U. Will Float Bond Issue to Build New Silverstein Pavilion At HUP

By Ed DANGEROUS
The Board of Managers decided to raise the $10 million needed to build a new Silverstein Pavilion at the University Hospital. The Board plans to use the proceeds to fund several areas of the hospital, including the Maloney Building, which houses the University's Department of Medicine. However, the administration is facing difficulties in obtaining the necessary funds, and they are seeking additional financial support from philanthropists and the community.

MEYERSON Will Recommend Administration Reorganization

By LARRY FIELD
President Meyerson will recommend to the Trustees major changes in the administrative structure of the University. He is considering a new organizational model that could include a reduction in the number of top-level officials. Meyerson said, "The current structure is not efficient enough to meet our needs." He added that the new model would be designed to streamline the University's operations and improve communication between departments.

HEW Urges More Family Support To Meet Cost of College Education

By LEE LEVINE
The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) has announced new guidelines for federal aid to students. The new guidelines will provide more support for families with children, but they will also place greater emphasis on financial need. HEW Secretary Koval said, "We want to ensure that students from all backgrounds have access to higher education." He added that the new guidelines will help to reduce the burden of college costs.

Rueckelsraus Speaks At Ecology Meeting

By CULLY IRVING
Former member of the Federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Rueckelsraus spoke at the day's meeting of the International Conference on Environmental Quality Improvements, sponsored by the University's Department of Environmental Science and Design. He emphasized the importance of technology in solving environmental problems and called for greater investment in research and development. Rueckelsraus said, "We must work together to find solutions to environmental challenges." He added that technology is crucial in addressing environmental issues and that we must continue to invest in research and development.

W. J. Gaddis
Vice-President for Business and Financial Affairs
Harold Manley
Comptroller
J. Jerrold Jackson
Treasurer
William Richard Gordon

32nd Annual Conference on Biological Wastes, held in Chicago, organizers reported that a special meeting of the board was called to discuss the issue of the church's new office building.

By LEE LEVINE
Legal scholar Louis Pollak will discuss "The Constitution as an Instrument of War" at 8 p.m. on Tuesday in Logan Hall. The talk, sponsored by President Gaddis, will be open to the public. Pollak, a former director of the Yale Law School, is the Albert Lehman Professor of Law at the University of Pennsylvania.

D. M. Wrenn
Chairman, School of Business

The Administration Shift

Proposed Structure

Senior Vice-President for Management
Paul Gaddis
Vice-President for Business and Financial Affairs
Harold Manley
Comptroller
J. Jerrold Jackson
Treasurer
William Richard Gordon

Current Structure

Vice-President for Management
Paul Gaddis
Vice-President for Physical Facilities
Harold Manley
Comptroller
J. Jerrold Jackson
Treasurer
William Richard Gordon

Operating Support Services
(Unnamed)

FINANCIAL AID NOTICE
New applicants for financial aid should contact the Financial Aid Office in Logan Hall immediately for all applications.
Strass Citus Tuition Hikes
As Way to Erase Deficit

By JERI BROWN

Ridgewood, N.J. — Robert Strauss, president of the university, said yesterday that his university, like most others, was facing a fiscal crisis. Strauss said that the university's deficit, expected to total $30 million, had grown to $50 million. He said that the university was facing a $20 million deficit this year, and that it was planning to raise the tuition for next year.

Strauss said that the university was facing a $20 million deficit this year, and that it was planning to raise the tuition for next year.

"We are in a crisis," he said. "We are facing a $20 million deficit this year, and we are planning to raise the tuition for next year." Strauss said that the university was planning to raise the tuition for next year, and that it was facing a $20 million deficit.

"We are in a crisis," he said. "We are facing a $20 million deficit this year, and we are planning to raise the tuition for next year." Strauss said that the university was planning to raise the tuition for next year, and that it was facing a $20 million deficit.

"We are in a crisis," he said. "We are facing a $20 million deficit this year, and we are planning to raise the tuition for next year." Strauss said that the university was planning to raise the tuition for next year, and that it was facing a $20 million deficit.

"We are in a crisis," he said. "We are facing a $20 million deficit this year, and we are planning to raise the tuition for next year." Strauss said that the university was planning to raise the tuition for next year, and that it was facing a $20 million deficit.
In this time a hemophiliac could bleed to death.

In this time you could prevent this from ever happening.

Find out how: BA2-2800

Sera-Tec Biologicals
3220 Cherry Street
(Plasma donors compensated for donation)
By Grant Hanesian

Editor's note — The following is adapted from a story that appeared in The Daily Pennsylvanian, the student newspaper of the University of Pennsylvania.

Understanding the Theater

By Peter Shapiro

In the March 15, 1973 issue of The Daily Pennsylvanian, Richard Merold published a review of the play "Dracula" which was also included in the students' yearbook entitled "Poor Richard's Record." In his review, Merold expressed his dissatisfaction with the production and used the opportunity to speak on the value and necessity of having a theater at the university.

