President Martin Meyerson and members of the University administration gathered to welcome the 1975-76 class at the Administration Building on Friday night. The event was a part of the University’s efforts to strengthen its ties with the student body.

Some freshmen took the opportunity to view their personal offices and dorm rooms. Others chatted with faculty members and other students, while enjoying refreshments provided by the University dining service.

The ceremony was followed by a reception in the Student Union, where the student body was able to socialize and network with other members of the University community.

Koch's Moving?

It would be a gastronomic tragedy for Koch's delicatessen, hasn't it many a hungry student who has eaten out of the present location at 3201 and Locust Streets. Last week, President Rawls of the students body, A. S. I. It will be the saddest of losses to the community. A. S. I. has been allowances to it at its present sit, and unfortunately, the University is now considering it for commercial purposes. Food Stamp Recipients Found Lacking Need

By United Press International

Speaking to a three-day meeting of Agriculture Department officials and their personal assistants, Applied Nutritionist, Dr. Robert Black, told the group that the number of food stamp recipients found lacking need factors was considerably lower than official estimates.

"We have discovered that the majority of stamp recipients do not qualify for stamps," Dr. Black said.

"The report shows a substantially lower percentage of stamp recipients who actually qualify for stamps than was previously thought."
GOP Women's Conclave to Hear President

By United Press International

Republican women from across the nation Thursday opened a three-day convention viewed as a preview of the 1976 GOP convention because of a speakers' group including President Ford, John Connally and Ronald Reagan.

Also scheduled to address the National Federation of Republican Women are the convention speakers Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, Mrs. Richard Nixon, Mrs. Spiro Agnew, John C. Schweitzer, R.D.P., and Missouri Gov. Christopher "Kit" Bond.

"This is a mini-convention in advance. We are having most of the figures who will dominate the 1976 convention. It's a complete 'who's who' of GOP speakers," National Federation President Connie Dean Armstrong.

Security is expected to be tighter than usual after the assassination attempt against Ford in Saunders last week but secret service agents said the President would not walk with the crowds.

In addition to the lineup of speakers, the women are expected to vote on a number of resolutions, including one approach to domestic natural gas and oil at the well head to promote exploration and development and by the energy agencies.

Mrs. Armstrong said the group will not include the proposed Equal Rights Amendment because of the divided atmosphere of the time and the need to start fresh.

Soviet Union Suggests Ban On All Testing

By United Press International

The Soviet Union Thursday proposed a ban on all nuclear weapons tests in order to coordinate nuclear weapons and special test disarmament.

"The problem of banning nuclear weapons tests is one of great importance for the entire world and for the process of detente," diplomats said.

It said a total ban on nuclear weapons tests would "undermine and supplement the relaxation of political tensions with similar measures in the military field toward the arms race, to bring about a reduction of arms manufacture, and to start international cooperation and complete disarmament."

Anti-Fluke Rally

While Pripstein spoke, members of the Spartacist League of Philadelphia expressed their activities. Pripstein first refused to recognize the Spartacists, claiming that they distrusted SATH's budget and had called the anti-fluke fight a waste of time.

As the arguments of several members from the floor grew louder, SATH agreed to let the floor to a member of the Spartacist League, who explained his group's presence at the meeting. The representatives of a state-wide PLENARY and SATH agreed that a fluke fight be the "opening and closing" of the meeting.

"We've had a job of slighting, but as the trial, the world, and the flukeリー, what became the job now is to be done. After saying, "In order to turn fabulous, and if you have a" If I have a E, I have a scientific explanation," I called for "this kind of anti-fluke fight" to fight against tuition hikes and cutbacks in student services. He suggested the students join forces with political and labor groups in their efforts, and form a "student committee" from among the student groups.

Most of the students at the meeting responded negatively. As the anti-fluke fight last year and had called the anti-fluke fight a "waste of time."

Congress Orders Full Disclosure of Nixon’s White House Tapes

Congressional sources said today that Congress will order President Nixon to release all White House tapes and other materials to Congress. The White House tapes are considered by some to be the most important evidence in the Watergate investigation.

The order was issued by the House and Senate investigative committees, which are preparing to hold hearings next month. The White House has refused to turn over the tapes, claiming they are privileged and are not subject to subpoena.

The White House has been given 30 days to respond to the congressional demand. If Nixon fails to comply, the committees will seek a court order to compel him to hand over the tapes.

The order was also made in response to a request by some House members for the release of a letter written by former White House aide John Dean to President Nixon in 1971. The letter reportedly contains information about the Watergate scandal.

The congressional committees are also considering whether to call for the release of other White House documents, including the records of the Nixon campaign's illegal activities during the 1972 presidential election.

The White House has said it will release the tapes only if it is directed to do so by a court order. The committees have vowed to continue their efforts to obtain the tapes, regardless of the White House's stance.

The decision to order full disclosure of the White House tapes is seen as a major victory for the committees, which have been seeking to uncover the truth about the Watergate scandal for years.

The hearings are expected to be highly publicized and will feature testimony from key figures in the scandal, including Nixon himself.

The committees have also said they will seek to obtain other documents, including records of the Nixon administration's attempts to cover up its involvement in the Watergate scandal.
