Bad Transmitter Forces Closing Of WVPN-AM

By STEVE STECKLOW

The Judiciary is presently deciding a controversy between the Student Senate and Kite and Key, a social fraternity.

Seely was able to lay the groundwork for a new executive board after the old one had resigned. The old officers have been renewed and the new slate is expected to take office next week.

Wharton Lifts Schutte From Recruiting Post

By MARY LARDY

and MARTIN SEGEL

After being forced to close the Wharton recruiting program, Assistant Dean Donald Schutte said it has been removed from that position. Wharton Dean Daniel Carroll said the position of Assistant Dean is strictly a recruiting position.

The Wharton recruiting program, initiated to attract more highly qualified and established students, and to enhance the image of Wharton and the University as a whole, will be held is expected before the end of the semester. "Hopefully, everything will be okay by next September," Seely said.

WVPN Technical Director Seth Kehl said the transmitter has been malfunctioning since last summer. "Hopefully, everything will be okay by next September," Seely said. WVPN has been broadcasting on FM, however, and is presently being brought to the Undergraduate Assembly and the Dean of Students Office for a report by Tuesday evening. WVPN is still broadcasting on FM, however, and is presently being brought to the Undergraduate Assembly and the Dean of Students Office for a report by Tuesday evening.

The Undergraduate Assembly will vote on a motion to establish a work group to investigate the status of the station. Assembly Vice-Chairman Ira Ross said the Assembly might have to "condemn all WVPN funds" if the station is not set up on an overview board, not a consensus board. "I don't know what the other options are," he said. "Hopefully, everything will be okay by next September," Seely said.

Quad Rocks Out With 'Two-Step'

Michael Mazzucco and Pieter Frey, after everything, drop down to the Lower Quad because the goal is going to be pick up. With five groups including leadaints and brother, and with a sound system courtesy of Tech Riffs that Quad Rocks coordinator Dan Socolof says will be "phenomenal," things should be raucous in the area. The group is scheduled to play this weekend.

"The Quad is a hard to define style," said Frey. "The groups are just progressively more unique to the Lower Quad." The groups are scheduled to play for the Lower Quad Rock Festival.

As a joint concert tonight at 8:30 P.M. in the Student Union, the Annenberg Center presents "Films b) anti-Passion," composed play "Seven Meditations on Political Imagination," Julian Beck, is "to have people meditate on their image through their versions of obscure com-

University Must Make Commitment to Strengthen Student Health

As a student member of the College Personnel Review Committee, I would like to take this opportunity to write in reaction to Lawrence Halprin's article in the "Political Minded" section of the Daily Pennsylvanian. We were present as a part of the formal hearing, and the decision made by the College Personnel Review Committee was final. In our opinion, the decision was not fair, and it is our responsibility to express our shock and disappointment regarding the decision. The adherence to a certain standard is important, yet the methods that resulted in the decision were not satisfactory. We are not saying that the University is always right; however, the procedures that were followed did not provide a fair and just process for the individual. The University administration is responsible for the result, yet the students involved in the process are the ones who are affected. We believe that the University should make a commitment to strengthen Student Health, and we urge the administration to consider our concerns.

Professor's Tenure Denial an Important Lesson

I am writing in reaction to the article "The Vegetable in the Classroom" by Myrtle Stedlund. The article discusses the University's decision to deny tenure to Dr. Murl Barker, who has been accused of making racially insensitive comments. The University administration's decision was based on Dr. Barker's actions, not on the content of his comments. In my opinion, the decision was a mistake. The University should have considered the context in which Dr. Barker's comments were made and the intent behind them. The University administration's decision was a significant loss for the University, as it has inculcated in them a sense of obliviousness to the obvious.

Student Health: A Necessary Commitment

I would like to express my support for the University's commitment to Student Health. The University administration is responsible for creating an environment where students can focus on their studies and personal well-being. The University has a primary responsibility to its students, and it has a moral obligation to provide the necessary resources to support their health. We believe that the University should make a commitment to strengthen Student Health, and we urge the administration to consider our concerns.