Merold began his review by noting that he was one of the few student reviewers who had not seen the production of "Dracula," and that he felt he was not qualified to give a proper review. He then went on to discuss the limitations of the production, particularly the limited set and lighting, and the lack of a proper directorial vision.

Merold went on to say that the production was a "ruinous failure," and that he felt it was a "mockery of theatrical art." He also expressed his disappointment with the lack of attention paid to the "original" play, and that the production was "a travesty of the original work." He concluded his review by stating that the production was "the worst production of the year," and that it was a "disgrace to the university."
Ford Considers Oil Import Tax Compromise

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Ford is leaning heavily toward suspending his March and April increases in oil import fees, White House sources said Tuesday. They said Ford was becoming convinced a 30-day suspension of his 1-cent-a-barrel increase would allow compromise with the Democratic-controlled Congress on enactment of a national energy program.

Earlier Ford decided to accept a Democratic plan on a basis of compromise with his own. White House spokesperson said.

All-day suspension of the March and April increase in oil import fees, originally ordered to stop the Democratic anti-action, was announced by presidential aides as a method of trying to head off a national energy battle raging the past six weeks between Ford and the Democrats.

Democratic Senator Bob Dole announced a Democratic plan proposed by Sen. John C. Pastore of Rhode Island and Rep. James C. Wright of Texas would be the base for talks, and that his presence was essential for the trial.

Zebra Murder Trial Commences on Coast

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - Four young black men went on trial Monday, charged with the random killing of unsuspecting white persons on the streets in what was described as an "explosive plot" for a black militant organization.

The charge, which occasioned the first trial here in 20 years, center around four成份 of the group, all but one of the six were working in the Office of Security-the section of the Agency believed to have carried out domestic activity.

Former Treasury Secretary C. Douglas Dillon, who presided over the meeting in the absence of Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, would say only, "The witnesses are from the Agency and we are going into technical matters that the staff has uncovered."

"We do not comment on the substance of what's going on," he said.

Students! Faculty members! Ben sten, Lend us your knowledge to the students! Faculty members! We honor Bank Americard, American Express, Mastercharge & Cash

"OLDIES TUNES"
9 P.M. - 2 A.M.
Bull & Barrel

Continuing Education and College of General Studies Students are invited to attend a special meeting to discuss the Spring Continuing Education Conference. We have succeeded in getting some great guests. Come and find out about the program, help plan publicity, format, etc.

- The Continuing Education Scholarship Loan drive. Hear a report on the present status of the drive, work on plans for making a bigger drive.

Continue Education Office, Tuesday, March 4, Logan Hall, 12:00-1:00.

Bring your feet in for a test grin at The Natural Shoe Store.

The Nature Shoe by Glen
The shoe you wear on your face.

THE NATURAL SHOE STORE
University Center
4000 Walnut St.
EV2-9899

You don't need to buy The Nature Shoe to find out how pleasantly sensual it feels. All you have to do is to try one on. One test-fitting almost always leads directly to a grin.

The reason is that The Nature Shoe is the best-looking ordinary shoe. Instead, it's a carefully designed form for your feet which takes into consideration the way your foot is shaped and the way you were meant to walk in the first place.

Your foot has an arch, so The Nature Shoe has an arch. Your foot has a heel, so The Nature Shoe makes room for your heel. And the heel is lower than the toe because that is how your weight is most naturally distributed.

The Nature Shoe has a variety of ways of lighting up your face, because it comes in lots of different styles from sandals to boots to shoes. All made with the highest materials and workmanship for long-lasting wear.

So bring your feet in for a test grin. Most people who do walk out wearing it.
Ex-Second Fiddle Johnson

New Penn Man in Middle

By RICHARD MENDELS

The excitement of the Ex-Second Fiddle Johnson (Ex-S.F.) role for the Quakers became clearer when the ex-scholar hasn't played a meaningful basketball game for a month. But as March 1975 rolled around, the excitement became more pronounced.

The Quakers, who had been struggling all season, found a new spark in the form of Henry Johnson. After earning his diploma from Franklin and Marshall, Hryn Mawr's

Johnson is a revelation for the Quakers, who had been struggling all season. The former basketball player from Hryn Mawr has brought a new level of intensity and focus to the team, and his presence has been crucial in recent games.

For example, in the team's last game against Yale, Johnson scored 18 points, grabbed 10 rebounds, and blocked 5 shots. His performance helped the Quakers secure a much-needed victory.

The Quakers are now looking forward to continuing their success, with Johnson playing a key role in their efforts. The team is confident in their ability to compete with the best teams in the country, and Johnson's contributions have been a major factor in their recent success.

ECAC Names Squads

For Post-Season Play

By DAVE AXILBERG

Ten new Penn might play as no large height at the front end of the ECAC East basketball tournament. But as the season draws to a close, the Quakers are showing signs of life. With the ECAC conference tournament set to begin next week, the Quakers are hoping to make a strong showing.

