Thousands Held After Military Coup In Chile

By United Press International

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — A total of 15,000 people, mostly university students, held a peaceful demonstration in Santiago against Chile's military takeover of the South American nation, amid reports that a possible coup attempt is being planned.

The demonstration, the largest in Chile in recent years, was held on the anniversary of the 1973 coup that toppled President Salvador Allende and installed Gen. Augusto Pinochet as leader.

Chilean police said about 5,000 people participated in the demonstration, which began at the Universidad de Chile and ended at the Plaza de Armas, the city's main square.

The demonstration was quiet and peaceful, with no reported clashes or arrests.

The demonstration was hailed as a significant victory for the opposition, which has been fighting for民主 and the return of civilian rule.

The demonstration came amid growing concerns about the possibility of a new coup attempt.

Meanwhile, talks between the government and the opposition continued.

The talks are aimed at reaching a peaceful solution to the country's political crisis and ending the six-month-old military crackdown.

The government has promised to hold elections within six months, but the opposition demands a comprehensive solution to the country's problems.

The talks have been described as positive, but it remains unclear if an agreement can be reached.

The demonstration was organized by the委组织的 "Committee of 15,000," which is made up of university students and activists.

The committee said the demonstration was held to show solidarity with the people of Chile and to support the struggle for democracy.

The demonstration was peaceful, with no arrests or incidents reported.

The government has vowed to crack down on any protests or demonstrations, but the demonstrators remained undeterred.

The government has deployed thousands of police and soldiers to keep the peace, but the demonstrators continued to march and chant slogans.

The demonstration was the largest in Chile in recent years and was held on the anniversary of the 1973 coup that toppled President Salvador Allende and installed Gen. Augusto Pinochet as leader.

The demonstration was hailed as a significant victory for the opposition, which has been fighting for democracy and the return of civilian rule.

The demonstration came amid growing concerns about the possibility of a new coup attempt.

Meanwhile, talks between the government and the opposition continued.

The talks are aimed at reaching a peaceful solution to the country's political crisis and ending the six-month-old military crackdown.

The government has promised to hold elections within six months, but the opposition demands a comprehensive solution to the country's problems.

The talks have been described as positive, but it remains unclear if an agreement can be reached.

The demonstration was organized by the委组织的 "Committee of 15,000," which is made up of university students and activists.

The committee said the demonstration was held to show solidarity with the people of Chile and to support the struggle for democracy.

The demonstration was peaceful, with no arrests or incidents reported.

The government has vowed to crack down on any protests or demonstrations, but the demonstrators remained undeterred.

The government has deployed thousands of police and soldiers to keep the peace, but the demonstrators continued to march and chant slogans.

The demonstration was the largest in Chile in recent years and was held on the anniversary of the 1973 coup that toppled President Salvador Allende and installed Gen. Augusto Pinochet as leader.

The demonstration was hailed as a significant victory for the opposition, which has been fighting for democracy and the return of civilian rule.

The demonstration came amid growing concerns about the possibility of a new coup attempt.

Meanwhile, talks between the government and the opposition continued.

The talks are aimed at reaching a peaceful solution to the country's political crisis and ending the six-month-old military crackdown.

The government has promised to hold elections within six months, but the opposition demands a comprehensive solution to the country's problems.

The talks have been described as positive, but it remains unclear if an agreement can be reached.

The demonstration was organized by the委组织的 "Committee of 15,000," which is made up of university students and activists.

The committee said the demonstration was held to show solidarity with the people of Chile and to support the struggle for democracy.

The demonstration was peaceful, with no arrests or incidents reported.

The government has vowed to crack down on any protests or demonstrations, but the demonstrators remained undeterred.

The government has deployed thousands of police and soldiers to keep the peace, but the demonstrators continued to march and chant slogans.

The demonstration was the largest in Chile in recent years and was held on the anniversary of the 1973 coup that toppled President Salvador Allende and installed Gen. Augusto Pinochet as leader.

The demonstration was hailed as a significant victory for the opposition, which has been fighting for democracy and the return of civilian rule.

The demonstration came amid growing concerns about the possibility of a new coup attempt.

