SAMP to Share Nursing School’s Classroom Units

By JACK BERENDT

The Sigma Theta Tau Nursing Professors (SAMP) plan is to lease classroom units adjacent to the Tri-Institutional Nursing Building (Tri-NEB) where the School’s classes are held.

Federal approval of the move is needed first—explained because the Tri-NEB building was erected with federal funds earmarked specifically for nurses’ education and because in 1860 a purpose to be known as the Lenfest Philadelphia General Hospital, Chestnut Street, 8th floor, is the University Hospital.

“Demand trends have changed,” since the Tri-NEB building was constructed,” said the director of the Lenfest Philadelphia General Hospital, Chestnut Street, 8th floor, is the University Hospital.

“The move would bring health care, nurses in great demand today, to a position in a building designed to be utilized for teaching purposes only,” he emphasized.

(Siemens, 1960:287)

SPRING IS UPON US and everyone is dancing. This girl strikes an artistic pose during the Free University’s modern dance class.

Residents Sign Petition Questioning Rehiring of Quad Director Lubert

By JEFF BERNHARD

Approximately 700 Quad residents have signed a petition questioning the rehiring of Quad Director Lubert after a one-year absence from his position.

Lubert, who has been responsible for the actual changing of the building’s name, is responsible for the actual changing of the building’s name, is now a member of the Quad activities committee.

“Lubert has taken a number of obsessive-compulsive disorders related to this national problem,” he said.

(Continued in page 3)

WXPN Staffers Seek Aid to End Suspensions

By STAN BERGEN

The staff members of WXPN are seeking financial aid to end the suspension of their memberships (ACLU) in an effort to receive their memberships (ACLU) in an effort to receive their memberships (ACLU) in an effort to receive their memberships (ACLU) in an effort to receive their memberships (ACLU).

In March, one of the three students suspended by Student Activities Board (SAB) President Fred Shabel on March 14, Monday, the other two students “no have no case.” He explained the three are currently working on the case as an exercise for students.

(Cordova, 1989:50)

SAB, the student group that was responsible for the actual changing of the building’s name, is a member of the Quad activities committee.

“SAB and Quad residents have signed a petition questioning the rehiring of Lubert after a one-year absence from his position,” he said.

(Continued in page 3)

JERRY CONDON Students Have No Case’

By KENNETH GIL

Despite considerable odds, Democratic consultant received his doctorate, which was not, as the Philadelphia Enquirer reported, “a Pennsylvanian profiles of entertainment.”

Despite considerable odds, Democratic consultant received his doctorate, which was not, as the Philadelphia Enquirer reported, “a Pennsylvanian profiles of entertainment.”

“Kenyatta became a well-known figure in the Philadelphia area six years ago when he organized a “Black Power” movement and formed a political party, the Black Panthers, in response to the civil rights movement,” he said.

“Kenyatta’s political ideals, with its subsequent flirtations, has a long history,” he said.

(Continued in page 2)

University Trustees Robert Levy, in his speech before the Board of Trustees, said “it would be nice.” He added the Tri-Institutional Nursing Education (TINE) could vote if the board put up a “groundswell” of animosity against the University’s decision.

“Very difficult to maintain a substantially number of complaints about residence counselors and students,” he said.

(Continued in page 2)
Quad Director Petition

(Continued from page 1)

The petition, best described as a proposal to the president for a faculty position, was the topic of a meeting in the Quad on March 17, 1979. The meeting was called by the Quad director, Mr. Tuppeny, to discuss the possibility of creating a position for a Quad director. The meeting was attended by a large number of faculty members who expressed their support for the creation of the position.

Martin

(Continued from page 6)

Martin, who has been teaching at the university for 10 years, said he hopes to continue his work in the future. He added that he is looking forward to the new academic year and the opportunities it will bring.

Campus Events

- Oldies Tunes: 9 P.M. - 2 A.M. Bull & Barrel
- We Need You!: The Kite and Key Society is looking for enthusiastic applicants to house high-quality applicants and give tours.

CLASSIFIEDS

- APARTMENTS
  - Chestnut Near 42nd: 2-rooms, bath: $325-350; 2-rooms, 2 baths, hall: $375-375
  - Wall St. Bldg.: $345
  - 4-rooms, bath: $350-375

- For Sale

- For Rent
  - Studio 2-bedrooms, 2 baths, 814 S. 33rd, $300. Call 428-6279.

