part of a broader effort to increase federal spending on education and other social programs.

The proposal is expected to receive support from Congress, which is expected to pass a budget resolution later this year that includes increased funding for education and other social programs.

The proposal would authorize the federal government to guarantee loans made to universities, which would allow them to borrow money at lower interest rates and on more favorable terms than they could obtain from commercial lenders.

The program would be funded by a combination of federal and state revenues, and would be administered by the Department of Education.

The Post said that the proposal would be part of a larger effort by the White House to increase federal spending on education and other social programs.

The proposal is expected to be well received by educators and policymakers, who have long called for increased federal funding for education and other social programs.

Los Angeles Reporter Jailed For Keeping Sources Secret

By United Press International

A Los Angeles reporter who has been in jail for two years for refusing to testify before a Federal grand jury inquiry into the "Manson family," has been denied parole for a fourth time.

By United Press International

A Los Angeles reporter who has been in jail for two years for refusing to testify before a Federal grand jury inquiry into the "Manson family," has been denied parole for a fourth time.

The Daily Pennsylvania's October 28, 1972 edition, featuring news and classified ads. The front page has a headline about a Los Angeles reporter who was jailed for refusing to testify before a Federal grand jury. The article mentions the "Manson family" and the "People's Temple." The content includes numerous smaller articles and ads, such as a notice for a beer garden, a listing for a singing contest, and an advertisement for a college fair.

Los Angeles Reporter Jailed For Keeping Sources Secret

By United Press International

A Los Angeles reporter who has been in jail for two years for refusing to testify before a Federal grand jury inquiry into the "Manson family," has been denied parole for a fourth time.

The Daily Pennsylvania's October 28, 1972 edition, featuring news and classified ads. The front page has a headline about a Los Angeles reporter who was jailed for refusing to testify before a Federal grand jury. The article mentions the "Manson family" and the "People's Temple." The content includes numerous smaller articles and ads, such as a notice for a beer garden, a listing for a singing contest, and an advertisement for a college fair.

Los Angeles Reporter Jailed For Keeping Sources Secret

By United Press International

A Los Angeles reporter who has been in jail for two years for refusing to testify before a Federal grand jury inquiry into the "Manson family," has been denied parole for a fourth time.

The Daily Pennsylvania's October 28, 1972 edition, featuring news and classified ads. The front page has a headline about a Los Angeles reporter who was jailed for refusing to testify before a Federal grand jury. The article mentions the "Manson family" and the "People's Temple." The content includes numerous smaller articles and ads, such as a notice for a beer garden, a listing for a singing contest, and an advertisement for a college fair.

Los Angeles Reporter Jailed For Keeping Sources Secret

By United Press International

A Los Angeles reporter who has been in jail for two years for refusing to testify before a Federal grand jury inquiry into the "Manson family," has been denied parole for a fourth time.

The Daily Pennsylvania's October 28, 1972 edition, featuring news and classified ads. The front page has a headline about a Los Angeles reporter who was jailed for refusing to testify before a Federal grand jury. The article mentions the "Manson family" and the "People's Temple." The content includes numerous smaller articles and ads, such as a notice for a beer garden, a listing for a singing contest, and an advertisement for a college fair.
There are two cars built in Sweden.
This is the one that reduces your collision insurance rates
15% at Allstate.

Test drive a Saab 990 today at:

STILLMAN'S AUTOMOTIVE CENTER, INC.
45 S. MacDAVE BLVD. - GLENDONI, PA. 19366 - LU 3-4771

Quad Film Series
Phase III (Surrealism)
Los Olvidados
(The Young & the Damned)
&
Un Chien Andalou
Tonight
9 PM
50¢
Come Prepared for a Shock!!!

Students for the Penn Community Park present
The Raffle
1st prize: a 10 - speed bicycle from
The Bicycle Shop at 4040 Locust St.
Look for us on Locust Walk and around
Drawing will be held on Dec. 11 at the Cartoon Festival in the Fine Arts Aud.
What are law students doing in a ROTC class?