Emerson Claims Lack of Budget
Did Not Hamper Black Advising

Emerson maintained Helms told her $9,000 to $10,000 had been spent by the time he left in April, but that a total of $25,000 would be spent by the end of the fiscal year in July. "If you were on faith," Emerson said, "then someone failed to ask for funds.

Helms said he was told by Emerson that he could obtain $10,000 or $20,000 in additional funds if the need arose.

Jones, who is also a former director of the University's advising programs, said the "normal level" of activity when he was director in 1972 included spending about $25,000 during the school-year and employing 20 to 40 tutors.

However, Helem added he was told by Emerson that he must get off the ground until too late in the year to be effective.

Jones said he was not "get off the ground" until too late in the year to be effective.

"...it is not relevant to me if tutoring has dropped this semester or not - I want to provide a system where any student can get whatever help he wants and where effectiveness is maximized."

Nixon Gains Subpoena Extension

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Richard Nixon Tuesday won a five-day delay, subject to a formal request from Michigan, the committee's Senior Chairman. Nixon's lawyers have been struggling to meet the Thursday morning deadline, and still have the president's review of the subpoena for tapes and documents for its impeachment hearings.

At the White House, chairman Rodino and Rep. Edward Hutchinson told reporters Tuesday that Nixon's lawyers had been hunting and that Nixon would have completed his response to the subpoena for tapes and documents by Thursday morning.

Although there was some grumbling among committee members, most seemed prepared to agree to what Rodino termed a reasonable request. No event, he said, had gathered Nixon's behalf to meet the Thursday morning deadline, and still have the president's review of the subpoena.

Top Seeds Advance in Virginia Slams Action

By SAROLD BOSCH

First-seeded Virginia smashed eight-time defending champ North Carolina yesterday in the second annual championship. The Cavaliers easily disposed of the Cards 6-1, 6-2 and 6-2 as they took their initial action, and to the surprise of no one became to straight-set victors.

Second-seeded Virginia also had some trouble in the early going against unbeaten Billie Jean King and her doubles partner, but seem to have pulled themselves together in the later games and finally sharpended their strokes in the final point of a second set tie-breaker to earn a 6-3, 7-6 win.

Patterson Wins Marathon as 76 Finish

By DANNY SHEER

Patterson is the first of 76 eventual finishers to cross the finish line in victory. His time was 2:26.0. Patterson, who took only 56 seconds to run the mile, set a goal of winning the Ivy title at the Palestra courts.

There are endless possibilities in track. I’ve learned that it’s not always about running the whole time. Sometimes you need to take a break and come back to it. It’s important to find your rhythm and stay consistent. In the end, it’s all about mindset. You have to believe in yourself and your abilities. Every step you take, you are making progress. Keep pushing forward and never give up. Believe in yourself and your dreams will come true.

Netmen Seek Tenth Straight Victory

By ANDY FLIEGERMAN

The match of the year is coming up this weekend. The University of Pennsylvania men’s tennis team is facing a tough opponent. The team has been performing exceptionally well so far this season. They are looking to continue their winning streak and secure their tenth straight victory.

One of the key players for the team is Andy Fliegerman. He has been consistently performing at a high level and has been crucial in helping the team achieve their victories. Andy is known for his speed and agility on the court, which makes him a force to be reckoned with.

During practice, Andy is seen working hard to perfect his shots and improve his overall game. He is always focused and determined to achieve the best results for his team. His dedication and passion for the game are apparent in his performance on the court.

Despite the pressure, Andy remains calm and composed. He believes in his team and trusts in their abilities. He is always ready to support his teammates and is a valuable asset to the team.

The upcoming match against the tough opponent will be a tough challenge for the team. However, Andy and his teammates are prepared and ready to give their best performance. They are confident in their abilities and are determined to achieve their goal of securing their tenth straight victory.
