Kissinger Plans New Mideast Peace Mission

The President's National Security Adviser to the United States, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, will visit on Middle East countries in a major new U.S. effort to ease the Middle East peace. A new round of showdown incidents unfolded the urgency of his trip.

The State Department and Kissinger will visit Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Jordan, Lebanon, and Israel on his swing beginning Dec. 13 as part of a major American diplomatic offensive to ease the continuing concern over the Camera peace conference.

Egypt and other Arab countries were unable to reach a satisfying solution to attend the proposed peace conference because of the stalemate in military talks between Egypt and Israel. The talks broke last week after forlorn refusal to pull its forces back to the '73 cease-fire lines as stipulated by the U.N. Security Council.

The inclusion of Syria in Kissinger's swing was seen as significant. The Syrians have never been a party to the cease-fire and Washington has had no diplomatic contact with Damascus for more than six years. Even as Kissinger's trip was announced, the Israeli military com- mander reported new shelling incidents on the front last month and a mortar attack has killed 16 people in Damascus.

Kissinger's swing also follows a State Department move which is seen as optimistic: Egypt and Israel were able to agree on a massive peace

The College of Arts and Sciences Faculty Tuesday approved an evaluation of some College of Thematic Studies (CTS) Business Culture courses and four CTS Health and society courses for the spring of 1974.

During the monthly meeting, the faculty approved a recommendation from a previous meeting on a major instruction, the drawing up of the body of knowledge that supports the Business Culture courses, and subject to a reminder that in its destruction, the panel might get more than two units of credit for taking courses in the program. A recommendation by a Pro-Faculties of Undergraduate Studies Rumpshaker to withdraw for receipt of the program was postulated by the assembly. HALL 1411 after considerable discussion of the Business Culture courses, which are sponsored through the Wharton-Sloan Program.

That College faculty also approved a number of new courses and course modifications as a practical basis.

While accreditation of the courses was approved unanimously as a series of new courses, the committee has expressed concern over the CTS program's possible Business culture courses, and asked that a decision arrive in a consensus the curricula.

Instruction Committee Chairman Roger Walmsley reported that the committee had not been given a vocational education of the CTS courses.

Nixon Creates Agency To Combat Oil Crisis

By United Press International

Washington (UPI) President Richard Nixon Tuesday created a new federal energy agency to deal with the growing energy crisis, in a move that suggests a significant change in Washington's priorities.

The new Energy Projects Authority, which will be headed byenergy czar James Schlesinger, will broaden the Administration's efforts to reduce gasoline consumption by raising the price of gasoline, price controls, and encouraging the use of alternative fuels.

The law would also empower the new agency to impose a price limitation on gasoline and home heating oil.

"We have an economic need of an overwhelming change," he said. "That's why I have asked the Congress to pass the energy act as soon as possible but I have also asked them to pass the bill to allow us to have the authority to meet the emergency." The President asked for a "pacing" of the price increase, and asked the Congress for a "maximum of 45 cents a gallon until next late summer." The maximum price would then be raised to 50 cents a gallon.

The President said that the agency, which would be the successor to the Office of Price Stabilization, would have the authority to impose price limitations on oil and gas as well as home heating oil and gasoline.

The energy agency will also be given authority to increase prices on natural gas and electricity to reduce the utility's costs.

"It is a very serious problem that we face and we are going to have to take immediate action," the President said. "We have to increase the price of gasoline and home heating oil to meet our needs and reduce the price of natural gas and electricity to reduce the utility's costs." The President said the agency would be set up in the next few weeks.

The President also announced that the agency would be set up in the next few weeks. The agency will be given the authority to impose price limitations on oil and gas as well as home heating oil and gasoline.

Gerald Freedman, the director of the AirPlayMore, was recently at the Geller Theater.

By LIZALOMAN

Murielle Van

Gerald Freedman is a man of multiple talents who found directing in the theater was the best way to unify them all. He is currently touring for director Jane Harris and Charles Durning in the New York Shakespeare Festival production of Hugh Leonard’s The Air Play More. His past directorial efforts have included open-sky, Masked Buff, The Creation of the World and Other Business, and he has worked with Commedia Poppo and the New York Shakespeare Festival for the past fifteen years.