They are participating in Pennsylvania's Two-Year Army ROTC Program which offers graduate students in law and policy the opportunity to study international law, national security, and the relationship of law to contemporary global issues. Students are also required to attend classes in the College of Arms and Sciences, which focus on the development of leadership skills and program fundamentals. The College of Arms and Sciences is designed to provide students with a unique educational experience that complements their legal studies. The program is open to law students who have completed one year of law school and are interested in pursuing a career in the military. The program includes a combination of classroom instruction, field training, and practical experience. The program is designed to prepare students for a successful career in the armed forces and to provide them with the skills and knowledge necessary to serve their country.

Barbara Smith is a professor of law at the College of Laws at Pennsylvania. She is also the director of the Military Law Program at the College of Arms and Sciences. She has served as a legal advisor to the United States Army and has written extensively on the legal aspects of national security and defense. She is a member of the American Bar Association and the American Society of International Law.

Barbara Smith is a professor of law at the College of Laws at Pennsylvania. She is also the director of the Military Law Program at the College of Arms and Sciences. She has served as a legal advisor to the United States Army and has written extensively on the legal aspects of national security and defense. She is a member of the American Bar Association and the American Society of International Law.

Barbara Smith is a professor of law at the College of Laws at Pennsylvania. She is also the director of the Military Law Program at the College of Arms and Sciences. She has served as a legal advisor to the United States Army and has written extensively on the legal aspects of national security and defense. She is a member of the American Bar Association and the American Society of International Law.
Pakistan, India to Free 5,000 POW's

By United Press International

NEW DELHI — Pakistan and India announced their intention Monday to release more than 5,000 prisoners of war captured during last December's war. President Richard Nixon said Monday he was shaking up his administration, and Foreign Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto told the Indian prisoners that he was unilaterally releasing them as a goodwill gesture.

Pakistan, India to Free 5,000 POW's

President Nixon said Monday he was shaking up his administration, and Foreign Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto told the Indian prisoners that he was unilaterally releasing them as a goodwill gesture. "You are free to go home happily," the official radio quoted Bhutto as saying. A Pakistan official said his government has suggested December as a date for release of the Indian prisoners while India captured some 5,000 soldiers along the western front. Pakistan holds 617 Indian prisoners.

Nixon Says "Shakeup"

President Nixon said Monday he was shaking up his administration. At a short press conference at his Camp David, Md., presidential retreat, Mr. Nixon, enunciating no questions, announced that he would begin disclosing his new cabinet one appointee at a time. "This is a mark of a man who is not married," Mr. Nixon said.
Icemen Smash Northeastern, 4-2

Open Home Against R.P.I., Salfi

By TED MEYER

Pine's hockey team can turn into a scary monster when they're in Boston this weekend. At that point, the Quakers easily dispatched Northeastern, 4-2, but at the last minute before when the clock blew near midday, they ran out of time. The squad was kept on for an extra period of 10 minutes, but there would be no scoring, and the game was declared a draw.

There will be no exciting for fans tonight, however, as the Creemen open a three-game weekend series in the Boston area. The team faces R.P.I. in the last of the weekend games, and the Quakers are expected to have their work cut out for them.

The game turned into a defensive struggle throughout the second stanza with Northeastern clipped in a shot from a shot in front of the net, but the Quakers took control in the third period and though a weak N.U. third period shot got past goalie Tim McQuiston in the third period, there was no further scoring.

The game will be played in the early afternoon at 3 p.m. and the Quakers will be looking to improve their record to 8-3-1 for the season. The team will be led by their strong defense and solid goaltending.

Duck Dooms Penn

(Continued from Page 5)

The pack consisted of a 3-year-old in front of the net, but the Quakers took control in the third period and though a weak N.U. third period shot got past goalie Tim McQuiston in the third period, there was no further scoring.

The game will be played in the early afternoon at 3 p.m. and the Quakers will be looking to improve their record to 8-3-1 for the season. The team will be led by their strong defense and solid goaltending.

