Undergrads Get Credit for Work In Law Program

By CHRIS JOHNSON

Undergraduates at the University have received credit toward graduation from the new Law School programs in various fields, including the study of discrimination against women.

The new programs were developed by a group of law students under the direction of Professor Philip H. Hart, who is the head of the University's Law School. Dr. Frank Farnsworth, associated with the program, was named as the chairman of the faculty.

One of the students who has been studying the interference of courts in the study of discrimination against women is Marina L., a student in the law school's liberal arts program.

"I was appalled by how little was done to study discrimination against women," she said. "There were some general readings and some training in the areas of discrimination against women that I feel is necessary for me to know." The student has been working with a group of law students to study discrimination against women in the area of criminal justice, bank loans, personal loans, and non-discrimination against women.

Kreisman said the new law program would face hard times. "I mean, I'd love to provide intelligent background for the students who are interested in the investigation." She added that the program would provide hard information in the areas of women's rights and "active research.

Another student who is interested in the program is Mark R., a law student in the law school's criminal law program.

"I was interested in the program because I would provide experience in the areas of women's rights and "active research.

The new program will include a "good use of space for discrimination" course, which is expected by the end of the month.

Haig Meets With Thieu

Cease-Fire Rumored Near

By JOHN D. SULLIVAN

A small group of University students has joined the nationwide effort to raise monies for the relief and restoration of a South Vietnam campus destroyed during the recent heavy rail in the area. The group of students was unable to raise the full $1 million for the damage caused by the railroad.

Mrs. Pratt said 16 or 18 University students were involved in the project, which was coordinated by the Office of University Relations.

All money collected in the drive will be donated to the University. Mrs. Pratt called upon the Medical School to participate in the effort. Most of the activity has been in the Medical School and the School of Dentistry.

Astrid Caruso, the assistant to the University president, said the fieldwork a "very small effort to make" and a "basic step in planning the future" of the University.

The campaign seeks to raise $3 million to be used by University administrators in planning the future operations of their institutions. Mrs. Pratt said that "in the past few years, the University has not had support for anti-war causes in its budget." Mrs. Pratt was last quoted as saying she had been involved in the project.

Survey Will Be Used To Plan New Facilities

By LEE LEVIN

The results of a student survey distributed with registration materials will be used by University administrators in planning the future operations of their offices, Arthur Freeman, director of the department of planning and design, said last month. The survey included questions pertaining to residence, parking, and "other student's wants and needs."

The survey was used primarily to reach the University students. "It's a good use of space for discrimination," said one of the students.

Friedman said information gathered in past surveys was "instrumental" in the creation of several high-rise apartment facilities at the University.

The survey was used by the department of planning and design to study the current wide-ranging survey evolved from a transportation survey issued during the past few years. The results of this survey will be used by the University to plan the future operations of their institutions.

The HP-35 by Hewlett-Packard

Students call it the "Super Slice Rule!"

Can your slide rule compute transcendental functions with 13-digit accuracy in less than half the time it takes the HP-35? Well, yes, and it's only 9 1/2 in. high.

And that's just for starters. The new Hewlett-Packard HP-35 can free you from countless hours of tedious calculations with table, rule, pencil and paper. This 9-ounce calculator computes answers with a single keystroke. It is a "must" in your academic and personal life.

Engineering and math students as well as faculty, will especially appreciate its many practical benefits. The HP-35 without question...

And it does it anywhere, from the classroom to your dorm.

Less hours of tedious calculations with tables, slide rule, pencil and paper Yes, this 9-ounce calculator is for everybody, from students and teachers to management and salesmen. As well as engineers and scientists, it's also ideal for use in accounting, banking, bookkeeping, economics, finance, insurance, surveying, etc.

SUMMER JOBS FOR JUNIORS

IN PHYSICS, CHEMISTRY AND ENGINEERING

The Department of Engineering and Applied Science of Yale University is offering a limited number of Special Grants to college juniors who would like to gain experience in advanced research work.

Available projects include work involving air pollution instrumentation, surface chemistry and catalysis, geophysical, plasma physics, heat and mass transport, computer science and data processing, physics of fluids, mechanics of materials, chemical physics, high pressure chemical synthesis, solid state physics, and physics and electronics.

Stipends will be in the range $100-$120 a week and will be awarded for an 11-week period from June 11 through August 24, 1973.

For further details and application forms please contact your department office, Dean's office, or write to:

The Bach Mai Hospital was Destroyed

"...in calculated anger, the President unleashed the most massive bombing of North Viet Nam of the whole long war."

