Ford Confirmed as VP; Vows 'Loyalty' to Nixon

Byassic Press International
WASHINGTON – President Nixon announced Thursday that Gerald R. Ford, the House of Representatives' minority leader, would succeed him as vice president.

Chief Justice Warren Burger administered the oath of office to Mr. Ford as President Nixon looked on. Mr. Ford is the first House minority leader to serve in the office of vice president.

Mr. Ford, a Republican, was sworn in as the 40th vice president of the United States in ceremonies in the House of Representatives.

In his inaugural address, Mr. Ford said he would do all he could to ensure that the House would be able to do its work. He also noted that he would do all he could to ensure that the House would be able to do its work.

This is a single page of text from The Daily Pennsylvania, a student newspaper from The Pennsylvania State University. The page includes a variety of content such as editorials, letters to the editor, and some other articles. Some of the topics discussed in the text include police brutality, student activism, and social issues. The text is rich with quotes and references to other sources, indicating a lively and engaged student community. The newspaper seems to reflect the concerns and perspectives of its readers, likely depicting a snapshot of the social and political climate of the time.
White House Agrees To Turn Over Tape

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Top White House officials halted Friday a decision to turn over to the Senate the complete tape recording involving Judge Lee Gagliardi, who will preside at the trial. President Nixon had told the Senate that he would provide the complete tape recording involving Judge Gagliardi, who will preside at the trial.

The agreement was reached after Judge Lee Gagliardi, who will preside at the trial, rejected as "not sufficient" a partial transcript he had at the trial, rejected as "not sufficient" a partial transcript he had been given at those times. There will be a $2.00 charge per person. For more information call 378-8808.
