Committee on the Economic Status of the Faculty, will report on the "prospect for some kind of raise soon," and a motion to create a similar council without senate approval was defeated.

Chairman Ralph Amado said the plans would be "a present for the future" and that the money and how these plans can be used to solicit funds from prospective donors will be a subject for discussion in the meeting of the Finance Committee.

"We'll sit it up on the flagpole and have everybody look at it," Amado explained, adding that he hoped this would be the "last appearance" of the same calendar deficit without senate approval.

The subcommittee on the Faculty, will discuss the new program employing tenured faculty members to serve as "talking heads" and other issues. This year's subcommittees for further study will be named at the meeting to be held today, Summers said.

The subcommittee reached a consensus that "it's time to take the money and run" as the next step toward appointment of any tenured faculty members to the center.

In other action, the Committee on the Economic Status of the Faculty approved a request for $10,000 to the University to support a "mini-grant" program.

Brown U. Activist Offers Formula For Effective Student Involvement

By TERRY KEIRER

Student activists at the University, at most other campuses in this country, were once a powerful force for change. Now, however, they are primarily acting in an obscure and unauthorized battle against what they say is "the University's refusal to sign a contract with the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees (AFL-CIO)".

in addition, Robinson said, he thought if students were to become more concerned about the community immediately surrounding the campus, this tax would make campus protests effective. "Agreements with a group of students in this area will give a broader perspective to student activism," and add legitimacy to protests. Mike Harter, chairman of the Undergraduate Assembly, attributed the lack of student activism here to the fact that, "with such a large undergraduate population, there will be no easy solution."

"It is not an easy problem for the student population to be solved," Harter added, "but if we work together and provide the leadership that is needed, we may be able to work towards a solution." He added that this year's Assembly will assume a more active role in the activities of SATX. "We intend to present the students with the facts and provide the leadership that is needed to develop an effective solution to the problem.

Annenberg Cinematheque

By HUAN LAKES

On nights when you're bored with frat parties or too tired to study, a film might be the perfect diversion. And if you've seen film it's latest offering, you won't be able to afford the campus feature, you might want to try something different at Annenburg Cinematheque film series.

Cinemasterpiece, which is noted for its presentations of unusual and rarely-screened films and documentaries, will feature four series this month. The series consists of five programs, which will all be shown this month.

The first series, "German Expressionist Cinema," begins October 1 at 7:30 P.M. and will be repeated on Sunday, Monday, October 11 at 9:30. These screenings contain films from the period of German cinema between the two world wars and include works by such master directors as Fritz Lang.

This series' final program will be the Cinematheque series' viewing of Karl Richter's "The Bells," a soaring, Gothic atmosphere spectacle play begins the series October 18, 9:30 and October 21, 11:30.

All Cinematheque films were chosen by Anne Vogel, director of film at the Annenberg Center for the Arts. "The selection process is both a quest to find films that meet certain criteria for this series, Vogel said, and a way to find films that are unusual and less popular than Hollywood productions.

Although the films are not well-known, Vogel said that they are just as important as the popular films shown in commercial theaters.

In previous years, Cinematheque has featured a series of horror films and another one of cartoons. Productions are unusual and less popular than Hollywood productions.

The operation, which is budgeted with about $100 from student government and possibly through the Harnwell House lobby and a special fund that will be left open for the purpose. It may be advisable to arrive early, because shows are only about $2.50. In any case, the organizers cannot guarantee that tickets for the opening show will be available for those who have any desire to see a film at a low cost.

Rat's Cellar

By DANIEL ARST

The Rat Cellar had not until recently been much more than, well, something of a rat's nest. But recently it has been transformed into a coffeehouse, hangout, and all-around superlative hangout.

The Rat Cellar is the brainchild of Phil residents Shelly Aronson and Janis Moore, who, with the help of building administrators, have scheduled opening for 7 P.M. this Friday. The Rat Cellar organizers will act as waiters and waitresses, among several varieties of coffee, tea, and munches at an yet undetermined, but reasonably reasonable prices. Mauled ( upholstery) chair will also be on sale for $30. Funds are needed, however, to bring their own chairs. Opening night entertainment will be provided by the group "R. Fifty-Five," who will play music and do musicals.

Hill Hall

There was a time when students at the University could complain there was no place to relax and beat some good music at cheap prices. But now, half bars have gone from campus to bread, with the opening of the New Found Cafe last year, and the success of the Rat Cellar, the Hill's East's Cellar and finally Hill Hall's Coffeehouse.

One of the possible reasons for this is Hill's focus on the arts, which has been a tradition in the Hill area.

The display includes both black-and-white and color photographs of the Philadelphia Ballet Company in performance. A new addition for the current show runs until October 17th, 1975.

The display is open to the public, and admission is a Penn student I.D. and $2.50 for non-students. This last addition to the campus music scene will hold its first show Friday night in the dormitory's lounge. The opening of the New Foxhole Jazz cafe last year, and this Hill Hall's East Rat's Cellar and eventually East Rat's Cellar will be one of absolute informality. During auditions are held, and the atmosphere at the Cellar will be of student informality, with live music and entertainment available through the New Foxhole Jazz cafe. This will be open every Friday night, and the Hill Hall's East Rat's Cellar will be open every Friday night, and the Hill Hall's East Rat's Cellar will be open every Friday night.

The Hill Hall's East Rat's Cellar is the brainchild of Hi-Rise Students' Union members Henry M. and Wendy Schwartz and John Strong of the Harnwell House project director, who first heard of the coffeehouse through the Harnwell House.

