Political Leaders Meet to Discuss 'Blueprint' for Energy Evaluation

BY MARK GOLDSTEIN
Pennsylvania Governor Milton Shapp, Senator Richard Schweiker, and Senator Hugh Scott testified Monday along with other political and industrial leaders in the first day of Pennsylvania's Energy Committee at University's Mandell Theater.

The committee will continue throughout this week and will culminate in a project which will be presented to President Ford on about September 1.

Project Independence, a program under discussion, would make Pennsylvania self-sufficient in energy.

Regional Energy Administrator Louis Lefkowicz told the committee the only way to ensure Pennsylvania's energy independence is through the development of coal and nuclear power facilities.

Shapp said the committee would look at the potential of wind, tidal, and solar energy sources.

The report the committee will produce will be used as a basis for negotiations with other states and the federal government.

Wyoming's Governor, Clifford Ekker, told the committee that Wyoming wants to be a part of any national effort to develop an energy policy.

Wyoming has 300 million tons of coal and has no natural gas resources.

Wyoming also has some of the most favorable conditions for nuclear energy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.

Wyoming has a long history of dependence on coal for its economy.

Wyoming is also interested in the prospect of using nuclear power to generate electricity.
Campus Events

Thursday, October 7, 1971

Today

- Balalaika Orchestra Rehearsal on Franklin Field, 7 p.m.
- Freib Astronomy & NASA Movies in the Harnwell House Theatre, 3:30 p.m.
- Fountain Hill Orchestra Rehearsal at Houston Hall Cafe, 8 p.m.
- Ivanian Dance Recital at the Harnwell House Theatre, 7:30 p.m.
- Music for Violins & Harpsichord at Houston Hall Cafe, 7 p.m.

Ongoing

- Penn Union Council Presents Tonight in the Harnwell House Cafe
- The Glass Eye Improvisational Theater by Firefly

Future

- Preparation of International Student Services in the Harnwell House, 8 p.m.
- International Student Services Open House in the Harnwell House, 8 p.m.

Posters: an exhibition and sale, Sept. 22 to Oct. 4

Penn Union Council Presents, Tonight, Tuesday, Oct. 1, 8 p.m.

THE GLASS EYE

Improvizational Theater Performed by Firefly

Houston Hall Cafe - Free

Classifieds

Apartments

- Large Modern Furnished House For Rent at Chestnut, price $160/month.
- Vacant Apartment Available in the University Club, price $400/month.

Help Wanted

- Nurse's Aide Wanted at the University Club.
- Nurse's Aide Wanted at the University Club.
- Nurse's Aide Wanted at the University Club.

Lost & Found

- Lost Typewriter in the Harnwell House.
- Lost Typewriter in the Harnwell House.
- Lost Typewriter in the Harnwell House.

Miscellaneous

- Services Offered at the University Club.
- Services Offered at the University Club.
- Services Offered at the University Club.

Meet

He isn't afraid to answer all your QUESTIONS

Wednesday

Locust between 36 & 37

2 Oct. 1974 11:00 A.M.

Paid for by Lewis for Governor Committee

Register To Vote Tomorrow

HARNWELL HOUSE

3820 LOCUST WALK

3-30-930

then meet your State Legislator

8:00 PM COFFEE SERVED

Syndicated by the Daily Pennsylvania State University; 1360 Locust Walk, University Park, PA 16802.
Public College Tries to Solve Urban Problems

President Harland Randolph wrote, "solutions for urban problems." Former problems.

AFL Employees, employees, and Urban Communications.

The college, created by an act of the legislature as a means to improve public education, but at a vital center of social and economic activity, Rand was quoted in the speech as an "open learning" experiment involving the first public college in the nation's perspective of how they will help to solve problems. The Graduate School offers programs and policies in the perspective of how they will help to solve problems.

The College, created by an act of the legislature as a means to improve public education, but at a vital center of social and economic activity, Rand was quoted in the speech as an "open learning" experiment involving the first public college in the nation's perspective of how they will help to solve problems. The Graduate School offers programs and policies in the perspective of how they will help to solve problems.

The project, designated the middle school, when they often face pressures, is still a rare opportunity for women to learn the intricacies of high finance. She said the project's "enrollment uncovered" concerns affecting its own high school experience.

The number of students on leave, students trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish.

The number of students on leave, students trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish.

The number of students on leave, students trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish.

The number of students on leave, students trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish.