"It was a good year, there were a lot of opportunities and juniors," remarked Bellizeare. "Everybody is eager to get back to the ice and win our share this season. I'm not so sure what we can expect next year, but we'll have a hell of a team. The rest of the League won't be confident against us."
Dartmouth ‘Duck’ Dooms Quakers, 31-17

By GLENN L'INTERBERGER

The ball sat right there. It was a reminder of the fury with which the Green wave hit the Quakers last Saturday. About an hour and half on the field, it was a symbol of the shot given away by the visitors from Hanover had grabbed a 24-17 lead late in the fourth quarter. With that the Penn dream ended. Even though they had less than five minutes, that same title that had seemed so distant the day before was never more than a memory.

The reason for the afterthought is that the ball just sat there. For several agonizing seconds it lay on Franklin Field's artificial turf in plain view of the 42,422 fans who had flocked to the 33rd Street oval on Tuesday, November 13, 1973. Following the squabbles over the right combination. After 35 years of Penn versus Dartmouth, the booters are hoping that the visitors from New Hampshire from taking their footb

---

Quakers Massacre Big Green, 5-0

To Clinch Second Soccer Crown

By GLENN L'INTERBERGER

The pennants slowly moved to one side on the final second of Harvard's win as the WhirlwindDOCK DOOMS QUAKERS, 31-17

By DAVE CHANDLER

And in the end, it was a converted punt that doomed Penn. Dartmouth 22-2-2, c/o Fredney defeated Penn 14-4, 4-11, 17-7 on the second Saturday afternoon in a game that was decided by the fourth straight by League football history. It was a battle, a double-overtime battle that turned out to be the most exciting of the year.

But these visitors from New Hampshire haven't run interference for Dartmouth this season. They were present, but priorities point toward those NCAA laurels. "We want to prove that we're the better team," predicted Seddon. "If we have any kind of memory at all, we’ll want to get even, too."

The booters will be on the other side of the field and make up close of the defense. But the Nittany Lions will also be present, added by the Nittany Lions' 20-17 victory over Drexel last Saturday. The Quakers overcame a 1-0 deficit with 10 minutes remaining in the third period, and the visitors from Hanover were given a 1-0 by a 10-0 goal in the first period.

"We're going to get even, too," explained Van. "We're not going to lose the game."

The booters will be on the other side of the field and make up close of the defense. But the Nittany Lions will also be present, added by the Nittany Lions' 20-17 victory over Drexel last Saturday. The Quakers overcame a 1-0 deficit with 10 minutes remaining in the third period, and the visitors from Hanover were given a 1-0 by a 10-0 goal in the first period.

"We want to get even, too," explained Van. "We're not going to lose the game."

The booters will be on the other side of the field and make up close of the defense. But the Nittany Lions will also be present, added by the Nittany Lions' 20-17 victory over Drexel last Saturday. The Quakers overcame a 1-0 deficit with 10 minutes remaining in the third period, and the visitors from Hanover were given a 1-0 by a 10-0 goal in the first period.

"We want to get even, too," explained Van. "We're not going to lose the game."

The booters will be on the other side of the field and make up close of the defense. But the Nittany Lions will also be present, added by the Nittany Lions' 20-17 victory over Drexel last Saturday. The Quakers overcame a 1-0 deficit with 10 minutes remaining in the third period, and the visitors from Hanover were given a 1-0 by a 10-0 goal in the first period.

"We want to get even, too," explained Van. "We're not going to lose the game."

The booters will be on the other side of the field and make up close of the defense. But the Nittany Lions will also be present, added by the Nittany Lions' 20-17 victory over Drexel last Saturday. The Quakers overcame a 1-0 deficit with 10 minutes remaining in the third period, and the visitors from Hanover were given a 1-0 by a 10-0 goal in the first period.

"We want to get even, too," explained Van. "We're not going to lose the game."

The booters will be on the other side of the field and make up close of the defense. But the Nittany Lions will also be present, added by the Nittany Lions' 20-17 victory over Drexel last Saturday. The Quakers overcame a 1-0 deficit with 10 minutes remaining in the third period, and the visitors from Hanover were given a 1-0 by a 10-0 goal in the first period.