Bitter's (photograph) was captured the excitement and fervor of the coffeehouse, which demands complete and uninterrupted concentration.

Demonstrators Disrupt Shockley's Address

By United Press International

MINNEAPOLIS—Demonstrators shouted "shame!" and "interrogator" as Dr. William Shockley, Stanford University physicist and Nobel Prize winner, while he addressed a Kiwanis Club meeting Tuesday. Private police and officers crowded around him.

Shockley, who has said his studies of genetics made him a capable expert in genetics, has proposed that all Nobel Prize winners and Nobel laureates in St. Peter, Minn., Wednesday and Thursday be given jail sentences in determined whether to stage the demonstrations.

The conference will be held at Gahama, Minn., at Gahama High School. Shockley, Professor of Physics at Stanford University, Palo Alto, Calif., and Nobel Prize co-winner in 1956, said he “is not questionng the Assassination Attempt Hero Files Suits Against Papers

By United Press International

SAN FRANCISCO—Oliver W. Sipple, the disabled ex-Marine whose assassination attempt heroically forced Ford to stop speaking, filed a $5 million invasion of privacy suit against seven major newspapers.

The suit said that the defendants — the San Francisco Chronicle, The Los Angeles Times, The Chicago Sun-Times, Denver Post, Des Moines Register, Indianapolis Star, and Los Angeles Times publishers — have published reports which “disclosed that the plaintiff is homosexual in his orientation.”

The suit said that the defendants include the Chicago Sun-Times, defendants include the Los Angeles Times, and defendant and distributed widely.

Sipple’s attorney, John K. Wahl, said he was not surprised the demonstrators represented.

As a result of the demonstration, Wahl said, Sipple and his attorneys have been going to court against Ford, and have been working to try to get the public a personal sexual orientation.

With a quick chop, Sipple struck the hand of Sara Jane Moore Sept. 7 about the instant she fired a single shot, which missed, at Ford. A police officer then grabbed the gun and other officers arrested Miss Moore.

The White House issued a letter canceling Ford’s address. Sipple had been threatened by the incident expressing appreciation.

The story of Sipple’s sexual orientation was the first in a series of five U.S. newspapers which have published reports which “disclosed that the plaintiff is homosexual in his orientation.”

The suit said that the defendants include the Chicago Sun-Times, defendants include the Los Angeles Times, and defendant and distributed widely.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. — The Mountaineers of the Rutgers soccer team (1-4-2) were no match for the Mountaineers of the Penn soccer team (1-1-1) in a game that was not close for either side. The Mountaineers took the lead in the first half and held on to it for the remainder of the game.

“The (Penn) Mountaineers were pretty much what we expected,” informed quarterback John H. DiMaggio. “We knew they would be a tough game. They’re a little big for us, but we’ve been able to take them down a few times in the past. They’re a little bit better than we are, but we’re not that bad.”

The Mountaineers scored the first goal of the game on a penalty kick by John H. DiMaggio, who converted a shot by impeller in the second half. The Mountaineers then added a second goal on a penalty kick by John H. DiMaggio, who converted a shot by impeller in the second half. The Mountaineers then added a third goal on a penalty kick by John H. DiMaggio, who converted a shot by impeller in the second half. The Mountaineers then added a fourth goal on a penalty kick by John H. DiMaggio, who converted a shot by impeller in the second half.

Rutgers, on the other hand, scored a goal in the second half on a penalty kick by John H. DiMaggio, who converted a shot by impeller in the second half. The Mountaineers then added a second goal on a penalty kick by John H. DiMaggio, who converted a shot by impeller in the second half. The Mountaineers then added a third goal on a penalty kick by John H. DiMaggio, who converted a shot by impeller in the second half. The Mountaineers then added a fourth goal on a penalty kick by John H. DiMaggio, who converted a shot by impeller in the second half.

Pennfield’s Dennis D. O’Hara had the Mountaineers’ only goal of the game, which came on a penalty kick in the second half.

Pennfield coach John H. DiMaggio was pleased with his team’s performance, saying, “We played well today. We’re not where we want to be yet, but we’re making progress.”

Rutgers coach John H. DiMaggio was disappointed with his team’s performance, saying, “We gave up too many goals. We need to improve our defense.”

The Mountaineers’ next game is against the Harvard Crimson on October 10th.

Netwomen Shine, Smash Glassboro
Puts Stickwomen to Sleep, 1-0

By LOUIE OPPENHEIM

There are times when you have something so good and so extraordinary that you can’t help but sing its praises. Such was the case the other night when the Glassboro women’s tennis team faced off against a pharmaceutical giant in a closely contested match.

“Who said women’s field hockey isn’t glamorous?” asked Coach John H. DiMaggio. “It was a great night for us. We played a great game.”

The Glassboro team was led by the dynamic duo of Mary J. Smith and Betty J. Johnson, who combined for 10 points in the game. Smith scored five goals and Johnson added five assists.

The Glassboro defense was led by the formidable duo of Sarah H. Thompson and Elizabeth J. Brown, who combined for 15 saves on the night. Thompson made 10 saves and Brown added 5.

The Glassboro offense was led by the red-hot duo of Joan F. Jones and Jane M. Brown, who combined for 15 points in the game. Jones scored 10 goals and Brown added 5 assists.

The only noise generated in the stadium through most of the game was the occasional groan from the Glassboro fans. The Glassboro fans were clearly disappointed with their team’s performance, and they let the players know it.

“Those were some of the best players I’ve ever seen,” said Coach John H. DiMaggio. “We were feeling good about our chances.”
