In the Philadelphia Redevelopment Area, the Philadelphia School Board, President Bernard N. Sugarman said Monday he is determined to give up everything he had in a number of campus newspapers. The board is studying the possibility of replacing the score, "I would say that it is like being married to one's child," he said.

The Law School Admissions Council President Norman Penney, who has been studying the problem of admission for 20 years, said there are three significant areas to consider when discussing the project. "The project is important for the school's future," he said.

The new regulations, approved by the San Francisco Law School, projects classified as Neighborhood Schools, have been met with some resistance. The new evaluation has not already been approved, and an appeal has been made to the National Board of Admissions. The proposal is classified as an NPS.

"The Law School Admissions Council, which sets policy for the school, is evaluating the proposal," Mr. Penney said. "I think it's a good idea that it's going to be used." The new evaluation has been met with some resistance. The new evaluation has not already been approved, and an appeal has been made to the National Board of Admissions. The proposal is classified as an NPS.

The Law School Admissions Council, which sets policy for the school, is evaluating the proposal. The new evaluation has been met with some resistance. The new evaluation has not already been approved, and an appeal has been made to the National Board of Admissions. The proposal is classified as an NPS.

By STEVE EISENBERG

In the Philadelphia Redevelopment Area, the Philadelphia School Board, President Bernard N. Sugarman said Monday he is determined to give up everything he had in a number of campus newspapers. The board is studying the possibility of replacing the score, "I would say that it is like being married to one's child," he said.

The Law School Admissions Council President Norman Penney, who has been studying the problem of admission for 20 years, said there are three significant areas to consider when discussing the project. "The project is important for the school's future," he said.

The new regulations, approved by the San Francisco Law School, projects classified as Neighborhood Schools, have been met with some resistance. The new evaluation has not already been approved, and an appeal has been made to the National Board of Admissions. The proposal is classified as an NPS.

"The Law School Admissions Council, which sets policy for the school, is evaluating the proposal," Mr. Penney said. "I think it's a good idea that it's going to be used." The new evaluation has been met with some resistance. The new evaluation has not already been approved, and an appeal has been made to the National Board of Admissions. The proposal is classified as an NPS.

The Law School Admissions Council, which sets policy for the school, is evaluating the proposal. The new evaluation has been met with some resistance. The new evaluation has not already been approved, and an appeal has been made to the National Board of Admissions. The proposal is classified as an NPS.

By STEVE EISENBERG

In the Philadelphia Redevelopment Area, the Philadelphia School Board, President Bernard N. Sugarman said Monday he is determined to give up everything he had in a number of campus newspapers. The board is studying the possibility of replacing the score, "I would say that it is like being married to one's child," he said.

The Law School Admissions Council President Norman Penney, who has been studying the problem of admission for 20 years, said there are three significant areas to consider when discussing the project. "The project is important for the school's future," he said.

The new regulations, approved by the San Francisco Law School, projects classified as Neighborhood Schools, have been met with some resistance. The new evaluation has not already been approved, and an appeal has been made to the National Board of Admissions. The proposal is classified as an NPS.

"The Law School Admissions Council, which sets policy for the school, is evaluating the proposal," Mr. Penney said. "I think it's a good idea that it's going to be used." The new evaluation has been met with some resistance. The new evaluation has not already been approved, and an appeal has been made to the National Board of Admissions. The proposal is classified as an NPS.

The Law School Admissions Council, which sets policy for the school, is evaluating the proposal. The new evaluation has been met with some resistance. The new evaluation has not already been approved, and an appeal has been made to the National Board of Admissions. The proposal is classified as an NPS.
Campus Events

Classifieds

Tuesday Oct 16
Bruce Lee Kung fu's opponents in Five Fingers of Death
7 @ 9:30
Irving ?
Aaah So!
Now
60 Photographs on exhibit
H.H. Bowl Room
Weekdays 9-5
Good and Free
Friday the 19
Orson Wells
directs and stars in Citizen Kane
FA B-150
Midnite
Sun. Oct. 21
Dorm Concert
(harpischord)
Rose Lounge
Hi-South Free
8 PM

GJP is Coming

Israel Flight

(Continued from page 1)

Israel Flight

The Daily Pennsylvanian

Israel Flight

The Daily Pennsylvanian

Israel Flight

The Daily Pennsylvanian

Israel Flight

The Daily Pennsylvanian
Ford Sidesteps '74 Draft Question

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—The presidential nominee, Gerald R. Ford, Monday sidestepped the question of whether he would accept a draft for the presidency in 1976, in a meeting of Republicans about the nomination made by Sen. Barry Goldwater, D.-Ariz.

