Committee On Aff. Action Plan

To Aid Provost

By MARGIE SAMPLINER

President Maynard last week announced the formation of an Academic Committee on Equal Opportunity to advise the Provost on policies and procedures relating to affirmative action. The committee, chaired by Assistant Provost of Medicine Anna-Marie Charls, will be the first place to ask questions about affirmative action policies concerning faculty hiring and admissions. The committee will submit its report to President Maynard and the Provost. "The committee's role will be to ensure that the University is in accordance with its own hiring policies," Maynard said.

He explained that the "aid that different schools have different hiring practices." "For example, some schools have an affirmative action plan put in place which requires them to hire a certain number of minority candidates who meet the qualifications of the job," Maynard said. "However, in our own hiring practices, we do not have a formal affirmative action plan. Instead, the committee will be charged with the task of reviewing the hiring practices and making recommendations to improve them.

The committee will be composed of representatives from various departments and offices across the University, including students, faculty, and staff. "We want to ensure that everyone involved in hiring decisions understands the importance of diversity and inclusion," Maynard said. "The committee will help us to develop a more balanced and inclusive hiring process that reflects the values of the University and our commitment to diversity.

The committee's first action will be to review the current hiring practices and identify any areas where improvements can be made. They will then present their recommendations to the Provost and the President, who will take action to implement them.

The committee's work will be ongoing, with regular updates to the Provost and the President. The committee's report will be made public, and the University will work to ensure that all policies and procedures are in line with the committee's recommendations.

The committee's formation is part of the University's ongoing efforts to promote diversity and inclusion. The University has made significant progress in recent years, but there is still much work to be done. The committee's work will help us to continue our progress and to create a more inclusive and diverse community for all.

Hikes in Grant Monies May Help U. Finances

The School of Business is currently "trying to balance the budget" in order to meet increased costs, according to President Maynard. Maynard said that the University is facing a "critical financial situation" due to the ongoing increase in costs, and that the budget is "in serious trouble." He added that the University is "now in a position where we need to make tough decisions in order to maintain our financial stability.

The University is also "working on a number of new initiatives" to help to offset these costs, including a "new program" to attract more students and "a new fundraising campaign," according to Maynard. He added that the University is "exploring" other options, such as "reallocating funds" and "cutting back on non-essential expenses.

The University has "not yet made any decisions" about what specific actions will be taken, according to Maynard. He added that the University is "looking at all options" in order to find a solution to the financial crisis.

Maynard said that the University is "working hard" to maintain its "commitment to excellence" in education and research. He added that the University is "working" to find a "way to balance the budget" in order to "meet the needs" of its students and faculty.

The budget administrator also assured that the "University will be able to continue to provide high-quality education and research," and that the "University will continue to be a leader in its field.

The University's "commitment to excellence" is "unwavering," according to Maynard. He added that the University is "working hard" to find a way to "balance the budget" in order to "meet the needs" of its students and faculty.

Snow enthusiasts, take in the day you've been waiting for. Everything changes as we approach the 1 inch mark of snow by tonight, which will add an inch or so more to the ground. The winter conditions will be colder with at least some light snow activity. Temperatures will drop to -20 degrees. By tomorrow night, the snow will be gone. Accompanied by some cold winds, temperatures around 30 degrees. We're hoping for the best before the winter ends, as soon again, this month.

Modifications Will Benefit Students

By Martin J. Bienenstock

On February 1st, two articles appeared in the Daily Pennsylvanian discussing the possibility of removing the Wharton faculty's new curriculum. The articles argued that the new curriculum would benefit students in the long run.

The first article, written by John O. Lively, asserted that the new curriculum would improve the educational experience of students. The second article, by Andrew J. Bienenstock, echoed this view, emphasizing the importance of such a change.

Wharton students who are referred to as the "new Wharton" or "radical" are concerned about the new curriculum. They believe that the new curriculum fails to provide the education they need to succeed in their future careers.

One View of Friday's Incident

By Paul Podles and Bernard Greene

The dispute over the campus police office occurred while Paul Podles, a senior, was on duty. Podles, along with other supporters of the campus police, is in favor of maintaining the campus police office.

Podles and his supporters argued that the campus police office should not be removed, but the administration disagreed. The dispute centered on the issue of the campus police office's role in maintaining campus safety.

In conclusion, the dispute over the campus police office is a significant issue for the campus community. It reflects the larger debate over the role of the campus police in maintaining campus safety and security.
Advice to Student Consumers

Landlords Have Upper Hand in Many Leases

Advise to Student Consumers

Many contractorsaubers only contain a clause referred to as "incurables. This clause, depending on the contract, reads: "I hereby authorize the Promissory or Clerk of the Court to execute judgment at my request."

In legal terms, this is what might be called a "poison pill" of abuse. If the landlord is not satisfied with the tenant, he or she may have the contract annulled at will. This is to the point of this lease agreement that the tenant may have little choice but to accept the terms of the contract.

"Spiritual Death" in the Soviet Union

I noted that, while particular emigration as two fold. "There is the problem of determining whether the person who has never signed a mortgage. These provisions are designed to prevent the use of the mortgage as a waiver to be legitimate. The three basic safeguards of due process of law. The question then arises can a landlord use to waive a contract clause, depending on the contract, is true of most lease agreements today. It means that the lessor, in his or her capacity as landlord, has the right to go to court and have the lease annulled as a result of the lease agreement.

The decision was, however, a significant one in the sense that it has never been signed a mortgage. These provisions are designed to prevent the use of the mortgage as a waiver to be legitimate. Sadkowski Finishes Season Strong

By Harold Rosen

It would seem that with the likely loss of YoYo to the Ivy League, another legend is on the verge of making his mark. Quakers' captain, Chris Sadkowski, whose antics and toothless grin have charmed Palestra crowds with his antics and toothless grin from time immemorial, has charmed Palestra crowds with his antics and toothless grin from time immemorial. And so another season adds a few more fragments to living legend of YoYo.

The Ups and Downs of YoYo

By Tony Kovatch

"Those were the days of the two-handed set shot," he groaned. "Gil Fitch and his ordinary play would play after the games, but he didn't even get a single game to play."

YoYo, the greatest player of all time, you know, gave me the greatest thrill of my life when the players are active."

As the above bit of non sequitor brings to mind the five weeks he has spent in the Pennsylvania State Penitentiary for a minor offense, it is amazing to think that this period is only a fraction of the time he has been behind bars.
