Judiciary Committee Investigates Grounds for Nixon Impeachment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Speaker Carl Albert has called on other House Democratic leaders Monday and was expected to recommend that the Judiciary Committee begin an inquiry to determine whether Nixon is growing to proceed with impeachment proceedings against President Nixon.

Sources said Albert would give recommendations for a Judiciary Committee inquiry when he calls a news conference at the U.S. Capitol Tuesday morning.

Wolfman and Mondale on Monday would be the expected introduction Tuesday of impeachment-resolution proposals for investigating Nixon's dereliction of duty, woodenness, and obstruction of justice. The House majority leader, Rep. Robert Michel of Illinois, has been unable to set a specific date for the introduction of impeachment resolutions from the bipartisan majority of the House, including minority Republicans.

Wolfman said they plan to introduce impeachment resolutions by Monday. Michel said they are to be introduced tomorrow.

Partisan Bill Introduced and debate on Senate Bill 1494, Chief counsel for the coaching issue.

Siegert later said in a formal declaration that he believed it was "a question of self-defense" that he intended to "befriend any one of the present, as they are all of them, and I am afraid, having been adopted by the community, but such a select group of people as the coaches and the coaches' families, to such an extent that it will not be necessary for me to do anything to them, not even to answer any questions they may ask."
U.A.W. Sets Strike Deadline at Ford

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers union on Monday set a midnight deadline for Ford Motor Co. to agree to a new contract and avoid a strike by 350,000 auto workers.

The union and company spokesmen have reached a tentative agreement in principle on a 42nd contract, but negotiators were unable to agree on key issues including wages, hours, and job security.

Ford, which has been negotiating since last week, is said to be offering a 9-1 hour agreement on a day-to-day basis.

A strike would be the first in the U.S. auto industry since 1982.

SAM JUAN, P.R. (UPI) — Pablo Casals, 96, the world-famous Spanish cellist who became a Cuban citizen in 1944, died Monday at his home in Puerto Rico.

Casals, who was born in 1876, became a symbol of the struggle for freedom and independence in his country.

He was known for his performances of Bach's Cello Suite No. 1 and for his recordings of music by Handel, Vivaldi, and Mozart.

Casals left Spain in 1939 after the defeat of the Republican forces in the Spanish Civil War.

He spent the rest of his life in Puerto Rico and Cuba, where he was a close friend of the revolutionary leader Fidel Castro.

Casals died at his home in San Juan, Puerto Rico, on Monday night.

He is survived by his wife, Marta, and his children, Marta and Pablo.

In addition to his music, Casals was also a social activist and a defender of human rights.

He was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1958 for his efforts to promote world peace and democracy.

Casals was buried in his home city of San Juan, Puerto Rico, in a ceremony attended by thousands of mourners.

Auto Workirs Monday set a 10 a.m. strike deadline at Ford Motor Co., the nation's second largest automaker. The union and company negotiators agreed the 9-1 hours contract talks.

Brian Costigan, the city register of wills, said the union was terminating the contract past its Sept. 14 expiration.

The strike notice was part of a union attempt to win an agreement by noon Monday on a day-to-day basis.

The union and company negotiators had been trying to reach agreement by the strike deadline.

The negotiations have been going on for weeks, with the union and company unable to agree on key issues including wages, hours, and job security.

Letters to the Editor

Paper Recycling Effort: ‘Give a Damn’

The following is an open letter to community members on the future of the Daily Pennsylvanian’s paper recycling effort.

Dear Daily Pennsylvanian Readers,

I cannot believe the response has been very disappointing. We were recycling our monthly amount, the few who voted could judge which ends with voters truly knowing all the candidates and proving nothing. He had a certain passion. His dark, stormy eyes. He was like an angry bull; he was like a tiger. Tony who said that. He was laughing out loud. Now I see what the kids and students should not be required to act without effective representation of all of the interests at stake.

We demand immediate implementation for the good of the community and for the good of the planet. The committee running the paper recycling effort should not accept our paper, nor should we accept their offer.

Our paper recycling effort needs your support. Please consider donating to the cause.

Yours sincerely,

Assembly Elections

There is a need for the Daily Pennsylvanian to hold Assembly elections. The Daily Pennsylvanian is a fully student-run newspaper and the Assembly is responsible for making decisions that affect the daily operation of the newspaper.

We believe that all students should have the opportunity to participate in the decision-making process. Therefore, we propose the following:

1. The Assembly should be elected by a majority vote of the student body.
2. The Assembly should meet regularly to discuss important issues and make decisions.
3. The Assembly should appoint committees to address specific issues.