-Time Magazine, January 1, 1973

I n the city of Hanoi, people, homes, stores, entire streets and neighborhoods have been wiped off the face of the earth—including Bach Mai Hospital, a civilian hospital with 950 beds, extensive clinical laboratories, and all the services of a major teaching hospital, like Stanford Medical Center. Totally destroyed. Doctors, nurses and patients killed. Bombard three times by American B-52s. Confirmed by the Swedish Embassy, by French correspondents, and by our own Ret. Brigadier General Telford Taylor.

Said General Taylor in his eyewitness report:

"Early this morning (Friday), the large Bach Mai hospital was destroyed. The hospital grounds were torn by huge fresh craters and the buildings that escaped direct hits were shattered by the blast.

"Viewed a few hours later, the hospital remains were a terrible scene, with rescue workers carrying patients piggyback, cranes and bulldozers pushing away crumbled slabs, and patients using only their hands desperately clearing debris to reach victims said to be still buried in the rubble, and the frantic hospital director running from one building to another."

What can we do? March? Protest? Run ads? Raise hell with Congress? Yes, we can do all that. And we can do more.

Let the American people show they are capable of expressing something besides anger. Let us express our humanity. Let us replace Bach Mai.
The Black Presence section of the Development Commission report calls attention to the fact that many of the high school and college dropouts are black candidates who are not enrolled in college or university. While there is a certain logic to this, it does not stand up to scrutiny. The University's record of encouraging candidates from black and white backgrounds has been mixed. The University has not always been successful in its efforts to attract and retain black candidates, and it is important to recognize this fact.

Certainly the recommendation urging funding for the Commission report attests to the fact that many of the University's programs are still centered on ethnic minorities. The University has a history of racism and sexism, and this is reflected in its funding priorities. While there is a certain logic to this, it is important to recognize that the University has not always been successful in its efforts to attract and retain black candidates, and it is important to recognize this fact.

On January 10, millions of Americans will watch the President's Rockefeller Center speech on television. The President's voice will dominate the national news and his plan will be seen as a signal of the President's policies. The President's voice will dominate the national news and his plan will be seen as a signal of the President's policies.

Ellsberg Trial Begins

By United Press International

WASHINGTON - The Pentagon Papers trial began today with the government and defense weighing whether the documents on the evolution of the Vietnam war linked to the press were vital to the national defense.

Opening statements began in a packed courtroom in the basement federal building here today.

Government prosecutor David Nissen lectured his case by asserting that the release of the documents "could have jeopardized our efforts to regulate a settlement of the war and could have been fatal to the nation"

He said the documents included international communications, military plans, and memorandums giving an overall view into the inner plans, and memorandums giving "an effect a return of our prisoners."

Jr., former colleagues at the Hand Killberg, 41, and Anthony J. Russo to the press were vital to the national defense. Nissen said whether the documents on the world's security chief of President Nixon's re-election campaign to monitor the overall view into the inner plans, and memorandums giving "an effect a return of our prisoners."

WASHINGTON - James T. Lynn and Casper Weinberger was Senate committee approval Wednesday as the new Secretary of State and Secretary of Housing and Urban Development.

Lynn was approved by Senate Housing and Urban Development Wednesday after struggles to convince senators the administration had lost the principle of Federal housing aid. Weinberger has been named the new Secretary of Housing, Education and Welfare.

NO ACTION "I refuse comment."

WASHINGTON - President Nixon refused comment Wednesday after struggling to conclude Tuesday night's meeting with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu, under considerable pressure from Nixon, had accepted a proposed cease-fire agreement in principle but the White House rejected refusal com- reinforcing on this and all other efforts to prevent flooding world capitals.

M
Owls Plucked by Penn Wrestlers

By ED WIGHT

Last Saturday was a mixed blessing for the Pennsylvania wrestling team, as Eric Vinal, Dave Greenhood, Rick Prestamo and Jeff Thomas led the Owls to a 14-12 victory over the Nittany Lions but also suffered seven losses. The Owls finished the year with a 9-5 record, and their season ended with a loss to the Quakers in the first round of the Big Five Tournament.

The Owls began the year with a difficult match against the nationally ranked Nittany Lions. They lost the opening match, but then rebounded to win three straight matches, including a pin by Vinal and a major decision by Prestamo. However, the Owls struggled in the later matches, falling behind and eventually losing the match.

The Owls' second match of the year was against the Quakers. They won the first three matches, but then lost the next four. Even though they won the last two matches, they couldn't overcome the deficit and lost the match.

The Owls ended their season with a loss to the Quakers, but they were still proud of their achievements. They finished the season strong, and they were looking forward to next year's season.