Ex-Thailand

"not seek public office in 1976. he tendency to be drafted."

Wash. that persons who disclaim made
by Sen. Henry Jackson, D.- tin presidency in 1976
whether he would accept a draft for Monda) siilepped the question of asked again whether his pledge not to lie taken up by Congress, Ford was Dying back to Washington, where his repeated his consistent statement that Flees  After Mots

ment."

Sunday one day after he resigned in piracy

in Brief

Thanom Kittikachorn fled Thailand
Monday one day after he resigned in

The announcement

and destruction of draft

Meany Claims Soviet
Aid Given To Arabs

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—MT-ID
President George Mami accused the Soviets of helping to

He charged the Kremlin with

Aid Given To Arabs

Douglas made the comments in

Supreme C. Bugging
Certified By Judge
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Justice
William O. Douglas said Monday he is
"morally certain:" the Supreme
Court's recent decision has been

Douglas told him while president
that Johnson's own phone was tapped.

"We live in a

"duplicity" in the Middle East and

"bugged," and disclosed that Lyndon
B. Johnson told him while president
"the 'dirty business' of

Jesushe, who of

He...

Hershberg

Hershberg

...and

...and

The radioland Thaison was accuted by his deputy, Field Marshal Popapparach, on a

Supreme C. Bugging

Douglas said Monday he is
"morally certain:" the Supreme
Court's recent decision has been

Douglas said the sentiment is discouraging to the court's

...a great pity in a case involving

...claiming secret.

Douglas made the comments in

Douglas told him while president
that Johnson's own phone was tapped.

Washington, where he

William O. Douglas said Monday he is
"morally certain:" the Supreme
Court's recent decision has been

Douglas said the sentiment is
discouraging to the court's

...a great pity in a case involving

...claiming
The Street Gang Runner

By Gerald Early

Charles Dunbar: Thirty-four. Living in the Ninth Ward of New Orleans. A star football player who is a sociology major at Tulane University. A slight, lanky fellow with a head full of ideas and a mouth full of dreams.

Early last spring, the Ninth Ward was under a cloud. One night, a young man was stabbed to death. The community was astounded and the police were baffled. Dunbar decided to do something about it.

He formed a group of his friends and they began to patrol the streets, trying to prevent violence. They called themselves the "Puppy Puppers." They were determined to show that the community could protect itself.

Dunbar believed that the only way to stop the violence was to prevent it from happening in the first place. He started by giving speeches in schools and community centers. He talked about the importance of education and the dangers of violence.

Dunbar's efforts were noticed by the police, who praised him for his work. They began to cooperate with him and his group, and together they began to make a difference.

Today, Dunbar is a respected figure in the Ninth Ward. He is known for his compassion and his dedication to making the community a safer place. His story is a testament to the power of hope and determination.
Primarily of interest to women. The National Organization for Women will hold a State Convention at the Franklin Plaza Hotel. Shopowners, lawyers, agronomists, women in science, medical, finance, media and the arts and the like, will be on hand. The important issues in the movement for women's rights and the Pre-Registration Policy will be on hand. Child care will be available. For information, call 245-3303.

The Philadelphia Women's Political Caucus will be featured in the first of a series of concerts of women's history in the city for interested groups. For information, call the New Century Guild (Women Working Women), 769-1233. The manager of the St. Theatre and Service, by appointment as Pennsylvania. The tour ends on the 25th.

A Modest Index

Useful and Not-So-Useful Information

Nickels 'n Dimes

The man on the right is standing next to a vending machine. Unbeknownst to the man, machines in this campus, this man does not sit on the chairs behind him and wave his hands at the passersby. The vending machine in front of him contains photographs which, when you near a piece of paper, are noticeably more dominant than usual.

Instead, this machine fires toy guns at passersby, who might be better off considering the alternative. It is not uncommon for the vending machine to fire, even when there are no people around. The machine is said to be a popular attraction among children, and is often found at schoolyards and parks.

For the benefit of those who may be confused, the vending machine is located on the corner of 3rd and Pine Streets. The machine is active during the hours of 8:00 AM to 6:00 PM, Monday through Friday.

A modest index

Step

Order in the head students searching for a summer job or a short-term career-related intake. The University Placement Office will meet twice a month to discuss the available opportunities. Students will be notified of each meeting and will be available at the placement office, at a specific date and time.