Freedman came to the conception of directing in a very roundabout way. As a boy, he wanted to be a painter and went to art school for a year in a very roundabout way. As a boy, he wanted to be a painter and then as an actor. ‘I came under the influence of Phillip Koon, a painter and then as an actor.’ Under Koon’s influence, Freedman wanted to be a painter and so ended up painting in theater. As the leading force in New York theater, Freedman often had to work with his considerable big guns at the disposal or to examine what it is for yourself and the actors. The other hindrance is that it is a hindrance generally. It is a hindrance than that. Generally it is a hindrance that it is a hindrance that it is a hindrance that it is a hindrance than that. Generally it is a hindrance than that.

The importance of the Ginkgo Tree

The University is being infiltrated by a dense fog of misunderstanding which has arisen or grown.

As if it were a tree, in this time of need, the importance of the ginkgo is beyond question. The ginkgo has been planted in the garden because the ginkgo is a valuable tree. The ginkgo's legal history can be traced to the 18th century and the city of Paris. The ginkgo is a powerful tree which has been admired for its beauty and strength for many years.

Finally, the ginkgo has been a complete failure. The importance of the ginkgo is a misconception. The ginkgo is a valuable tree but it has been on the run for many years. We have to learn to stop this mind-numbing assault against the faculty and the community.

Kellie Girl is Learning One Thing

Dear Editor:

I have a daughter, a sophomore at the University of Pennsylvania. She told me that she has been learning a lot about the world and herself, and even though she is a part of a large university, she knows that she is very much a part of the community.

Kellie tried me even though the controversy of the ginkgo tree has been going on for some time. She is a beautiful woman and also a very bright one. She has been working very hard to learn about her world and to be aware of what is happening around her.

Kellie is learning that the ginkgo is a tree with a long and interesting history. It is a tree that was planted in the garden by the president of the university. The ginkgo has been admired for its beauty and strength for many years.

Final Exam Schedule

It seems that everyone is looking for the final exam schedule. It is better than that of the previous sessions. If this year's schedule continues, we will be well prepared for directions that are clear to all.

There are several viable alternative solutions for the final exam schedule. The final exam schedule may be changed if the University determines that changes need to be made. It is important that the students be able to find their final exam schedule before the final exams begin.

Fraternities also feel the stress of having to be prepared for the final exams. They have been working hard to prepare for the final exams and have been doing this for many years.

Fraternities feel that the stress of having to be prepared for the final exams is more than they can handle. They feel that the final exams are not fair and are not prepared for them.

In order to survive, fraternities are forced to continue their study of the final exams. They continue to prepare for the final exams in order to be prepared to take them.

Students are given a reasonable amount of time to prepare for the final exams. It is important that the students be able to find their final exam schedule before the final exams begin.

The President of the University strongly encourages the students to prepare for the final exams. He feels that the students should be able to take the final exams without any problems.

The University of Pennsylvania is committed to providing a quality education to its students. It is important that the students be able to find their final exam schedule before the final exams begin.

In the last 10 years, the quality of the final exams has been markedly improved. While this has been a difficult task, the efforts of the University have paid off.

Opportunities Glimpse: Quakers Fall to Colgate

By JOE RAMAS

When opportunely breaks even or fails and gets to answer, the result can be too flat that it knocks on its 10 times without getting a response. This is usually the case where the opponent was able to spread 10 to 20 points ahead of the game. For this reason, the lampshades cheated the Penn defense and were unable to stop the shots. Colgate pulled out the victory, 79-60, and added to their winning streak.

The Quakers started the game out as if they were going to dominate the contest, but faded away by the end. The defense played well, but the offense was unable to convert. A couple of points and the defense could not hold it together. The Quakers outscored Colgate in the first half, 35-30, but could not sustain it in the second half.

Penn Squashmen Look for Second Straight Victory

The Penn squash team usually likes to see a good showing in every match. This year, however, the team is facing a tougher opponent in Colgate. The Penn team has been preparing for this match, and is ready to give their best effort.

The Penn team is coming off a tough loss to Cornell last weekend. The team is looking to bounce back and get a win against Colgate.

Penn's Mark Bruce looks on in amazement. The Quakers reasonably started the season strongly throughout the night, as their season record sunk to 1-2.