The number of students on leave, students trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish. A student is trying to accomplish.
Monday Morning Quarterbacking

By Mitchell Berger and Peter Ginsberg

Because it costs so much to attend the University, most students have some notion that if they want to get their money's worth they should stay there all the time. But don't get off the first thing that fed up. Don't stay. If we all do the little things that work, we'll have a wonderful game of the millennium with about four hundred others.

There were the usual problems with experiments, but what we found out was that the players were more excited about the play than the coaches. What if we show them a little more love?

Last Friday, for example, we decided to go to the first football game of the millennium with about four hundred others.

If that wasn't bad enough, after running up the stairs and perpetuating an orchestra of sweat, it was more than a little difficult to get organized and Monday morning. Maybe that was the reason our interview on trial data was too much of a challenge. After the traffic jam heretofore opened up for longer paying the University's bills, are given such literal injury in the pile-up, entry to the stadium was blocked came up with a

I told them not to pay money to go to Monday Morning Quarterbacking.

Letters to the Editor

WXPN: Becoming Major Campus Issue

WXPN News Staff

For a year now, Peter Ginsberg has been complaining about the University's decision to go commercial. But he will no longer know which boys because he will no longer be a student here.

He explained, "But we

The Daily Pennsylvanian

A Year Ago Today

Amaturation or Bluff? By William C. Hennessey

A Year Ago Today: The Daily Pennsylvanian reported a new "black box" section on the University's academic program. This was significant because changes in academic programs can have a far-reaching effect on the way students perceive the University.

The article, which appeared on page 3, explained that the "black box" section would give students a better understanding of how their academic programs work. This is important because students need to be aware of the benefits and challenges of their academic programs in order to make informed decisions about their future.

The Daily Pennsylvanian staff was pleased with the article and the feedback it received. They believed that it would help students better understand the University's academic programs and make informed decisions about their future.

Letters to the Editor

WXPN: Becoming Major Campus Issue

WXPN News Staff

For a year now, Peter Ginsberg has been complaining about the University's decision to go commercial. But he will no longer know which boys because he will no longer be a student here.

He explained, "But we

The Daily Pennsylvanian

A Year Ago Today

Amaturation or Bluff? By William C. Hennessey

A Year Ago Today: The Daily Pennsylvanian reported a new "black box" section on the University's academic program. This was significant because changes in academic programs can have a far-reaching effect on the way students perceive the University.

The article, which appeared on page 3, explained that the "black box" section would give students a better understanding of how their academic programs work. This is important because students need to be aware of the benefits and challenges of their academic programs in order to make informed decisions about their future.

The Daily Pennsylvanian staff was pleased with the article and the feedback it received. They believed that it would help students better understand the University's academic programs and make informed decisions about their future.

Letters to the Editor

WXPN: Becoming Major Campus Issue

WXPN News Staff

For a year now, Peter Ginsberg has been complaining about the University's decision to go commercial. But he will no longer know which boys because he will no longer be a student here.

He explained, "But we

The Daily Pennsylvanian

A Year Ago Today

Amaturation or Bluff? By William C. Hennessey

A Year Ago Today: The Daily Pennsylvanian reported a new "black box" section on the University's academic program. This was significant because changes in academic programs can have a far-reaching effect on the way students perceive the University.

The article, which appeared on page 3, explained that the "black box" section would give students a better understanding of how their academic programs work. This is important because students need to be aware of the benefits and challenges of their academic programs in order to make informed decisions about their future.

The Daily Pennsylvanian staff was pleased with the article and the feedback it received. They believed that it would help students better understand the University's academic programs and make informed decisions about their future.

Letters to the Editor

WXPN: Becoming Major Campus Issue

WXPN News Staff

For a year now, Peter Ginsberg has been complaining about the University's decision to go commercial. But he will no longer know which boys because he will no longer be a student here.

He explained, "But we

The Daily Pennsylvanian

A Year Ago Today

Amaturation or Bluff? By William C. Hennessey

A Year Ago Today: The Daily Pennsylvanian reported a new "black box" section on the University's academic program. This was significant because changes in academic programs can have a far-reaching effect on the way students perceive the University.

The article, which appeared on page 3, explained that the "black box" section would give students a better understanding of how their academic programs work. This is important because students need to be aware of the benefits and challenges of their academic programs in order to make informed decisions about their future.

The Daily Pennsylvanian staff was pleased with the article and the feedback it received. They believed that it would help students better understand the University's academic programs and make informed decisions about their future.