Meanwhile, talks between the government and the opposition continued.

The talks are aimed at reaching a peaceful solution to the country's political crisis and ending the six-month-old military crackdown.

The government has promised to hold elections within six months, but the opposition demands a comprehensive solution to the country's problems.

The talks have been described as positive, but it remains unclear if an agreement can be reached.

The demonstration was organized by the委组织的 "Committee of 15,000," which is made up of university students and activists.

The committee said the demonstration was held to show solidarity with the people of Chile and to support the struggle for democracy.

The demonstration was peaceful, with no arrests or incidents reported.

The government has vowed to crack down on any protests or demonstrations, but the demonstrators remained undeterred.

The government has deployed thousands of police and soldiers to keep the peace, but the demonstrators continued to march and chant slogans.

The demonstration was the largest in Chile in recent years and was held on the anniversary of the 1973 coup that toppled President Salvador Allende and installed Gen. Augusto Pinochet as leader.

The demonstration was hailed as a significant victory for the opposition, which has been fighting for democracy and the return of civilian rule.

The demonstration came amid growing concerns about the possibility of a new coup attempt.

Meanwhile, talks between the government and the opposition continued.

The talks are aimed at reaching a peaceful solution to the country's political crisis and ending the six-month-old military crackdown.

The government has promised to hold elections within six months, but the opposition demands a comprehensive solution to the country's problems.

The talks have been described as positive, but it remains unclear if an agreement can be reached.

The demonstration was organized by the委组织的 "Committee of 15,000," which is made up of university students and activists.

The committee said the demonstration was held to show solidarity with the people of Chile and to support the struggle for democracy.

The demonstration was peaceful, with no arrests or incidents reported.

The government has vowed to crack down on any protests or demonstrations, but the demonstrators remained undeterred.

The government has deployed thousands of police and soldiers to keep the peace, but the demonstrators continued to march and chant slogans.

The demonstration was the largest in Chile in recent years and was held on the anniversary of the 1973 coup that toppled President Salvador Allende and installed Gen. Augusto Pinochet as leader.

The demonstration was hailed as a significant victory for the opposition, which has been fighting for democracy and the return of civilian rule.

The demonstration came amid growing concerns about the possibility of a new coup attempt.

Meanwhile, talks between the government and the opposition continued.

The talks are aimed at reaching a peaceful solution to the country's political crisis and ending the six-month-old military crackdown.

The government has promised to hold elections within six months, but the opposition demands a comprehensive solution to the country's problems.

The talks have been described as positive, but it remains unclear if an agreement can be reached.

The demonstration was organized by the委组织的 "Committee of 15,000," which is made up of university students and activists.

The committee said the demonstration was held to show solidarity with the people of Chile and to support the struggle for democracy.

The demonstration was peaceful, with no arrests or incidents reported.

The government has vowed to crack down on any protests or demonstrations, but the demonstrators remained undeterred.

The government has deployed thousands of police and soldiers to keep the peace, but the demonstrators continued to march and chant slogans.

The demonstration was the largest in Chile in recent years and was held on the anniversary of the 1973 coup that toppled President Salvador Allende and installed Gen. Augusto Pinochet as leader.

The demonstration was hailed as a significant victory for the opposition, which has been fighting for democracy and the return of civilian rule.

The demonstration came amid growing concerns about the possibility of a new coup attempt.

Meanwhile, talks between the government and the opposition continued.

The talks are aimed at reaching a peaceful solution to the country's political crisis and ending the six-month-old military crackdown.

The government has promised to hold elections within six months, but the opposition demands a comprehensive solution to the country's problems.

The talks have been described as positive, but it remains unclear if an agreement can be reached.

The demonstration was organized by the委组织的 "Committee of 15,000," which is made up of university students and activists.

The committee said the demonstration was held to show solidarity with the people of Chile and to support the struggle for democracy.

The demonstration was peaceful, with no arrests or incidents reported.

The government has vowed to crack down on any protests or demonstrations, but the demonstrators remained undeterred.

The government has deployed thousands of police and soldie
Eleven Faculty
Designated As Emeritus Professors.

