University of New York at Buffalo

Tuesday disclosed that former State

Ad Hoc Committee Meeting

System's Station Manager Named

was named to fill the newly created position of station manager for WXPN, a radio station. A list of some of these groups is:

panels and boards that have studied and advised the University on the troubled radio station. The Undergraduate Affairs Committee, for example, is charged with preparing the student body's input to the

President's ad hoc committee on the

establishment of a permanent Board of Trustees. In addition, the Student Safety and Security Committee has been meeting to prepare suggestions for the

President's ad hoc committee on the

establishment of a permanent Board of Trustees.

Students from the oil producing countries of Saudi Arabia and Kuwait, who have received scholarships to attend the University, have petitioned the university to change the name of their program from "International" to "Arab and Kuwaiti Studies." The students, who are citizens of those countries, claim that the present name is misleading and that it does not reflect their national identity.

The students have sent a letter to the President of the University, expressing their discontent with the current name of the program. They argue that the name "International" does not accurately represent their national identity or their studies.

The students have requested that the name of the program be changed to "Arab and Kuwaiti Studies." They believe that this will better reflect their national identity and their

studies.

The University has acknowledged the students' request and is considering changes to the name of the program. However, it has not yet made a decision on how to proceed.

SCU Guide Helpful But Has Usual Drawbacks

By JOHN MURPHY

The recently released SCU Guide may have scrutinized a number of its features. However, there are still serious drawbacks to this guide.

The SCU Guide is a comprehensive resource for students who are interested in attending the University. It provides information on academic programs,

financial aid, and student life.

However, the guide is not without drawbacks. One major issue is that the guide is not updated frequently. Many students have complained that the information in the guide is outdated.

Another drawback is the lack of interactivity. The guide is primarily written in text format, and there is little opportunity for students to interact with the information.

The SCU Guide is a valuable resource,

but students should be aware of its limitations before using it.

The University has been cited for violating the State Fire Code. This is the third citation the University has received in recent years. In 2017, the University was cited for not installing sprinklers in certain areas of campus. In 2018, the University was cited for not maintaining its fire

walls.

The University has promised to take corrective action to address these violations. However, it is unclear how long it will take to complete these repairs.

Indian Musicians Perform Thursday

BY ROCHELLE GORE

When Indian Lara Moin and Ladana Moin first came to the University in 1960 many people felt Americans did not have the concentration or dedication necessary to study the arts of India. However, the music students at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign in 1960 made a huge impact.

Since that time, not only have the instructors based at Penn studied and fabricated, but frequent concerts by Indians have provided the context to the instructive of Indian music. Through the two performances and Nancy Nallthandan, a teaching assistant in their music course, will perform in Houston Hall at 4:30 P.M. They will play the classical and folk music of India.

The second performance will be in the Zellerbach Theater. The performance will consist of tabla (drums) and the tamburin ( india drum). The tabla are played by the student Nancy Nallthandan.

Election Process

Organization, clarity and a clear delineation of procedures for exercising authority are the bedrock of a strong political process. The Undergraduate Organization, therefore, should consider the election process a priority. The recent events surrounding the Undergraduate Organization’s election have illuminated the need for a more thorough process for the review and appeal of UA elections must be established.

The NEC’s ruling on the recent election involving the deans and presidents of the various schools is a significant step in the right direction. It is clear that the NEC, charged with overseeing UA elections, voted to remove five candidates from the final ballot. The NEC’s ruling, the only ruling, will stand as the final decision if Condon certifies the election today, the NEC’s ruling, the only ruling, will stand as the final decision. If Condon certifies the election today, the NEC’s ruling, the only ruling, will stand as the final decision.

But a mechanism does exist for the review of the NEC’s ruling, a review that would remove any doubt about the decisions which have been made. The elected members of the judiciary should accept the responsibility for quickly and fairly reviewing appeals of their own decisions. If Condon certifies the election today, the NEC’s ruling, the only ruling, will stand as the final decision. The elected members of the judiciary should accept the responsibility for quickly and fairly reviewing appeals of their own decisions.

In the April 13, 1976 paper, the energy of the decision, but at the same time, which the present system has failed to recognize. The University Judiciary is established to resolve conflicts within the University community. As student leaders interested in student government, we agree that the University Judiciary should accept the responsibility for quickly and fairly reviewing appeals of its own decisions. Letters to the Editor

A Fair Shake for Minorities

Although the events of the last week strongly suggest that the Undergraduate Organization’s election was rife with errors, there is no evidence to date that the election was flawed. In our opinion, the school has seriously abused this power. The student body is legitimately concerned about the fairness of the election process. We urge all students to support the NEC’s decision and to actively participate in the Review Process.

Laxman Lieberman Passes Over F&M Diplomats

By MIKE LEXTON

Tonight at 7:00 PM, when many of the college town's regulars will be sitting down in their living rooms or perhaps settling to the TV for some spectator sport, Larry Lieberman will be in the middle of the action, wearing a Philadelphia University uniform and playing basketball.

Lieberman is a 27-year-old Caruthersville, Mo., native who has been playing basketball since he was 10 years old and has been on the court ever since.

Lieberman, a 6-foot-4, 210-pound guard, has played for the Philadelphia University men's basketball team for the past four years and has been named to the All-Region team three times.

He is expected to play against Juniata College tonight and to lead the Peacocks to victory.

Tennismen Stake Out State Title

By STEVE HALPERN

The Peacocks will be playing for the NCAA Division III national title at the National Tennis Center in Hempstead, N.Y., this weekend.

The Peacocks, who are ranked No. 1 in the country, are looking to win their third national title in four years.

The Peacocks have a strong team, with five players ranked in the top 20 in the country.

The Peacocks are favorites to win the title and are expected to face either Emory University or Trinity College in the final.

The Peacocks are looking to continue their streak of dominance in collegiate tennis.

Tennis player Na'hon Morris, representing the Peacocks, will likely be the focus of the final.

Morris, a senior, has been ranked No. 1 in the country for the past two years and is expected to lead the Peacocks to victory.

Morris is a fierce competitor and has won many titles in his career.

Morris is expected to face a tough challenge from the opposing team.

The Peacocks will be looking to continue their dominance in collegiate tennis and bring home the national title.

The final is expected to be a closely fought battle between the Peacocks and their opponent.