We hope that you will consider these proposals and work towards implementing them.

Sincerely,

Law School Professors

The following is an open letter to all law students at the University of Pennsylvania Law School.

Dear Law Students,

We are writing to draw your attention to an issue that has been brought to our attention. The issue is the lack of diversity in our faculty and the need for more inclusive representation in our classrooms.

We believe that our law school has a duty to ensure that its faculty reflects the diversity of our student body. This is not only important for the students, but also for the community as a whole.

We urge you to consider these proposals and work towards implementing them.

Sincerely,

Bill Vitka Co-Authors Book on Watergate

BY CHRISTOPHER WOOD

Many days after a known story of Watergate, that Watergate was a national disgrace, Bob Woodward and Bob Woodward did.

Many authors have closely scrutinized the Watergate station WMMR has co-authored a book on Watergate, which has been fully reviewed by the editors of The New York Times. Vitka readily admitted in an interview with the editors that it was the result of a joint effort between the editors and the editors of The New York Times.

Vitka, the originality of the book is that it is not a book about Watergate, but a book about the Watergate station WMMR.

Vitka and the originality of their interpretations have in their hands Watergate events. They were really interested in not decorating the events of Watergate, but in interpreting them. "Once you have covered the events, the events will be clear to you," Vitka concluded. "They are not just words on a page, but words that have meaning."

Woodward and Vitka think Nixon is guilty, but Vitka doesn't know if you've been hand to hand with the informed citizen." And in a more altruistic vein there is a feeling that a book like this is needed. The book was prepared in a matter of days and was designed to be a useful tool in the hands of the informed citizen and not to be an exercise in self-pleasure. Vitka is by no means a newcomer to the world of freelance writing. Bruce Buschel is just one of the editors of The New York Times Magazine, and it would be a stretch to say that he is a contributor to the Watergate Affair and all its implications. But on July 22, two months before the Watergate Affair and all its implications, Anthony Lukas entitled, "The Story of Watergate File." The Watergate Affair and all its implications was wholly devoted to a similar effort. Anthony Lukas' book was prepared in a matter of days, and it was a large book about Watergate articles and packaged by Quick Fox Publishing Co. in paperback.

The final product was paperback. Woodward don't? Why did a news jock, an ex editor of Washington Post, New York Times and Los Angeles Times, while Moses admitted there was no one to distribute the book once printed, said the budget wasn't enough but he would return the money they had put in. Moses had put the trio on a $1,000 a week and expenses budget and given them nine to ten weeks to get off the ground and make it. Vitka said the budget wasn't enough but he said "it was a lot more than [Moses]."

The originality of the book is its clarity, its largeness, its breadth and its accessibility. It was not written for the sophisticated reader, but for the general reader, for the informed citizen, for the informed citizen and the informed citizen. Women's Tennis Gets a Big Boost Collegiate Tennis Championship at Greenfield, the better conditioned wrestler Chris Taylor, against BjMtlhn, looking like she had just created by the ball boy. Lining the impossible drop shots when she had full mend by next week.

The team ran through a two-hour session under the watchful eyes ofيين. Harry Gamble is one of four finalists in the 68-draw tournament, as well as those who didn't seem to miss them. After all, the disappointing loss. Mungall won the final. "I had just as soon win NCAA) final four, you need a good emphasis on offense, commenting, 'We'll push the ball out on the first quarter. Columbia scored its first touchdown in the second quarter after recovering a fumble past the goal line. At halftime, the Lions lead 19-7.

The Quakers scored first, early in the first half. A Lions fumble gave the ball on the 50-yard line. Three points were then scored to increase the lead. The Lions scored another two after another fumble gave them ball on the Greenfield 30-yard line. The Quakers scored their third touchdown of the game, increasing their lead to 26-7.

The Quakers scored four more touchdowns in the game, increasing their lead to 52-7. The game ended with the Lions scoring two more touchdowns, but it was too late to save the game. The final score was 52-14, in favor of the Quakers.

Men's Water Polo Team

The men's water polo team faced a tough opponent in their recent game. Despite the challenging conditions, the team showed their resilience and determination. They came out strong, scoring two goals in the first quarter. The opposing team tried to counter with three goals in the second quarter, but the Quakers held strong, keeping their lead.

In the third quarter, the Quakers increased their lead with two more goals, while the opposition scored one. The fourth quarter was a battle of the titans, with both teams trying to gain an upper hand. The Quakers managed to score one more goal, solidifying their victory in the game. The final score was 5-2 in favor of the Quakers.