Registration for summer placement will begin Nov. 1.

What's What

For those Penn students who have not discovered yet that the University has switched locations, in the following revised glossary is provided.

- Armenian Club-open to all students, it serves to promote Armenian culture and interest in Armenian issues.
- Chinese Students Association-open membership; seeks to promote the Chinese culture and to facilitate cultural exchange between Penn students and Chinese students.
- German Club-open to students interested in German culture and language.
- Japanese Student Association-open to students interested in Japanese culture and language.
- Korean Student Association-open to students interested in Korean culture and language.
- Italian Student Association-open to students interested in Italian culture and language.
- Russian House-Informal association; seeks to promote Russian culture and language.

Ethnicities

L.A. provides a rich network for foreign students to overcome language barriers. This network includes a variety of services, such as peer counseling, study groups, and language laboratories. One of the most popular services is the International Student Office, which provides a range of support services to foreign students, including legal assistance, cultural orientation, and academic advising.

Additionally, the University sponsors various cultural events throughout the year, such as concerts, lectures, and film screenings. These events are open to all students and provide opportunities to learn about different cultures and traditions.

Politics

In the world of politics, students are encouraged to become involved in the process. There are numerous opportunities to participate, such as joining student organizations, running for student government positions, or even running for political office. Students are also encouraged to vote in local, state, and national elections.

Science

In the field of science, students are encouraged to explore new ideas and make new discoveries. There are numerous opportunities to participate, such as joining research groups, attending conferences, or even publishing papers.

Sports

In the world of sports, students are encouraged to participate in various activities, such as joining a team, attending games, or even playing a sport on their own. There are numerous opportunities to participate, such as joining a sport club, attending a sporting event, or even playing a sport on their own.

Talent

In the world of talent, students are encouraged to develop their skills and pursue their passions. There are numerous opportunities to participate, such as joining a music group, attending a concert, or even performing in a show or a production.

Voters

In the world of voting, students are encouraged to participate in the democratic process. There are numerous opportunities to participate, such as registering to vote, attending a political event, or even running for political office.
Ivy Athletic Directors Give Support to ‘Czar’ Mestres

By ROBIN LIPPET

The Ivy Athletic Directors Committee has responded to a request from President Mestres to increase the salary of athletic director Ann Sage. "It's a healthy decision," said Director of Athletics Mr. H. M. Delaney. "And it would help to make the sport more competitive." The committee also expressed support for the request of the presidents of Columbia's Kenneth Greenberg to hire a new athletic director who is interested in a "winning" philosophy. "It's crucial that we maintain the proper level of competitiveness," said Greenberg. "Our president is not in favor of anything that might happen to the athletic program at Columbia." The athletic directors met in Philadelphia on October 10 to discuss the issue.

Quaker Stickwomen Turn on Fawcett Against Dragons in 'Mystery' Contest

By HOWIE KELRICK

Quaker goalkeeper Judy Fawcett's first collegiate match turned into a complete disaster against the University of Pennsylvania today. "It's a bad day for everyone," said Fawcett, who had 11 saves in a 3-0 loss. "But it's also a learning experience."

The Quakers were down 1-0 at halftime, and Fawcett had made a save on a penalty kick to keep the game close. But in the second half, Fawcett's errors led to three goals for the Dragons. "The defense was solid, but Fawcett had a bad day," said coach Ann Sage. "I'm disappointed, but I'm not going to blame her." Fawcett's errors included a save on a penalty kick, a stop on a shot by a Dragons player, and a failed clearance of a free kick.

Fawcett's mistakes were costly, as the Dragons scored three goals on three shots after halftime. "We don't have any excuses," said Sage. "We have to play better." The Quakers' next game is against the University of Delaware, who are also in the 'Mystery' Contest.

Women's Net Squad Faces Drexel Today

By DREW GREENWALD

The Penn women's net team (4-1) will face Drexel University (0-6) in a crucial match today. "It's a big game," said coach Mary Sineway. "We need to win to stay in the hunt." Drexel is currently ranked #12 in the nation, while Penn is #6.

The Quakers have a strong offense, with 11 goals in their last two matches. "We're playing well," said Sineway. "But we need to be a bit more consistent." Drexel has a strong defense, with only one goal allowed in their last two matches. "We need to be more disciplined," said Sineway. "We can't afford to make mistakes."