Letters to the Editor

WXPN: Becoming Major Campus Issue

WXPN News Staff

For a year now, Peter Ginsberg has been complaining about the University's decision to go commercial. But he will no longer know which boys because he will no longer be a student here.

He explained, "But we

The Daily Pennsylvanian

A Year Ago Today

Amaturation or Bluff? By William C. Hennessey

A Year Ago Today: The Daily Pennsylvanian reported a new "black box" section on the University's academic program. This was significant because changes in academic programs can have a far-reaching effect on the way students perceive the University.

The article, which appeared on page 3, explained that the "black box" section would give students a better understanding of how their academic programs work. This is important because students need to be aware of the benefits and challenges of their academic programs in order to make informed decisions about their future.

The Daily Pennsylvanian staff was pleased with the article and the feedback it received. They believed that it would help students better understand the University's academic programs and make informed decisions about their future.

Letters to the Editor

WXPN: Becoming Major Campus Issue

WXPN News Staff

For a year now, Peter Ginsberg has been complaining about the University's decision to go commercial. But he will no longer know which boys because he will no longer be a student here.

He explained, "But we

The Daily Pennsylvanian

A Year Ago Today

Amaturation or Bluff? By William C. Hennessey

A Year Ago Today: The Daily Pennsylvanian reported a new "black box" section on the University's academic program. This was significant because changes in academic programs can have a far-reaching effect on the way students perceive the University.

The article, which appeared on page 3, explained that the "black box" section would give students a better understanding of how their academic programs work. This is important because students need to be aware of the benefits and challenges of their academic programs in order to make informed decisions about their future.

The Daily Pennsylvanian staff was pleased with the article and the feedback it received. They believed that it would help students better understand the University's academic programs and make informed decisions about their future.
Recruiting

(Continued from Page 1)

However, he said three weeks of school visitation had been "irrevocably lost." since the clays in making a decision on added funds have made it impossible to schedule additional visits even if money becomes available in mid-October.

Fischer predicted there would be a "slippage in SAT's" or "at least a check in their rise" either this year or next year as a result of budget difficulties.

Pennsylvania recruiting will not be affected by the budget problems, according to Philadelphia area recruiter Lingenheld, since the University's Commonwealth Relations Office has advanced extra money to maintain their traditional recruiting levels.

He said if Stellar's money does come, very little will go to Pennsylvania recruiting because of the Commonwealth Relations subsidy.

A coordinator of the Benjamin Franklin Scholars recruiting program said Bush's efforts would also be undermined by delays in resolving the admissions budget problem. He said the program's starting level is usually determined in March since recruiting starts after Franklin Scholars are designated by the University in the spring.

The Fine Arts Club will hold sketching sessions with a model every Tuesday night. 7-9 p.m. room 303 Furness Bring your own materials.
Field Hockey

Sitting at 5-3-1 for the season, Glassboro State College on the opposite bench that day at 4 P.M. This game promises to be no exception. Glassboro, which fell to Whitman 5-3 last weekend, is coming off a season in which they finished second in the Independence Conference. They have scored 14 goals against three保持

The team is looking good this year," commented the coach. "We've been practicing very hard for the last six weeks and we're ready for this weekend's games. Glassboro is going to be a very strong team, but they have four solid players in their lineup.

Since Penn is lacking a few personnel, left wing Tom Laney, center forward Tony Goll, and right wing Steve Killian will be the key men for the Quakers. With the offensive performance given by them, the Quakers are confident in their abilities to win the game.

Rutgers' more powerful players are forward Mike Wallace, and left wing George Hilb. In last year's match, Rutgers employed a South American type of attack with great success. With Wallace and Hilb leading the offensive charge, the Quakers are worried about the game's outcome.

The Quakers are optimistic and looking forward to a good game. Coach Ann Sage is confident in her team's abilities and believes they can come out on top.

In conclusion, the quakers are ready to face the challenge and make it a tough game for the Scarlet Knights. This will be a tough game to win, but the Quakers are determined to come out on top.

Title IX: Will Athletic Equality Be Reality?

Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 requires that educational institutions that receive federal funding must provide equal opportunities for males and females in all areas of its educational programs and activities. The law was passed in 1972 to address gender discrimination in educational institutions.

Since the passage of Title IX, there have been significant changes in the role of women in sports. Women's participation in sports has increased dramatically, and women have gained more control over their athletic programs. Women's sports teams have become more professional and have gained more support from the community.

