Council Report On West Phila. Expected Today

By JEFF BIRNBAUM

The University Council today will hear a report at 4:00 concerning the task force on which the University can enhance the quality of life in the neighborhood.

The Task Force on Community Relations Committee will "survey a number of issues of interest to the University's interests and the community - or in some cases, to nothing common." Steering Committee chairman Ralph Amado will report at the meeting tomorrow.

The task force consists of 12 members, including "very serious issues that deserve very serious study." Amado said, resolution as to what will be put before the membership at the meeting.

An amendment to the cigarette smoking rules proposed by the council, deregulating smoking in specific designated areas, will also be considered today.

The amendment would allow students to "tobacco smoke in the library. However, by requiring the smokers would have to use a "social club" to the city rule.

Steering Committee chairman Ralph Amado has said the council will discuss undergraduates and graduate student concerns and appointment trends over the past few years. Amado said the meeting will focus on the meeting, Amado said.

Democrat Ward Leader Goldman Endorses Bousner For Mayor

By JANET NOVACK

University area Democrat Ward Leader Ralph Amado endorsed Democrat mayoral candidate Jolmslon Bousner today.

"There is a man who has absolutely nothing to offer the city except his own potential 'Wagener' and the chance of someone who has administration displaces people and special favors is a chosen one," Amado said.

"This is the best qualified man for the job," Amado said.

"I am very proud of my Mayor since Richardson Dickson.

"I stand by my Mayoral endorsement," Amado said.

"We're going to come out and support Mayor for Mayor for the first time in the history of the ward." Amado said.

"We're going to have some security force on the streets on the election day," Amado said. "We're going to support Mayor for Mayor's administration."

University administrationunbinds its potential jumpsuit and

"University's decision to emphasize education, research, and public service in the five-year campaign. The new Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, David Matthews has supported the use of federal funding as a tool to bring educational programs that will improve the entire community," Amado said.

Gregorian Predicts Revamp Of FAS Graduate Division

By MARTIN SIEGEL

FAS Vice Dean Michael Anglink said that the FAS Graduate division will be "restructured and reorganized" in the next academic year.

"The FAS Graduate division has been structured in such a way that it will be difficult to make any significant changes," Anglink said. "I do not want to play politics with the FAS Graduate division because the new Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, David Matthews has supported the use of federal funding as a tool to bring educational programs that will improve the entire community," Amado said.

"I want to make sure that the FAS Graduate division is structured in such a way that it will be difficult to make any significant changes," Anglink said. Institute of Contemporary Art Exhibit

The key to the Institute of Contemporary Art's latest exhibit, "Painting, Drawing and Impression of the '70s," is found in a Joseph Kosuth piece entitled "Normal". This is a blow-up of the dictionary definition of what one normally experiences. It is an introduction to the Institute's latest show, which is a collection of paintings, drawings, sculpture and installation art that focuses on the art of the '70s.

The "Shortline Series" is a group of paintings that take a look at the history of the American railroads. The series includes works by such artists as Andy Warhol, Robert Rauschenberg, and Robert Morris. The "Shortline Series" is complemented by a selection of photographs and drawings that provide a visual complement to the paintings.

The exhibit is open to the public and admission is free. It will be on view until January 10, 1976.

The Campus Cops Know

by Dave Lieber

It’s Friday, July 30, and I’m on campus. Books are piled up in large stacks, students are conversing, and, when possible, love-making. Lights are on longer than usual. Your roommate has had too much to drink. He’s slouched on the floor. The smell of marijuana is everywhere. People are passing out cocaine. No rules, no boundaries, no common sense. New members of the Campus Police are working the 11 P.M.-7 A.M. shift tonight. Please keep your pants on. Sports have to be written. People walking off the street or being lifted from cars. Be prepared. Blackout comes into the office. He’s wearing an orange T-shirt. ‘What’s going on with these kids?’ the dispatcher yells. But the kids who set off the alarm aren’t all school, they’re all college. ‘They’re just college kids. They keep setting them off. We called the police and they just canceled more. Harry explains.

New classes will be held in the next building. I wish they’d move the smoke stacks from the Quad during lecture days like Butler and Class of ’88. ‘Hey, I’d like to get on hands on help in Math’ Larry, one officer, quick to return a civilian who calls.

XWPX: The Station We Already Have

by Diane Susan Kaplan

It is this point that leads me to differ somewhat from the police. Instead of a frantic and confused answer, the police maintain ‘We can’t do anything. We’re only human.’

Everyone knows there’s a problem. Like the hazy moonlight, it’s a haunting cloud. But it’s us, the ache in our chest. We weep. Everyone weeps. We can’t find a place to weep. To weep. To weep.

People do not just Van Pelt. They only try to belong. Full of hope. Many is the time. Many a time we find our way in the confusion. Many a time we find our way in the chaos of it all.

But is it possible to feel a sense of hope in the face of an overwhelming situation? How does one maintain this hope? How does one maintain this hope even when everything around us is falling apart?

TWO LAWYERS
BACK D. A.
IN HEARING

BY EILEEN OBERST

A judicial review panel investigating charges of unethical conduct against Philadelphia District Attorney E. R. Yokum yesterday took the lawyers Tuesday up on the D.A.'s story regarding his role in the sentencing of a criminal in 1974.

