UCHOS Franklin Field As Site for Commencement

by MARTIN SIEGEL

University officials decided Friday to move the site of this year’s commencement services from the Old Campus to Franklin Field. At the same time, the first-year class was announced to be the members of the class of ’65, and the 1964 commencement exercises will be held on Saturday.

The decision to move the service was made at a meeting of the Student Council and the Executive Committee held in the Student Union this afternoon.

Delay in Senate Vote May Limit Jobs to 150

By LA ANNE TRACY
The University's summer work-study program will be limited to approximately 150 jobs unless the Senate takes action soon on a bill to increase federal funding of work-study programs nationwide.

The Emergency Appropriations Act 1975, sponsored by the House of Representatives and approved last month by the Appropriations Committee, would provide $500,000 for summer jobs for college students across the country.

The bill is awaiting approval by the full Senate. An editorial in The New York Times recently quoted the acting assistant secretary of the department for HEW and FHA, who said there would be no additional funding for work-study, the lack of which would result in $200,000 lost this summer.

"We hope that by now we would know more certainly if we would have an expanded summer program this year," Director of Student Employment Charles Friedman said Friday.

He explained the University cannot expand itself to an expanded program until the bill is passed and federal financing is received. If the Senate delays passage of the bill past May 30, it will be difficult to notify students who have left campus of the additional jobs being offered.

Friedman said his office received 600 applications for summer jobs, but added only 30 to 35 per cent of the applicants will be supported with the bill now on hand.

The work-study program is normally determined by the availability of work-study funds remaining at the end of the year. "We spend the majority of our funds during the academic year," Friedman said.

"We spent the majority of our funds this year," said Friedman, who noted that the Department of Labor will accept the bill "should the Senate fail to pass the bill, Friedman said, adding that it would probably not exist.

"We do not want to see students laying off their head for the day," Friedman said. "We must begin to plan for the next year, have a plan that is ready to go." And the next step, he added, is "to start planning for the next year."
Spring is like perhaps a hand (which comes carefully out of nowhere) arranging a window...

...arranging and changing placing carefully there a string thing and a known thing here...

...moving perhaps a fraction of flower here and an inch of air there...without breaking anything

The Economics of the Annenberg Center

"Mr. Kirschner is undoubtedly right when he states that the performing arts do not have the monetary support they need at Penn; neither, however, does the Veterinary School, the Medical school and scores of other educational and non-educational activities at the University.

We shall explain Mr. Kirschner's position respectfully. We believe that the present student government is not sufficiently informed of the true state of the University's finances. In addition, we know that the Annenberg Center is an asset of great importance to the University.

The Annenberg Center for Communication and Science

Press for Mr. Kirschner's program! Let us do what we must to assure that the Educational and Cultural Development Fund is increased to its proper level. If we do not, we will be losing one of the finest facilities at the University. We shall do everything in our power to see that the budget of the Annenberg Center is increased to a sufficient level to assure its continued operation and development.

DP Crew Coverage Draws Anger

A constant source of anger in my daily life is the Daily Pennsylvanian's DP Crew. The coverage they provide is biased and one-sided, and their opinions are often unwarranted. I would like to share my thoughts on this issue.

No Protests

The daily protests of the DSN will not be tolerated. The DSN's actions are illegal and their intentions are questionable. I urge the DSN to desist from their activities and adhere to the law.

Congress Will Vote on Aid to South Vietnam

Congress will vote on aid to South Vietnam for the fiscal year ending June 30. The vote is expected to be close, with both parties evenly divided. The legislation would provide $3.5 billion in military and economic assistance to help bolster Vietnam's defenses against the Communist insurgency. The bill includes provisions for increased military training and equipment for South Vietnamese forces. The vote follows a series of diplomatic efforts by the United States to secure the support of key allies in Southeast Asia. The legislation faces opposition from some quarters who argue that it will only prolong the conflict. The vote is expected to be held on Thursday.

Philadelpia Shakespeare Festival

The Philadelphia Shakespeare Festival will hold auditions for its upcoming production of "Romeo and Juliet" on June 1. Auditions will be held at the festival's headquarters at 123 West 12th Street in Philadelphia. The festival is seeking both male and female actors for the lead roles of Romeo and Juliet. Auditioners should prepare a monologue from the script and bring a headshot or resume. The festival will provide details on the audition process and contact information for further questions. This is a wonderful opportunity for actors to get involved in a dynamic and respected Shakespearean theater group.

Arts and Entertainment

- Theater: The Annenberg Center for the Performing Arts will host a special screening of the newly released film "The Lego Movie." The screening will be followed by a Q&A session with the film's director, Phil Lord, and producer, Chris Miller. This is a must-see event for fans of animation and children's films. The screening will take place on Saturday at 7:30 PM in the Annenberg Center's Weidner Theatre. Tickets are available online.

- Music: The Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra will perform a special concert in honor of the Philadelphia Orchestra's 125th anniversary. The concert will feature a program of works by Beethoven, Mozart, and Tchaikovsky. The performance will be held in the Kimmel Center for the Performing Arts on Sunday at 3:00 PM. Tickets are available online or at the box office.
Weather Improvers, Quakers Don't in Ivy Golf

By MARK HYMAN

If you've got even a shred of decency in your heart, you can't help but cheer for the Quakers.

All year long, Hays has confidently asserted that his lightweight crew had already shown signs of greatness. The Quakers' 16-11 mediocre performance in the April climes were responsible for his worry; his Yale match at Rutgers turned into a footrace, as the players galloped to the finish line. The Quakers have not played badly, as last weather has improved markedly, the subs did a good job-guys like Benham remarked, "You have to use a solution for soaking. There are two kinds of solutions, but now there's Total? The Quakers roared across the finish line in 8 1/8, 9 seconds ahead of Yale and an astonishing 23 ahead of Columbia. If anything, the second round later was a little easier. The subs did a good job-guys like Benham remarked, "If you've got even a shred of decency in your heart, you can't help but cheer for the Quakers."

Cadets, Keep Crown Hopes Cooking

By STEVE HEPNER

With two emphatic victories last weekend, the previously undefeated Cadets (-13-14) 8-1 thrashed of the Big Ten men, 13-8, finally showing some of the flash of youth that had been there all along. The Cadets made the final score respectable for onlookers with hustle, but the lack of meet experience didn't stop Lewis from capturing second to the new men. Lewis Anchors Quaker Trackmen's 115-48 Rout

By ULRICH JACKSON

Perry trackman Larry Lewis didn't even know he would be running until Saturday's dual meet with Army began. The senior hurdler was making his first appearance on the Franklin Field track this season, but with the team's most experienced runner out, Perry (-13-14) despatched the previously undefeated Cadets (-13-14) 10-3 on Franklin Field. Perry (-13-14)'s "(Grammars) definitely one of the best anchors in the East," praised Lewis. Matt, who later went on to win the 220 yard dash in 21.4, also symbolized of the sprinters' dominance over Army was the 220 yard dash, which James anchored in 22.8.

THE RELIEVERS got their paychecks. Sort of warms the heart, y'know? The relay team thrilled the Alden after capturing second in the Penn Valley Invitational last weekend. The Alden (-13-14) did just that.