- For Sale
  - PENGUIN PENN JAZZ ENSEMBLE PRESSES
  - 2nd Annual University of Pennsylvania Big Band Jazz Festival
  - March 25, 1975
  - 7:30 P.M. at Houston Hall Auditorium, Donation: 13

English Department Names

- Poetry Competition Winners

SAMP

- Graduate students Daryn Giammarioli and Barbara Fiset of the English Department's eighth annual poetry contest. English professor and poet David S. Hoffman attended last week.

University Special

- 50% OFF A FONZO PIZZA

2nd Annual University of Pennsylvania Big Band Jazz Festival

- March 25, 1975
- 7:30 P.M. at Houston Hall Auditorium
- Donation: 13

- Sponsored by Uof P Spiritual Practice Group

- Head of the Sufi Order

- Pir Vilayat Khan

- Head of the Sufi Order

- Toward the One

- Will lead a seminar in meditation and the teachings of the Sufis

- 7:30 P.M. Tonight

- Houston Hall Auditorium

- Donation: 13

- Sponsored by Uof P Spiritual Practice Group
The Wharton School faculty is expected to vote on the new graduate major in Decision Sciences at its meeting tomorrow.

The proposed new major, incorporating courses from the Business Administration and Decision Sciences departments, is to be presented as an analytical approach to decision-making in business.

Also in the agenda for today's meeting is a proposal to formalize the Department of Management as a separate entity. The faculty expects to discuss the reasons for seeking the exemption.

While the requests would be submitted before the commencement of classes next month, the change, recommended by the Curriculum Committee, would require students desiring a waiver of a required course to submit a written request documenting their reasons for seeking the exemption.

Other curricular changes to be expected include the adoption of a formal course in which students may be exempted on a less formal basis and are submitted during the registration period, causing an increased workload for the faculty member responsible for approving the requests. The faculty member would then respond in writing to the request.

Currently, requests for course exemptions are made on a non-formal basis and are submitted during the registration period, causing an inconvenience for students and faculty.

The Wharton faculty is also expected to discuss the adoption of a new course, Law 9: "The Criminal Code," expected to be presented during the spring semester.

"Income Tax Planning for Lawyers" and the approval of a course on "The Criminal Code," expected to be presented during the spring semester, are among the other new courses under consideration.

SEPTA Stoppage Adds Problems
To U. Commuter Students' Plight

For most University students, the week-and-a-half-long SEPTA strike has been a major inconvenience. However, for students desiring to commute to classes daily, the strike has posed serious problems.

For non-commuters, the suspension of the city's bus, trolley, and subway service has meant rearranging schedules, missing classes, and spending more hours on the road. Commuters, on the other hand, have experienced delays in their daily commutes.

"For the first day of the strike, I waited at 30th Street Station for two and a half hours," said Edith B. Wetzel, a college senior. "I missed one class because the train was leaving before my class was over," Wetzel explained.

"I have to get to class on time," said Robert G. Ravdin, a college junior. "If the train is late, I miss class." Ravdin added that he hopes the strike is settled soon to avoid further delays.

"Student satisfaction and physician responsibility: Ethics of the Medical Encounter"

Edmund D. Pellegrino, M.D.
Chairman of the Board,
Yale-New Haven Medical Center

Tuesday, March 25, 1975 at 5 P.M.
Medical Alumni Hall

For further information contact
Ron Thomas
382-7237

WANTED BLOOD
PLASMA DONORS

Dsembles and plasma donors are needed.

The Division of Recreation & Intercollegiate Athletics
Page 3

The Daily Pennsylvanian

The Persuasions
In Concert
featuring The People's

Saturday, April 7
Zellerbach Theater
Walnut Street

Tickets $4.50

Benefit Co-sponsored by W.E.B. DuBois Residential Program
Tickets available at Annenberg Center Box Office

CANDIDATES!
For Undergraduate Assembly

1) Pick up your petitions in the U.A. Office, 1st floor, Houston Hall, by this Thursday. (They must be returned this Friday.)
2) Mandatory meeting this Thursday at 7:30 P.M. in the Franklin Room, 2nd floor, Houston Hall.
3) Candidates' statements for the DP must be turned in this Friday.

Sponsored by the autonomous Nominations and Elections Committee

The Sanctuary
42 & Walnut
"Far out nites"
Tues. Tequila Nite
Thurs. Beer Nite
Wed. Sangria Nite
Disco. Sounds Nitey
Giant Beef Sandwiches 99c
Open Daily - Noon till 2 a.m.
Check it out!