Eleven University faculty members retired July 1 and received the designation of emeritus professor.

As Edward M. DeBakey because he was a member of the faculty of the School of Medicine since 1929.

Dr. Robert F. Stengel became emeritus professor of pediatrics. He has been a faculty member of the Medical School since 1946.

Dr. Paul S. Bunting, a member of the faculty since 1948, was appointed professor of dermatology.

Dr. Charles C. Reisman, Jr., a member of the faculty since 1952,
was appointed professor of preventive medicine.

Dr. John E. Johnson, a member of the faculty since 1948, was appointed professor of preventive medicine.

Dr. Robert J. Wolman, a member of the faculty since 1946, was appointed professor of preventive medicine.

Dr. Richard F. Woolf, a member of the faculty since 1948, was appointed professor of preventive medicine.

Dr. John E. Johnson, a member of the faculty since 1948, was appointed professor of preventive medicine.

Dr. Robert F. Stengel became emeritus professor of pediatrics. He has been a faculty member of the Medical School since 1946.

Dr. Paul S. Bunting, a member of the faculty since 1948, was appointed professor of dermatology.

Dr. Charles C. Reisman, Jr., a member of the faculty since 1952,
was appointed professor of preventive medicine.

Dr. John E. Johnson, a member of the faculty since 1948, was appointed professor of preventive medicine.

Dr. Robert J. Wolman, a member of the faculty since 1946, was appointed professor of preventive medicine.
Heath and Irish Premier Discuss

The Christian democrats and Nationalists may try to bring down the government of Premier Eamon de Valera in the wake of the general election. The vote is considered crucial to the future of the government.

The two parties have been at odds over a number of issues, including the government's handling of the economy and foreign affairs. The Christian democrats have been demanding more control over the country's foreign policy, while the Nationalists have been pushing for greater independence from the United Kingdom.

However, the government has been able to maintain a tight grip on power, and the Christian democrats have been unable to form a viable opposition. The election is expected to be closely contested, and the outcome will likely determine the direction of the country for the next several years.

N. Ireland

In a recent statement, the government announced a new plan to reduce the number of prisoners held in the north. The plan includes the closure of several overcrowded prisons and the transfer of some prisoners to facilities in the south.

The government has been under pressure to take action on the issue for some time, and the new plan is seen as a step towards addressing the problem. However, the announcement has been met with mixed reactions, with some officials expressing concern that the plan will not go far enough.

JEWISH FREE UNIVERSITY

Today is the first day of classes at the university, and students are excited to start the new academic year. The university offers a wide range of programs and courses, and students are sure to find something that interests them.

Courses in Jewish literature, history, and culture are particularly popular, and many students enjoy exploring the rich traditions of the Jewish people. The university also has a strong focus on social justice issues, and students are encouraged to engage with the wider community.

For information on courses and other university events, please visit the website or contact the admissions office.

REWARD OFFERED

$35.00 Per Week
CALL NOW FOR DETAILS: CH/243
Open Until 8 PM. Every Mon, Tues, Wed, & Thurs.

BIOCENES INC.

NEW DP REPORTERS

Please call the office today, between 3 and 5 PM.

WANTED FOR DONATING PLASMA

FEMALES MALES

DESCRIPTION: At least 11 b. Good Health, and interested in being a plasma donor to help provide urgently needed plasma for the treatment of Hemophilia and the preparation of Blood Serums.

DISTINGUISHING MARKS: Blood Group A, B & O

LAST KNOWN ADDRESS: University of Penn, Campus
The Daily Pennsylvania.

The Time Is Now for Admissions

By Jim Kahn

Former Director of Admissions Jim Kahn, the highest ranking staff person to leave the admissions office in recent years, wrote a somewhat bitter, but quite accurate obituary for the office last week. Kahn, a Wharton veteran, had planned to resign from his post effective August 1st. "I didn't want to get up every morning to attend another mind-numbing meeting, and I didn't want to spend my last few days in the office helping to satisfy some lawyer's attention to minutiae," he said. "I vowed to resign when I saw that the administration was escalating the number of administrators involved in the admissions process."