The ECAC East basketball tournament is held at the Nittany Lion Inn, in State College. The tournament begins next week and runs through March 22.

The event is open to all ECAC East conference members, including member schools from the Ivy League, the Eastern Eight, and the Northeast Conference. The tournament is a round-robin format, with each team playing every other team.

The team with the best record at the end of the tournament will be declared the ECAC East champion and will receive the ECAC East tournament trophy. The trophy is presented annually to the team with the best overall record in the conference.

The ECAC East tournament is a key event for the Quakers, who are hoping to make a strong showing in the tournament. With the team playing well and looking forward to a successful tournament, it will be an exciting time for the Quakers.

Racquetwomen Snubbed

At Radcliffe

By RICHARD MENDELS

The Radcliffe racquetwomen were snubbed when they were not invited to participate in the Women's Squash League Championship. The Radcliffe racquetwomen, who have been playing together for several years, were disappointed that they were not invited to participate.

The Women's Squash League Championship is an annual event that brings together the best women's squash teams from across the country. The event is held in the spring and is open to all women's squash teams that meet the eligibility requirements.

The Radcliffe racquetwomen have been playing together for several years and have enjoyed much success in their matches. They were surprised and disappointed that they were not invited to participate in the Women's Squash League Championship.

The Radcliffe racquetwomen are planning to continue playing together and hope to participate in future Women's Squash League Championship events. They are looking forward to enjoying more success in their matches and to competing at higher levels in the sport.

That Time of Year Again

By DAVE AXILBERG

The first of March has come and gone. Spring isn't much more than three weeks away, but on a campus where the calendar is replaced by a basketball schedule, the season is anything but fading away.

It's post-season tournament time.

After the Quakers' 7-5 victory over Temple on March 13, the team finds itself in a familiar situation. The Final Four tournament is the Quakers' third in the last three years, and their third in the last four seasons.

There are more regional tournaments than the one the Quakers in the National Basketball Association (NBA) play, and there are no such tournaments in the ECAC East. And Penn has a title that others are chasing, as those titles are now in the National Basketball Association.

The Quakers are preparing for this week's Final Four tournament. They played a terrific game against Temple, and their win was a statement of their team's potential.

The team is looking forward to continuing their success, with Johnson playing a key role in their efforts. The team is confident in their ability to compete with the best teams in the country, and Johnson's contributions have been a major factor in their recent success.

Sports

Pages 5, 6

College basketball

Cradle

R.C. ECAC Imperial

Three Centuries Go Down in Women's Swim Meet

By Ed Wiest

The third in a series of three events held in the nation's capital, the last resulted in new records for the annual meet. It was an exciting event, with many outstanding performances.

The Quakers were represented by 21 women, and their efforts were rewarded with a total of 11 victories, including one in the 200-yard breaststroke. The Quakers also won the 200-yard medley relay, the 400-yard freestyle relay, the 400-yard medley relay, and the 200-yard breaststroke.

The Quakers were led by a number of outstanding performers, including Janice Fischer, Laurie Mullen, and Mervis Owens. Fischer won the 50-yard freestyle, Mullen won the 100-yard backstroke, and Owens won the 200-yard breaststroke.

The event was a great success, with many outstanding performances and a number of new records set. The Quakers were proud to be a part of the event, and their efforts were rewarded with a number of victories and personal bests.

CENTER STAGE

Fen's Henry Johnson (27) acknowledges the skyward groaning of Brown's Lloyd Decorse in the 3rd of the series during Tuesday's 71-69 final game of a 3-game series between the teams in Providence. The Quakers ended the basketball picture over their shoulders into the staring hands 14 games up, and will continue to be the key man in the middle, as the Quakers advance to the next round. The game will be on the court later this month in another NCAA playoff round.

That Time of Year Again

By DAVE AXILBERG

The first of March has come and gone. Spring isn't much more than three weeks away, but on a campus where the calendar is replaced by a basketball schedule, the season is anything but fading away.

It's post-season tournament time.

After the Quakers' 7-5 victory over Temple on March 13, the team finds itself in a familiar situation. The Final Four tournament is the Quakers' third in the last three years, and their third in the last four seasons.

There are more regional tournaments than the one the Quakers in the National Basketball Association (NBA) play, and there are no such tournaments in the ECAC East. And Penn has a title that others are chasing, as those titles are now in the National Basketball Association.

The Quakers are preparing for this week's Final Four tournament. They played a terrific game against Temple, and their win was a statement of their team's potential.

The team is looking forward to continuing their success, with Johnson playing a key role in their efforts. The team is confident in their ability to compete with the best teams in the country, and Johnson's contributions have been a major factor in their recent success.

SoFTBALL INTRAMURAL

Intramural softball slate for March, 1975: Please submit entry sheets to Gilmour Gym by that date. Light entering late will not be accepted.