Meat Price Revolt Has Early Effect

By Louis Post International
The April Food's week long series of labor unrest and price strikings will continue today when meat prices are once again going to be settled. The meat packers are reported to be faced with a severe labor shortage due to a strike by the American Federation of Meat Workers. The strike has already caused a shortage of meat in some areas, and it is feared that the shortage will increase as the strike continues.

The strike is expected to last for at least two weeks, and it is feared that the shortage will affect the availability of meat products in some areas. The labor leaders are demanding higher wages and better working conditions, and they are determined to fight for their rights. The meat packers, on the other hand, are trying to keep the costs of meat products low and are offering lower wages.

The strike is expected to have a significant impact on the economy, as meat products are a major component of the diet of most Americans. The shortage of meat is expected to cause a rise in the prices of meat products, and this could lead to a rise in the prices of other goods as well. The labor leaders are determined to fight for their rights, and they are not willing to accept any compromise.

Women connected with the University plan to stage a rally and a sit-in in College Hall Thursday to protest the recent increase of rapes in the University area. Demonstrators believe that the increase of rapes is caused by the lack of security on campus.

The women will hold a rally on the steps of College Hall at 2:30 p.m. and will march to the main hall of College Hall, where they plan to remain until the University has agreed to demand the women will present to President Meyerson.

Carol Tracy, president of Women's Equal Opportunity University of Pennsylvania and one of the protest leaders, said that the sit-in will be a peaceful demonstration and that the women will be willing to negotiate with the University to find a solution to the problem of rape.

The University said that it will not comment on the issue, but it has agreed to meet with the women to discuss the problem of rape.

U. Council Attendance Ranges for Student Reps From Good to Poor

By LEE LEVINE
Participation in the University's undergraduate representatives (in the Undergraduate Assembly) has turned out to be good ranging from perfect attendance records to a range of poor attendance.

The University's undergraduate representatives have attended all meetings held in October and November. The attendance records for the meetings are as follows:

October:
- 24 members attended the first meeting.
- 23 members attended the second meeting.
- 22 members attended the third meeting.

November:
- 21 members attended the first meeting.
- 20 members attended the second meeting.
- 19 members attended the third meeting.

The University Secretary William Owen recorded attendance at the meetings. He said that attendance has been good overall, but that there have been some absences.

Based on the attendance records, the University Secretary William Owen said that the attendance has been good overall, but that there have been some absences. He said that the University will continue to monitor attendance and that it will take appropriate action if attendance continues to be poor.

Council Member Price Seeks Continuation of Direct Representation

By STEVE MIDDLE
Bath Ann Price, a student member of the University Council, has proposed a policy that undergraduate members of the University Council will be elected directly by their respective constituencies. The proposal is designed to ensure that the voices of all University students are represented on the University Council.

Undergraduate Assembly. Although Professor Price has said that he is supporting the creation of an Undergraduate Assembly, he said that he is not advocating a change in the role of the Undergraduate Assembly. The Undergraduate Assembly would continue to represent the interests of the students, and it would continue to have the power to make decisions on behalf of the students.

The proposal to create a direct representation system would make the Undergraduate Assembly more representative of the student body. It would ensure that the voices of all University students are represented on the University Council, and it would increase the participation of students in the decision-making process.

Event: Ellsberg Trial, Hear Newsman’s Testimony

By United Press International

LOS ANGELES — A former White House correspondent and author of a volume on Watergate is managing to read court records in the Pentagon papers case with "limited" portions of the documents blacked out.

The defense sought last week to use the Pentagon papers to exonerate former President Richard Nixon. But the court has orally approved portions they would not allow Nixon to use.

The defense is expected to win an appeal to the appeals court, but the court is not expected to appeal to the Supreme Court, which might throw out the case altogether.

Pres. Thieu Relaxes in Honolulu

By United Press International

HONOLULU - South Vietnam's President Bui Van Thieu enjoyed his first day in the United States Saturday with a brief respite at an isolated oceanfront hotel.

During his 24-hour stay, Thieu taped messages to President Nixon in Washington and to the people of South Vietnam and the United States.

'Very refreshing,' Thieu said, referring to the US experience. 'America is a place where great things happen,' he added.

Thieu arrived in Honolulu Saturday on his first visit to the US since becoming president almost a year ago and it is likely he will stay until April 5.

SANTO DOMINGO - Joe Frazier, new World Boxing Association heavyweight champion, knocked out Ken Norton, a well-muscled former Olympic champion who stunned the boxing world when he took down George Foreman, Saturday by scoring a 12-round split decision to win their second fight in less than two weeks.

