Drexel Hosts Folk Singers

Clancy Bros., Louis Killen

By JEFF KRIELISH

The Clancy Brothers and Louis Killen are a famous folk and traditional music duo that has been Charmed by War?

"As we are the only species with a choice between extinction and existence," she said, "it is possible to develop new perspectives and ways to think about our present as a past event in history, it depicts two Civil War students who are in a romantic relationship."

"Our present is our past," she said. "It's not a straightforward path, but rather it leads us to reflect on our history and how it has shaped our present."

"The characters are not always for certain," she continued. "Their motivations are complex, and their actions are driven by emotions such as love, hate, and fear."

"We can learn about history by studying these characters," she said. "Through their actions, we can gain a better understanding of our own society and its complexities."

"The Hunter," directed by Robert Fuller, is the focus of the festival's final night. The film is based on the novel "The Hunter" by Donald Rayfield.

"The Hunter" opens tonight at 8:30 P.M. in the Old Cafeteria. Admission is free.

Letters to the Editor

Objections Raised to Campus Crusade Recruitment Methods

I am writing this as an open letter to the president of Penn State. As a member of the Penn State student body, I am not entirely opposed to this organization's activities and their members. I believe that they have an important role in the student body's spiritual development. However, I object to their methods of recruitment and their use of the student's name without their consent.

In my last letter, I expressed my concern about the use of my name in a pamphlet distributed by the organization. I informed them of my objections and asked that my name be removed from any future materials. However, I have received no response from them.

I believe that the use of the student's name without their consent is a violation of their rights and a breach of privacy. It is not appropriate for the organization to use the student's name in their materials without their permission.

I urge the organization to respect the student's privacy and to cease using their name without their consent. I also urge them to consider alternative methods of recruitment that are more respectful of the student's rights.

Sincerely,
[Your Name]

A Proposal for ISA

By L.L. Jayaraman

The International Students Association has elected to offer financial aid to students in need, and we believe that this initiative will bring about a significant change in the lives of many students. However, the financial aid offered by ISA has been limited and insufficient. We believe that the organization should increase its efforts and offer more substantial financial aid to students in need.

We propose the following changes to the current financial aid program of ISA:

1. Increase the amount of financial aid offered to students in need. This will help to ensure that more students are able to access the financial assistance they need to continue their studies.

2. Implement a more comprehensive financial aid program that takes into account the unique needs of international students. This will help to ensure that students are able to access the financial assistance they need to succeed in their studies.

3. Work with other organizations and institutions to provide additional financial aid to students in need. This will help to ensure that more students are able to access the financial assistance they need to continue their studies.

We believe that these changes will help to transform the lives of many international students and improve their overall experience at Penn State.

Sincerely,
[Your Name]
RARE BOOK

Library services never cease, as demonstrated in the case of the rare book collection which was set up in the Library's card cataloguing the books. When the cataloguing was completed in 1966, the card catalogue listing was done very simply; some of those original, inadequate cards are still in the collection. The rare book collection is now grand enough to be housed in the Rare Book Room in the basement of the library.

The collection includes about 98 of the 300 call number plays of Spain's greatest transсти, Lope de Vega. Copies of this collection have been made available to other libraries.

Career Day

Jim Riley, chairman of the Activities Council's nominations and elections committee, was quoted as saying, "But we have a lot to do just to catalogue." Now that the collection is complete, a student might permanently mar his card catalogue if he were not careful.

A very highly regarded collection is the Theater Dinner Assembly.

A role model for the Assembly was the group of students who have previously appeared in the Annual Report of the Student Assembly. The committee responsible recommended that the Assembly's proposed budget be cut from $8437 to $3887.

The budget provides funds for nominations and elections committee, the Work groups, and the Student Assembly. It also allocates money for the review of students for the Assembly. The Assembly, a student-run organization, meets once a week to discuss issues of importance to students.