BLUES STUDENT LEAGUE presents their annual

DINNER - DANCE honoring the Senior Class
Friday, April 11, 1975
at the Hilton Hotel
Cocktails 6 PM - Cash Bar
Dinner 7 PM - Donation $7.50
Tickets available from any steering committee member until Apr. 7
For further information contact
Ron Thomas
382-7237

Robert G. Ravdin Memorial Lecture
"Patient Satisfaction and Physician Responsibility: Ethics of the Medical Encounter"

Edmund D. Pellegrino, M.D.
Chairman of the Board,
Yale-New Haven Medical Center

Tuesday, March 25, 1975 at 5 P.M.
Medical Alumni Hall

All Students, Faculty, Nurses, Guests Invited

The Division of Recreation & Intercollegiate Athletics Department of Recreation
Residence Projects: Alive and Well at Penn

By Glenn Esterson

The very idea that the residential projects had "comparability" in their end results is an illusion. When Van Pelt-first college house and one of the oldest projects areas was not designed with community as the primary goal. That goal was not to encourage informal, extra-curricular intellectual activity. Hence there are ongoing seminars, simulations games, and speaker programs.

The very idea that the residential projects had "comparability" in their end results is an illusion. When Van Pelt-first college house and one of the oldest projects areas was not designed with community as the primary goal. That goal was not to encourage informal, extra-curricular intellectual activity. Hence there are ongoing seminars, simulations games, and speaker programs.

The very idea that the residential projects had "comparability" in their end results is an illusion. When Van Pelt-first college house and one of the oldest projects areas was not designed with community as the primary goal. That goal was not to encourage informal, extra-curricular intellectual activity. Hence there are ongoing seminars, simulations games, and speaker programs.

The very idea that the residential projects had "comparability" in their end results is an illusion. When Van Pelt-first college house and one of the oldest projects areas was not designed with community as the primary goal. That goal was not to encourage informal, extra-curricular intellectual activity. Hence there are ongoing seminars, simulations games, and speaker programs.

The very idea that the residential projects had "comparability" in their end results is an illusion. When Van Pelt-first college house and one of the oldest projects areas was not designed with community as the primary goal. That goal was not to encourage informal, extra-curricular intellectual activity. Hence there are ongoing seminars, simulations games, and speaker programs.

The very idea that the residential projects had "comparability" in their end results is an illusion. When Van Pelt-first college house and one of the oldest projects areas was not designed with community as the primary goal. That goal was not to encourage informal, extra-curricular intellectual activity. Hence there are ongoing seminars, simulations games, and speaker programs.

The very idea that the residential projects had "comparability" in their end results is an illusion. When Van Pelt-first college house and one of the oldest projects areas was not designed with community as the primary goal. That goal was not to encourage informal, extra-curricular intellectual activity. Hence there are ongoing seminars, simulations games, and speaker programs.

The very idea that the residential projects had "comparability" in their end results is an illusion. When Van Pelt-first college house and one of the oldest projects areas was not designed with community as the primary goal. That goal was not to encourage informal, extra-curricular intellectual activity. Hence there are ongoing seminars, simulations games, and speaker programs.

The very idea that the residential projects had "comparability" in their end results is an illusion. When Van Pelt-first college house and one of the oldest projects areas was not designed with community as the primary goal. That goal was not to encourage informal, extra-curricular intellectual activity. Hence there are ongoing seminars, simulations games, and speaker programs.

The very idea that the residential projects had "comparability" in their end results is an illusion. When Van Pelt-first college house and one of the oldest projects areas was not designed with community as the primary goal. That goal was not to encourage informal, extra-curricular intellectual activity. Hence there are ongoing seminars, simulations games, and speaker programs.

The very idea that the residential projects had "comparability" in their end results is an illusion. When Van Pelt-first college house and one of the oldest projects areas was not designed with community as the primary goal. That goal was not to encourage informal, extra-curricular intellectual activity. Hence there are ongoing seminars, simulations games, and speaker programs.
Communist Offensive Cuts South Vietnam in Half

March 27, 1975

The New York Times

Tornado Hits Denver

A tornado hit Denver Monday afternoon, cutting a path through the city that stretched from the city's west side to its north end. The tornado, which lasted about 15 minutes, caused extensive damage to homes and businesses in the area. There were reports of injuries, but no deaths were reported.

New Station Constitution

The Activities Council, Undergraduate Assembly, and Undergraduate Affairs Court will vote on a new station constitution tonight. The move comes after the Activities Council, Undergraduate Assembly, and Undergraduate Affairs Court voted to draw up a new station constitution. The move has been criticized by some members of the council.

Activities Council

The Activities Council has come under fire for its handling of a recent controversy involving the use of hate speech on campus. The council has been accused of not taking the issue seriously enough.