Kahn's resignation also means that the admissions office, under Alvin Davis, now a frustrated and uncertain young man, may be facing a crisis of morale and professionalism. "I'm not sure what he's going to do," said one of Davis' colleagues. "But I think he's going to need a lot of help." Davis, who has been with the admissions office for five years, is known for his ability to handle student complaints and for his knowledge of the college's policies. He has also been praised for his ability to maintain a positive attitude in the face of pressure.

Kahn's resignation has also meant that the admissions office is now in need of a new director. "We're going to have to find someone who can handle this situation," said President David Eliot. "I'm not sure we have anyone in the administration who can do it." Kahn, who is currently unemployed, has already begun to look for a new job. "I'm not sure what I'm going to do," he said. "But I think I might try something in the field of education." Kahn has been active in the field of education for the past ten years, and has written several articles on the subject. He is currently working on a book about the admissions process.

Kahn's resignation has also meant that the admissions office is now in need of a new director. "We're going to have to find someone who can handle this situation," said President David Eliot. "I'm not sure we have anyone in the administration who can do it." Kahn, who is currently unemployed, has already begun to look for a new job. "I'm not sure what I'm going to do," he said. "But I think I might try something in the field of education." Kahn has been active in the field of education for the past ten years, and has written several articles on the subject. He is currently working on a book about the admissions process.

Confusion at the Wharton School

We are dismayed at the Wharton faculty's decision to remove the pass-no credit option from required courses. We are especially concerned that the faculty passed the new rule last May when students could not even know the idea was under consideration. The faculty's decision was made in the Fall of '87, as recommended by the Curriculum Committee. We are also concerned that the decision was not reiterable to the accurate report of the student body, who had only cautions on the part of the Wharton faculty.

At their recent meeting of the Wharton faculty, the very least the faculty can do is clarify the implementation date. If they do, we shall consider their position. But until some clarification is made, we cannot support the faculty's decision.

Finally, we are dismayed at the Wharton faculty's decision to remove the pass-no credit option from required courses. We are especially concerned that the decision was not reiterable to the accurate report of the student body, who had only cautions on the part of the Wharton faculty.

On Campus

Shalom Drug Education Program
Bureau of Consumer Protection
Lutheran Settlement House
Women Organized Against Rape
Shalol Fieldwork
Community Legal Services
Community Workshop
Bureau of Consumer Protection
South St. Community Workshop
Community Education Center
Peoples Neighborhood Center

If you have any questions or concerns, please feel free to contact us at any time. We are always here to help you with any issues you may have.
Advice to Student Consumers

Rug Market May Confuse Buyer

This column has been prepared as a result of the request by the Penne

Now that the graduate year has begun, many seniors are planning for life after college. One of the most important decisions is selecting a suitable rug for their newly acquired off-campus housing. The problem of selecting the right rug can be daunting for many. To help alleviate this stress, we have compiled some tips to guide you through the rug market.

1. Measure your space: Before you begin shopping, measure the dimensions of your room. This will help you determine the size and shape of the rug you need.
2. Decide on a style: Consider your personal style and the overall decor of your room. Choose a rug that complements your furniture and color scheme.
3. Consider the material: Rugs are available in various materials, such as wool, nylon, and cotton. Each material has its own advantages and disadvantages.
4. Check the quality: Look for rugs that are well-constructed and made from high-quality materials. Check for any signs of poor craftsmanship, such as loose threads or uneven edges.
5. Price comparison: Don’t be afraid to shop around. Compare prices at different stores to find the best deal.
6. Look for warranty: Some rugs come with a warranty. Make sure to check the warranty terms before making a purchase.

By following these tips, you can make an informed decision and find a rug that suits your needs and budget.

University Schedules Three Bus Routes: Much Cross-Campus Service Available

Three routes have been scheduled for the upcoming academic year. The first route, which will run Monday through Thursday, will pick up students at the Student Center, drive to the East Campus, and return to the Student Center. The second route, which will run Monday through Friday, will pick up students at the Student Center, drive to the West Campus, and return to the Student Center. The third route, which will run Monday through Friday, will pick up students at the Student Center, drive to the North Campus, and return to the Student Center.