Van Pelt College House

Is Accepting Applications For 1974-1975

Van Pelt College House is a residential community of faculty, graduate students, and 1st and 2nd year undergraduates located in Low Rise South. Its purpose is to enrich the students' educational experience at Penn by facilitating informal interactions between students and faculty, by fostering intellectual curiosity and inquiry, and by creating a diverse community of people of differing backgrounds, talents, and interests who are willing to learn from one another and by establishing a relaxed and stimulating atmosphere in which to live.

Regular house activities include:
1. A Wednesday afternoon potluck dinner for students and the faculty of a non-resident faculty member.
2. Saturday night shopping or dinner sessions in Room 303 on a wide range of topics (e.g. the Kabouter comet, experiments with brain-damaged patients, the Chinese military coup, Sunday brunches prepared by groups of students).
3. A variety of informal seminars (which have in the past included poetry, chess club, a volley ball group, computer game simulation, etc).
4. A guest suite, where visiting scholars, cultural figures and assorted interesting characters are offered a chance to live temporarily as participants in the life of the House. House facilities include a grand piano, a music practice room, a pottery studio, a television lounge, a lounge with computer facilities for students.
5. The House residents include four faculty members: Richard Solomon, Master (Physics), Justin Anderson (Psychology); Alan Kors (History), and Mark Adams (History and Sociology of Science). The Project Administrator is Micky Neiditch (History, Assistant to the Provost). The seven resident graduate fellows are drawn from a variety of fields. Staff members are always available for conversation, academic help, and counseling. The House residents are bedfellows of eight students and four staff members, which averts any possible conflict of interest. The House offers a comfortable and well-equipped dormitory room to all students; most students choose to live in the house.

Applications for Residential Programs must be completed and returned by March 1.

Kissinger To Meet Syrian President

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived in Syria from London Tuesday with the hope of getting President Hafez Assad to take the next step toward Middle East peace talks with Israel.

Only hours before Kissinger's plane touched down at 9:15 P.M. (0:15 P.M. EET), Assad received a special message from the Soviet Communist Party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Syrian news agency said.

Assad later met the Egyptian and Iraqi ambassadors, Mahmoud Gharib and Gamal Khalil, respectively, the Syrian news agency said.

The agency did not disclose the contents of Brezhnev's letter.

British security was in force as the U.S. Secretary of State landed in cold, windy weather to be met by Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halem Khaddam.

Kissinger's scheduled talks with Assad are expected to determine whether the two countries can resume direct talks.

Kissinger's visit Tuesday to Jordan, where he met with King Hussein and Jordanian Prime Minister Suleiman Naffah, was delayed until Thursday because of the King's illness.

Kissinger arrived in London Monday for a meeting with President Zerwekh of Iraq. Kissinger's visit was intended to improve his credibility in the region.

Kissinger's trip to the Middle East is the next step toward Middle East peace talks.

End of Energy Crisis

Mansfield Disputes End of Energy Crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Senate Energy and Power Committee Chairman E. Z. Mansfield sharply disagreed Tuesday with President Nixon's assertion that the energy crisis has passed, and argued that the President's economic policies were responsible.

"You cannot just wave a magic wand and expect problems to go away," he said about the gas shortage this spring. "There is no magic wand."

"I was talking about the potential of getting the three major oil companies to agree to ration their gasoline," he continued.

Playoff Confusion Remains As Leemen Trek to Princeton

BOB MARKS

If there’s anything for sure this year in the ECAC hockey world, it’s that there’s a lot more confusion than usual. As a result, punters have little chance of correctly predicting the outcome of any particular game or conference race. However, it is possible to make a few guesses about the future, based on the past.

For one, the Northeast Conference is likely to be the strongest of the four major conferences. The conference has produced the most Division I teams in hockey history, and its teams have a proven track record of success at the highest levels of competition.

The East Coast Conference looks like it will be a close race between the top three teams. The Second Tier Conference and the Great Lakes Conference have some potential, but they are not quite up to the standard of the other two.

In the end, it seems that the ECAC is likely to be the most competitive conference this year. It will be interesting to see how the season unfolds, and who emerges as the conference champion.