However, there are still challenges to achieving equal opportunities for women in sports. Women face gender-based barriers in obtaining coaching and administrative positions, and they are still underrepresented in these roles. Women's sports teams also receive less funding and support compared to men's teams.

Despite these challenges, women have made significant progress in recent years. Women's athletic programs have gained more visibility and support, and women have been able to compete at a higher level. However, there is still work to be done to ensure that women have equal opportunities in all areas of sports.

In conclusion, Title IX has been a significant step in the fight for gender equality in sports. However, there is still work to be done to achieve true equality for women in sports. Women's sports teams must continue to receive equal funding and support to compete at a high level.

Penn Booters Look to Score Against Weak Rutgers Squad

By DAVID A. JUNGER

What can be said about a team named Beavers? Aside from the fact that they are from New Jersey, they are not considered a threat to the Penn Booters. However, Coach Bill Mallory, the head coach of the booters, is not confident about the outcome of this game.

"The team is good, and our players are confident," said Mallory. "But our girls are optimistic, and we'll do our best." The Booters are looking forward to a good but difficult game, and they are ready to prove their abilities.

In conclusion, the Booters are optimistic and looking forward to a good game. Coach Bill Mallory is confident in his team's abilities and believes they can come out on top.

In conclusion, the Booters are optimistic and looking forward to a good game. Coach Bill Mallory is confident in his team's abilities and believes they can come out on top.

Frosh Booters Open Season with Rutgers

By DPN Staff

The 1974 Edition of Penn freshman soccer team opens its season today at 3:30 P.M. on Stewart Field against the Rutgers 11. While Penn has long been an excellent source of talent for the varsity, this year's team is the strongest that has been assembled.

The freshmen team is favored in every area. Particularly, the forwards are rated third nationally. The team is also strong in midfield and backfield positions. Coach Bill Mallory is confident in his team's abilities and believes they can come out on top.

Penn Women Travel to Glassboro St.

By DPN Staff

The Penn women's tennis team, which is the best in the Independence Conference, is facing Glassboro State College on the opposite bench that day at 4 P.M. This game promises to be no exception. Glassboro, which fell to Whitman 5-3 last weekend, is coming off a season in which they finished second in the Independence Conference.

The Penn women's team is favored in every area. Particularly, the forwards are rated third nationally. The team is also strong in midfield and backfield positions. Coach Bill Mallory is confident in his team's abilities and believes they can come out on top.

In conclusion, the Penn women's team is looking forward to a good game. Coach Bill Mallory is confident in his team's abilities and believes they can come out on top.

In conclusion, the Penn women's team is looking forward to a good game. Coach Bill Mallory is confident in his team's abilities and believes they can come out on top.

Penn Booters Look to Score Against Weak Rutgers Squad

By DAVID A. JUNGER

What can be said about a team named Beavers? Aside from the fact that they are from New Jersey, they are not considered a threat to the Penn Booters. However, Coach Bill Mallory, the head coach of the booters, is not confident about the outcome of this game.

"The team is good, and our players are confident," said Mallory. "But our girls are optimistic, and we'll do our best." The Booters are looking forward to a good but difficult game, and they are ready to prove their abilities.

In conclusion, the Booters are optimistic and looking forward to a good game. Coach Bill Mallory is confident in his team's abilities and believes they can come out on top.

In conclusion, the Booters are optimistic and looking forward to a good game. Coach Bill Mallory is confident in his team's abilities and believes they can come out on top.

Frosh Booters Open Season with Rutgers

By DPN Staff

The 1974 Edition of Penn freshman soccer team opens its season today at 3:30 P.M. on Stewart Field against the Rutgers 11. While Penn has long been an excellent source of talent for the varsity, this year's team is the strongest that has been assembled.

The freshmen team is favored in every area. Particularly, the forwards are rated third nationally. The team is also strong in midfield and backfield positions. Coach Bill Mallory is confident in his team's abilities and believes they can come out on top.

Penn Women Travel to Glassboro St.

By DPN Staff

The Penn women's tennis team, which is the best in the Independence Conference, is facing Glassboro State College on the opposite bench that day at 4 P.M. This game promises to be no exception. Glassboro, which fell to Whitman 5-3 last weekend, is coming off a season in which they finished second in the Independence Conference.

The Penn women's team is favored in every area. Particularly, the forwards are rated third nationally. The team is also strong in midfield and backfield positions. Coach Bill Mallory is confident in his team's abilities and believes they can come out on top.