The best of three fights, to determine the new champion, was described as "crazy, definitely not good for boxing." Norton, who had said that he expected to win this time, was knocked down in the second round, and again in the eighth. His nose had been broken earlier in the fight by a right cross from Frazier.

Student Representatives?

Any system of representative government is only as moral and ethical as its representatives make it. It is therefore with great disgust, disappointment and alarm that we view the utterly inadequate record of the undergraduate representatives to the University Senate in the past year.

When a student is elected by his peers to serve as their representative on the University's student body, then he is given a responsibility. That responsibility entails, at the very least, going to the seminars of his body and making the sentiments of his constituency known. After serving for a year in University government for so many years, it is irresponsible and shameful for student representatives to cast aside such a responsibility.

At large representative Ralph Emery has explained only one time this year in the senate that the Freshman Suggests Security Measures to Prevent Rapes. Although he scoffed at as being unduly paranoid by some of his colleagues, Emery’s suggestions were genius. His proposal was a mad dog patrol. The freshmen council was the only group that took a stand for our safety—both men and women. We would hope that student representatives would urge less flamboyance in their representation of the student body.

Large representatives Mark Streeter and college representative Curt Fair have attended but a few of the senate meetings this year. Skip Everett the lone student on the Council’s Steering Committee, David Lloyd and Andrew Sainsbury have attended but five of eight meetings.

Letters to the Editor

Freshman Suggests Security Measures to Prevent Rapes

The response of the University to Freshman Mark Streeter’s new proposal is one of defeat. The university has not taken the necessary steps to ensure safety for women students. Instead, it has focused on the problem of rape prevention as a means to ensure the safety of men students.

Proper Perspective

On Tuesday the College faculty will begin discussion on the report of the Chancey Robinson Educational Policy Committee. Some of the report’s proposals could ensure that students are given the chance to maximize academic performance and are worthy of adoption; however, more important proposals if passed, would be quite detrimental to the quality of education at the University.

The document makes two basic statements. The first portion of the report deals with general and major requirements, offering four options that would replace the current system of requirements. A major concentration would consist of four courses taken in a single area of study. However, this would not only be a restriction to be evaded instead of a goal to be reached, but would also be filled with dilutionist students sponsored by the fee.

We also question whether SAT scores or a University exam-the measures of competency suggested in the report-can or should serve as genuine indicators of “competence” in an academic area, separate students along arbitrary guidelines. Instead, it should be the duty of all students and faculty to strive for excellence rather than for minimum standards of excellence before students are accepted to the University. This way, academic excellence will certainly not encourage qualifications for entry.

In addition to the undesirable specific recommendations, there is another proposal that we would like to see reconsidered by the faculty. As Dr. Wood noted last month, “The situation is a tail that电脑 cannot accept the effective counseling that is necessary, so the University is being forced to a more structured program.” Academic excellence in no way means the same thing as performance by students.

Although the first portion of the report offers considerable improvements for the second part would have negative results. The committee proposed that the University should continue its current freshman year. Freshman take certain courses in each of these areas to make sure they have been exposed to the full range of academic disciplines.

The philosophy might well validate this type of recommendation as a basis for a new proposed curriculum. Freshmen courses could become a restriction to be evaded instead of a goal to be reached. The Freshman Suggests Security Measures to Prevent Rapes, they don’t, women will have to get involved. They mean: “We’re really not much interested in the community.” They don’t mean “all the time.”

The only way we could ever persuade them to lift the ban would be to police the entire campus must be acceptable to the University or else the campus would be left completely unpoliced, it would be quite clear to us that the Freshman Suggests Security Measures to Prevent Rapes.

The reception area is a room the size of a basketball court, with a panoramic view of the Capital. Washington Monument, and the Library of Congress. Elaborate refreshments were served, including delicacies ranging from Chinese pastries to delicate cakes.
Two Lives Lost As Spring Rains Raise Many Rivers to Flood Level

... By United Press International

The mighty Mississippi — already at its highest level since 1927 in some areas — climbed higher Friday, forcing more homes into floodwaters and closing streets to traffic in New Orleans.

A band of forecasters said the river could hit a bridge at Vacherie, La., and could top 56 feet by late next week. Residents in three parishes were warned to seek higher ground.

A flood-control engineer at New Orleans, La., said the city was not in danger of water overtopping the levees that contain the river.

Floods and landslides were blamed for the deaths of an elderly couple and a 5-year-old boy in Mississippi and Tennessee.

The couple died in a house on top of a hill in Tosh, Miss., when it began to slide into the Mississippi River.

The boy, Arthur Johnson, died when a mudslide swept his family's mobile home at Grafton, Miss., late Friday.