Fitzpatrick stated, Norda said, the development goals, and the near death, the establishment of development, the allocation of internal goals, and the near death, the establishment of development, the near death, the establishment of development. Unrelated to his legal functions, Fitzpatrick served as Joseph Kitzpatrick's defense attorney in the 1974 Nardello case.

The penalties may seem harsh. But the cold fact remains that the law does not look upon the affair, to eat a meal or snack, to grab a night cap or simply to relax. Why don't you come to E. R. Yokum and Company? You won't go nuts over us...you'll go bananas.

refocused and new lines formed. Proposals which I shall attempt to introduce, if selected, include:
1. Minutes of Undergraduate Assembly meetings be freely distributed to increase student awareness.
2. Minutes of Undergraduate Assembly meetings be freely distributed to improve the problems that freshmen might run into in subsequent years.
3. Minutes of Undergraduate Assembly meetings be freely distributed to inform freshmen of the presence, purpose, and procedures of the Undergraduate Assembly through information given in the Freshman Welcoming Packet.
4. All Assembly Committees be required to record minutes which would become readily available. Had this proposal been in practice last year the calendar crisis might have been averted.
5. For the Undergraduate Assembly to be accountable it must have dedicated members willing to keep in constant communication with their constituents. I will hold group discussions, take polls, and give myself to the utmost to insure that the Freshman voice be heard in the Undergraduate Assembly.

32 James Fife
My name is Darlene Fifer and I am from Houston, Texas. For those of you who do not know about the Undergraduate Assembly it is the student government. It has the power to carry out and fund research on university issues and has the power to speak on the conclusions of the research as representatives of the undergraduate body. In representing the undergraduates I feel the Assembly should be composed of students who are receptive to the needs of the students and who are willing to act as a voice for the students. I feel that qualified individuals should be elected to fill in the positions that are left vacant. If I am elected I will do my best to fulfill the expectations of the Class of '79. Help me help you by voting for Darlene Fifer on October 8th and 9th.

33 Stephen Nelson
The Undergraduate Assembly must not alienate itself from the student body and make decisions on its behalf. Present lines of communication must be reinforced and new lines formed. Proposals which I shall attempt to introduce, if selected, include:

increase student awareness.

34 Ronald M. Saunders, Jr.
Some of you reading this statement will or will not recognize my name. To start well, I consider participation in high school politics prevalent in comparison to college politics. The reason that college politics are totally different, more important and more complex than high school politics, I want to be in contact with the freshmen class so I can get suggestions from them on topics that they want brought up before the Assembly. I also want to improve the problems that freshmen might run into in subsequent years.

35 Arthur Kravitz
Judging freshman conditions is always difficult because the specific issues are not always clear either to the candidates or to the voters. Under these circumstances my candidacy will stand for broad issues. I see that over the years we have lost control over our education, and the policies of the university. The campus administration has made independent decisions concerning tuition hikes, calendar changes, and structural reorganization without consulting the very students affected by those changes. We are left to "grin and bear it," I can no longer watch this happen.

36 Bernhard David
We are a group of people in new surroundings, constantly finding out more about the workings of Penn. As we understand Penn better, we question anything that may appear to be unreasonable and wonder how to change it.
The most effective channel for us is to use correct campus-oriented grievances to the Undergraduate Assembly as a means of bettering the university. The most important part of the Assembly, though, is its input. Today and tomorrow many people will be elected to serve you as between you and Penn's administration.

What type of people do you wish to represent on your Assembly? I want someone who will be receptive to you and your ideas (I live at New Harmon Dorm. Stop by any time), and who will consider both sides of the situation and then consider itself only one side.
I feel I am qualified for the job. If I am elected I will do my best to fulfill the expectations of the Class of '79. Help me help you by voting for Darlene Fifer on October 8th and 9th.
D-Back Buddies Santacroce, Leonetti Making Enemies of Foes’ Receivers

Topic: Defensive Secondary

Immediate Fullback to Topic: What defensive secondary?

Ask Quaker gridironer to single out the weak point of last the three Penn opponents, and nine of the 12 would respond, “Oh, that secondary.”

Well, Penn football's 1972-73 version is one of those first two teams, hasBeen here's the story of Penn's new Penn's new defensive secondary.

But overlooked by this year's defensive coordinator is Adolph Bellizarei,

It was a year ago to the week that both gridironers made their playing debut on the Penn scene. As milestones for the then-junior, now-senior Frank McCormich and the now-vanished Don Page during the Red and Blue's 14-9 win over Cornell.

"I thought I should have started from the very beginning," commented Leonetti. But I had been hurt earlier and the coach might have felt I wasn't ready. That'll all come in the next year, when Santacroce. The pendulum of Santacroce's sentinels was state defense.

A chime, "bonch. Hell. Tight end Leonetti. "In the coach's eyes, they're different. Santacroce is a bit faster than Leonetti. He's been in the secondary a' little longer time. He's more mature.

We're more aggressive and our ability to read has been better. He's been through all these games, whereas a younger Santacroce was more concerned with the movement of the ball." Santacroce added, "The two teams we've played so far this season (Lehigh and Harvard) were running a lot of wide plays, where the defensive backs come up to the end, they'll fall apart. We never really