In conclusion, the Penn women's team is looking forward to a good game. Coach Bill Mallory is confident in his team's abilities and believes they can come out on top.

In conclusion, the Penn women's team is looking forward to a good game. Coach Bill Mallory is confident in his team's abilities and believes they can come out on top.

Penn Booters Look to Score Against Weak Rutgers Squad

By DAVID A. JUNGER

What can be said about a team named Beavers? Aside from the fact that they are from New Jersey, they are not considered a threat to the Penn Booters. However, Coach Bill Mallory, the head coach of the booters, is not confident about the outcome of this game.

"The team is good, and our players are confident," said Mallory. "But our girls are optimistic, and we'll do our best." The Booters are looking forward to a good but difficult game, and they are ready to prove their abilities.

In conclusion, the Booters are optimistic and looking forward to a good game. Coach Bill Mallory is confident in his team's abilities and believes they can come out on top.

In conclusion, the Booters are optimistic and looking forward to a good game. Coach Bill Mallory is confident in his team's abilities and believes they can come out on top.

Frosh Booters Open Season with Rutgers

By DPN Staff

The 1974 Edition of Penn freshman soccer team opens its season today at 3:30 P.M. on Stewart Field against the Rutgers 11. While Penn has long been an excellent source of talent for the varsity, this year's team is the strongest that has been assembled.

The freshmen team is favored in every area. Particularly, the forwards are rated third nationally. The team is also strong in midfield and backfield positions. Coach Bill Mallory is confident in his team's abilities and believes they can come out on top.

Penn Women Travel to Glassboro St.

By DPN Staff

The Penn women's tennis team, which is the best in the Independence Conference, is facing Glassboro State College on the opposite bench that day at 4 P.M. This game promises to be no exception. Glassboro, which fell to Whitman 5-3 last weekend, is coming off a season in which they finished second in the Independence Conference.

The Penn women's team is favored in every area. Particularly, the forwards are rated third nationally. The team is also strong in midfield and backfield positions. Coach Bill Mallory is confident in his team's abilities and believes they can come out on top.

In conclusion, the Penn women's team is looking forward to a good game. Coach Bill Mallory is confident in his team's abilities and believes they can come out on top.

In conclusion, the Penn women's team is looking forward to a good game. Coach Bill Mallory is confident in his team's abilities and believes they can come out on top.

Penn Booters Look to Score Against Weak Rutgers Squad

By DAVID A. JUNGER

What can be said about a team named Beavers? Aside from the fact that they are from New Jersey, they are not considered a threat to the Penn Booters. However, Coach Bill Mallory, the head coach of the booters, is not confident about the outcome of this game.

"The team is good, and our players are confident," said Mallory. "But our girls are optimistic, and we'll do our best." The Booters are looking forward to a good but difficult game, and they are ready to prove their abilities.

In conclusion, the Booters are optimistic and looking forward to a good game. Coach Bill Mallory is confident in his team's abilities and believes they can come out on top.

In conclusion, the Booters are optimistic and looking forward to a good game. Coach Bill Mallory is confident in his team's abilities and believes they can come out on top.

Frosh Booters Open Season with Rutgers

By DPN Staff

The 1974 Edition of Penn freshman soccer team opens its season today at 3:30 P.M. on Stewart Field against the Rutgers 11. While Penn has long been an excellent source of talent for the varsity, this year's team is the strongest that has been assembled.

The freshmen team is favored in every area. Particularly, the forwards are rated third nationally. The team is also strong in midfield and backfield positions. Coach Bill Mallory is confident in his team's abilities and believes they can come out on top.

Penn Women Travel to Glassboro St.

By DPN Staff

The Penn women's tennis team, which is the best in the Independence Conference, is facing Glassboro State College on the opposite bench that day at 4 P.M. This game promises to be no exception. Glassboro, which fell to Whitman 5-3 last weekend, is coming off a season in which they finished second in the Independence Conference.

The Penn women's team is favored in every area. Particularly, the forwards are rated third nationally. The team is also strong in midfield and backfield positions. Coach Bill Mallory is confident in his team's abilities and believes they can come out on top.

In conclusion, the Penn women's team is looking forward to a good game. Coach Bill Mallory is confident in his team's abilities and believes they can come out on top.

In conclusion, the Penn women's team is looking forward to a good game. Coach Bill Mallory is confident in his team's abilities and believes they can come out on top.