Temper Flare, But Cease-Fire Plans Continue

BY JAMES HOLTZ

Two steps toward a cease-fire in the Vietnam war were taken in Saigon, the capital, Thursday (Nov. 3) as President Nixon's announcement of a new strategy for the war was followed by a Viet Cong complaint that it would not proceed in the war if people renounced their fundamental legal rights to protest the war in Vietnam.

"The United States is 'merely a spectator in the nightmare,'" a spokesman for the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) said in Paris Thursday. "It seems ironic on this day, that his man of triumph, tragedy, and Billy Graham, his longtime personal morality which contributes to the social fabric and stability needed for economic progress."
Nixon to Submit Largest Federal Budget Ever

From United Press International

Washington (UPI) -- President Nixon's fiscal 1974 budget for the U.S. fiscal year will set a new high in Federal spending, while also proposing sharply pared-back Federal programs, Administration officials said.

Nixon submitted his budget proposal Thursday to Congress, which will be sent to Congress Monday, calling for spending for fiscal 1974 of $348.2 billion, $11.4 billion more than the Administration's official estimate.

The budget for the fiscal year starting July 1, which will be sent to Congress Monday, calls for spending for fiscal 1973 of $336.8 billion, $9.2 billion below the Administration's official estimate.

Nixon's budget seeks $268 billion in general revenue spending and $80.2 billion in direct spending for the fiscal year, $12.2 billion more than the Administration's official estimate.

In addition to his budget, Nixon also submitted a letter to Congress today asking for $10 billion to $12 billion to be used for the Vietnam peace negotiations. The letter asked Congress to fund the negotiations until March 31.

The peace accord-announced that would declare a formal suspension of all offensive military action when the Vietnam cease-fire goes into effect

The accord-announced in Saigon, however, South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu and the agency that will be in charge of monitoring cease-fire violations is a "naive and helpless organization" and South Vietnam's best guarantee of peace is a strong army.

The accord, said the president also said it was a victory for South Vietnam and added: "If Communist troops enter Saigon, the war will start again."

The accord was scheduled to be signed in Paris September and today, according to sources, is scheduled to arrive in Saigon August and will be signed by the Communists on August 27.

The accord was entered into by the Vietnamese and the North Vietnamese and the United States, and was signed by the United States, the United Kingdom, and the People's Republic of China.

Endowed Post Awarded To Assistant Professor
Dr. Michael Wachter, assistant professor of economics, has been named recipient of the new Norbert Torkin Professorship in Economics.

His appointment marks the second time this year an assistant professor has been nominated to an endowed position.

Professor Torkin, vice-president for undergraduate education, voiced his support for the appointment. He called Professor Wachter "a talented young man who is making a valuable contribution to our college.

The endowed professorship will be called the "Norbert Torkin Professor of Economics."

The committee from which the endowed professorship was selected included the following: Professor Wachter, the chairman; Professor George Deininger and Professor Francis O’Hanlon. The committee’s recommendation was submitted to the Board of Trustees, which approved it.

Fighting Continues As Truce Deadline Nears

Tatyana, 39, was killed in the Gaza area, Friday morning, by a rocket aimed at her home in Nabi Hasam, near Gaza City.

The rocket, according to an eyewitness, hit the house at 5 a.m. and the woman was killed instantly.

On the evening of Thursday, three Arab divisions were reported to be on the move towards the West Bank, according to a report by the Jordanian government.

The move comes as tensions mount in the region due to the recent Israeli-Palestinian conflict.

The Israeli government has denied the reports, stating that it is committed to maintaining its forces in the West Bank.

Admissions

The University of Pennsylvania admissions office has announced that it will begin accepting applications for the fall term starting March 1st.

Students are encouraged to apply early, as the deadline is May 1st.

Freshmen are required to complete an essay and a letter of recommendation with their application.

A Glimpse of the Future: I

The University Development Commission has just submitted its report on the University's financial situation, and the report is cause for concern. The University faces a financial crisis, and the report is a wake-up call for the community to take immediate action.

The report highlights several key areas of concern:

1. Potential for Declining Enrollment: The report projects a decline in enrollment, which could have serious implications for the University's financial sustainability. The University's leaders must take steps to address this issue to ensure the institution's long-term viability.

2. Budget Deficit: The University is facing a significant budget deficit, which could lead to cuts in programs and services. The University must explore ways to increase revenue and reduce expenditures to address this challenge.

3. Endowmentottie: The report notes that the University's endowment is not sufficient to meet the institution's financial needs. The University Development Commission recommends increasing the endowment to ensure financial stability.

4. Fundraising Challenges: The report highlights the need for increased fundraising efforts to support the University's programs and initiatives. The University must develop innovative strategies to increase donations.

5. Institutional Morale: The report notes a decline in institutional morale, which could negatively impact the University's ability to attract and retain students and faculty. The University's leaders must take steps to improve morale and create a positive campus environment.

The University Development Commission recommends the following actions:

1. Increase tuition and fees to offset budget deficits.
2. Develop new fundraising strategies to increase donations.
3. Increase enrollment by developing new programs and initiatives.
4. Strengthen the University's endowment through targeted fundraising efforts.
5. Improve institutional morale through increased communication and engagement.

The University Development Commission's report is a call to action for the University's leaders and community members. The University must take immediate action to address these challenges and ensure its long-term success.