Sexualites in Fine Health

The much-heralded avant-garde dance group

The Much-Herited avant-garde dance group

The Much-Herited avant-garde dance group

TODAY AND WED. 7 p.m. only

Irvin Aud.

Tues. & Wed. 7 p.m.

A 45-minute film which incorporates the agency of history through the erosion of...

The Sorrows and the Pity

Directed by Marcel Ophuls

Are you tired of seeing Chrissie and Billie Jean rake in all the glory? Start your own career now!

JOIN THE PENN FIELD HOCKEY TEAM

COME SEE US: 1. T. Hill Ball Field 4:6 PM M.W. Franklin Field 3:45 PM

TICKETS: All seats at inventory.

WOMEN

Are you tired of seeing Chrissie and Billie Jean rake in all the glory? Start your own career now!

JOIN THE PENN FIELD HOCKEY TEAM

COME SEE US: 1. T. Hill Ball Field 4:6 PM M.W. Franklin Field 3:45 PM

TICKETS: All seats at inventory.

WOMEN

Are you tired of seeing Chrissie and Billie Jean rake in all the glory? Start your own career now!

JOIN THE PENN FIELD HOCKEY TEAM

COME SEE US: 1. T. Hill Ball Field 4:6 PM M.W. Franklin Field 3:45 PM

TICKETS: All seats at inventory.

WOMEN

Are you tired of seeing Chrissie and Billie Jean rake in all the glory? Start your own career now!

JOIN THE PENN FIELD HOCKEY TEAM

COME SEE US: 1. T. Hill Ball Field 4:6 PM M.W. Franklin Field 3:45 PM

TICKETS: All seats at inventory.
Concerned Baumaans Faces Added Duties as Co-Captain

By TED METZLER

Steve Bauman was named co-captain of the newly-formed squad from the Westport, Conn. in his final season.

Sports

Pitt Tuesday, September 24 (1974)

right track. He played forward for Cornell and then played fullback after he was cut from the Westport, Conn. squad in his first season.

Women's Field Hockey Team Readies For First Outing Against Temple Owls

By ROB LIPPITT

On Saturday afternoon, the women's field hockey team will take on the Temple Owls in its first game of the year.

For First Outing Against Temple Owls

Women's Field Hockey Team Readies For First Outing Against Temple Owls

Concerned Baumaans Faces Added Duties as Co-Captain

By TED METZLER

Steve Bauman was named co-captain of the newly-formed squad from the Westport, Conn. in his final season.

Sports

Pitt Tuesday, September 24 (1974)

right track. He played forward for Cornell and then played fullback after he was cut from the Westport, Conn. squad in his first season.

Women's Field Hockey Team Readies For First Outing Against Temple Owls

By ROB LIPPITT

On Saturday afternoon, the women's field hockey team will take on the Temple Owls in its first game of the year.

For First Outing Against Temple Owls

Women's Field Hockey Team Readies For First Outing Against Temple Owls

Concerned Baumaans Faces Added Duties as Co-Captain

By TED METZLER

Steve Bauman was named co-captain of the newly-formed squad from the Westport, Conn. in his final season.

Sports

Pitt Tuesday, September 24 (1974)

right track. He played forward for Cornell and then played fullback after he was cut from the Westport, Conn. squad in his first season.

Women's Field Hockey Team Readies For First Outing Against Temple Owls

By ROB LIPPITT

On Saturday afternoon, the women's field hockey team will take on the Temple Owls in its first game of the year.

For First Outing Against Temple Owls

Women's Field Hockey Team Readies For First Outing Against Temple Owls

Concerned Baumaans Faces Added Duties as Co-Captain

By TED METZLER

Steve Bauman was named co-captain of the newly-formed squad from the Westport, Conn. in his final season.

Sports

Pitt Tuesday, September 24 (1974)

right track. He played forward for Cornell and then played fullback after he was cut from the Westport, Conn. squad in his first season.

Women's Field Hockey Team Readies For First Outing Against Temple Owls

By ROB LIPPITT

On Saturday afternoon, the women's field hockey team will take on the Temple Owls in its first game of the year.