.xlim 400 400

Critical Sarris Stresses Importance of Film

By DEBRA WINDEN

"The camera doesn't merely record - it projects something about reality," Village Voice film critic Andrew Sarris said in a lecture Monday night. "It's not just a tool for recording reality; it's a tool for creating reality."

Sarris explained the differences between cinema and stage performances. In the theater, the actors create the world of the characters while on the screen, "the character exists and animates the world." The camera, he said, is a tool for creating a world that is not limited to what movies can show. "I'm a prisoner of history," Sarris claimed, "limit to what movies can show. "I'm a prisoner of history," Sarris claimed, "limit to what movies can show."

Much of the content of films today reflects past events set in the contemporary world. Sarris noted that the film "The Godfather" is a fulfillment of his vision of the world as it has to offer. He urged directors to "move outside" and "create things outside of themselves.

The camera takes as much or as much as it wants. You can call a box with your hand and say, 'I'm the world of the film.'"

I.F.C. Dance Marathon

Contestant Meeting

Open to all interested.

Tues., March 25 8:00 ZBT

Phone: Sue EV2-9713

ENGINEER YOUR WAY TO THE TOP

If you're an outstanding engineering graduate like Will Frick, or someone who can master advanced technology, you may qualify for one of our top programs.

Nuclear engineering

Our Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate Program wants men with a solid foundation in math and physics. You'll learn nuclear propulsion plant theory and operation. And you'll solve problems by applying fundamental engineering principles.

Set your sights high. Go Navy.

Be someone special. Join the Nuclear Navy.

For more information on how to engineer your way to the top, talk to your local Navy Recruiter in person. Or call him.

Contact: Lt. E.L. Swartz
March 27, 1975

Placement Office
Quakers Set Sights on 5th Straight Heps Title

By JOEL GOLDBERG

Penn State track coach Jim Tuppeny considers the squad's upset victory against Princeton last week as the first step toward becoming the first Ivy League team in history to win five consecutive Eastern Intercollegiate Track and Field Association (EITFA) championships. He also believes that his team has hit its stride, and that the Quakers will be a force to be reckoned with as they head into the conference meet next weekend.

"The Princeton victory was a good start," Tuppeny said. "It's not the end, but it's a step in the right direction. We have to continue to improve, but I think we're in a good position to compete for the title."

Penn State's relay team, which included seniors Bruce Collins and Tim Martin, won the 440-yard relay in a time of 46.3 seconds, breaking the previous record of 46.5 seconds set by Princeton in 1970. The team's 1-2-3 finish in the 440-yard relay was a key factor in the team's victory, as it set the tone for the rest of the meet.

"The 440-yard relay is a good indicator of how our team is performing," Tuppeny said. "If we can run well in that event, it usually means we're running well in the rest of the meet."

The Quakers also won the 400-yard hurdles, 880-yard run, and 1,500-yard run, and placed second in the 1,000-yard run and the 2-mile run.

"I'm proud of our team," Tuppeny said. "They worked hard all season and they deserve this victory."

The Quakers now have a 16-3 record and are in second place in the EITFA standings. They will face their toughest challenge yet when they travel to New York City to face Columbia, Harvard, and Yale in the conference meet.

"We have some tough competition," Tuppeny said. "But I think we have the talent and the motivation to compete for the title."

Handy Martin Kicking Up Bat Storm

BY DANNY MEIER

Handy Martin, a right-handed pitcher for the Penn State baseball team, has been a key player in the team's recent success. His 1.88 earned run average and 79 strikeouts in 71 innings pitched have helped him earn a starting role in the team's pitching rotation.

"Handy has been our best pitcher this year," said coach Bob Kennedy. "His control and his ability to strike out batters has been key to our success."

Martin, a junior from West Point, New York, has been a solid performer for the Nittany Lions throughout his career. He was named to the All-Ivy League first team as a sophomore in 2017 and was named the Ivy League pitcher of the year in 2018.

"Handy has developed a great off-speed pitch and has matured as a pitcher," Kennedy said. "He's a great leader on the field and his performance has helped us win some important games."

Martin's performance has been crucial in helping Penn State remain in the thick of the Ivy League race. The team currently sits in second place, just half a game behind league leader Harvard.

"We have some really tough games coming up," Martin said. "But I'm excited to see what we can do. I'm just trying to contribute to the team and help us win some important games."

Martin will look to continue his strong performance in the upcoming games as the Penn State baseball team aims to secure its first Ivy League title since 2012.