Robbyn said they do not foresee any inherent problems with these plans. She said that "we have invested ultimate powers in concurrency and the competitive system," he noted, "the competitive system" will not be a substitute for fairness in the allocation of resources.

"In a competitive system, people have to work together to achieve their goals," said Romney. "We have to be able to work together to achieve our goals, and we have to be able to share the results of our efforts with others."

Romney suggested that, while "we need stronger political parties," the competition among them will "yield a balance of power that will protect all of us."

SCUE Course Evaluations Useful Despite Faculty Criticism

Last Thursday's Daily Pennslamian offered a glowing article which states the usefulness of the SCUE course evaluations. I would like to argue that these evaluations are not useful.

Our primary aim is to provide courses of information in all various fields of study. We are not in the business of education. We sell what we produce. To put it another way, we provide an inventory of what we have. It is not my purpose to argue the merits of any of the courses. I am concerned that the evaluations are not accurate.

The evaluations are nothing more than a marketing device. They are not meant to be accurate. The purpose of these evaluations
is to give students some idea of what courses are like. If students are interested in a course, they can enroll in it. If they are not, they can avoid it.

Striking Miners Clash With Safety Crews

Coal officials said the strike was 100 per cent effective.

The coal miners amounted a 30 to 50 per cent boost. The state-owned Coal Board offered 12.9 per cent.

Tracks Rolling Again After 12-Day Strike

Hundreds of independent and company trucks raced across the nation's highways Monday spending hard-earnedance to carry coals and virtually ending the 12-day nationwide strike.

The back-to-work movement was accompanied by statements from various industries announcing the resumption of plants shut by the walkout and the normalcy of plans to close others.

Britain's 240,000 coal miners, spending a last minute appeal by Heath and the advice of their own leaders, launched an indefinite national strike at midnight Saturday night. Coal Board officials said the strike was 100 per cent effective.

Griddlers, Bucola, Pinto, Cortina Due To Return for 1974 Football Season

Bucola's football coach Harry Cassady confirmed Monday reports that Bob Bucola and Tom Pinto — both originally scheduled to graduate in May—will play for the Quakers in 1974.

The senior was traded yesterday, while the junior sought a waiver from the Ivy League.

Pinto needed a special permission to play next year as a result of the non-exempt status of a transfer student from Swarthmore.

Bucola, like Pinto, will probably graduate in December of 1974, was listed as a sophomore prior to this season. He indicated his desire to play another year at early date, however.

"I would like to come back to school and play maybe the next two or three years," Bucola said. "I'm only a matter of two years away from reaching the NFL limits, so I may need to make the decision because I want to play football." Cassady added that Bucola had always been the first to do two years of a transfer, but he was "a very big one, too."

"They're a very good team; and a very big one, too." The Tigers' skipper Bob Weinhauer yesterday.

"We're definitely not 24 points better than them," he said. "We've followed the program exactly the same way they have."
